STOCK PRICES UNSETTLED BY WEAKNESS IN OIL SHARES

Gains of First Hour Are Canceled, but List, Except for Vanadium and Goodyear, Is Inclined to Resist Pressure.

NARROW CHANGES IN COMMODITY MARKETS

Some Bright Spots Appear in Business News From Middle West—Petroleum Advices Pessimistic.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Liquidation of the oil shares, and uncovering of a few weak spots by bear traders, quickly reversed the price trend in today's stock market, after a vigorous effort to extend the rally of the closing sessions of last week.

The selling of the oils was regarded in brokerage circles as representing more than mere professional bear operations, and was somewhat damaging to the bull cause, but, save for sharp breaks in Goodyear and Vanadium, the list was, in the main, inclined to resist pressure. With few exceptions, the day's net losses were limited to a point or two.

Upturn in First Hour.

During the first hour, several shares advanced 1 to 4 points. Most of these gains were canceled before the close, but the rails, which constituted a heavy group last week, displayed a firmer tone. A tabulation of the first 20 roads to report July net operating income showed little change in relation to the like month of 1929, with a decline of 30 per cent. It was notable, however, that these roads showed an aggregate increase of nearly 18 per cent over June.

The break in Goodyear, which sagged to a new low at 54½, and closed at 55, off 5¾ points, reflected reports of curtailment of output, and failure of a leading mail order house to retain a recently announced increase in tire prices. Vanadium, although reporting net profit of $3.30 a share for the first half, included nonrecurring profit from dealings in securities in its statement, and is rumored in brokerage circles to have shown an operating loss in July. It closed with a loss of 6¾.

Loews, a recent pool favorite, lost 3 points, American Tobacco B, 2, and United Aircraft 1. Allied Chemical and Case closed about 3 lower, and shares recording net losses of 2 points included Standard Oil of New Jersey, Houston Oil, Standard Gas, and Great Northern preferred. Declines of a point or so were numerous among important stocks, including U. S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas, American Water Works, International Nickel, General Motors, Radio, Union Carbide, National Biscuit, and Sears Roebuck. In the oils, Sinclair duplicated the year's low, and new bottoms were touched by Rio Grande, Prairie Pipe Line, Shell Union and Skelly. Rivers, after advancing 4 points closed up only 1½.

Grain Off, Cotton Higher.

The commodity markets showed narrow changes. Wheat futures lost ¼ to ⅝ of a cent, on an increase in the visible supply. Corn closed barely steady, unchanged to ⅛ of a cent lower. Cotton, however, rallied after an early dip, to close 55 cents to $1 a bale higher.

Credit conditions remained stationary, with call loans commanding 2 per cent at the loan desk and 1½ outside.

Foreign exchanges were firm in the main, although sterling cables sagged ¼ to $4.87 flat. The Peruvian rate slumped reflecting political disturbances.

Liquidation of the petroleum issues reflected growing discouragement in speculative circles over the industry's earnings prospects, and the progress made at reduction of gasoline stocks.

News coming to hand over the week-end was meager, but had its bright spots. The demand for steel and steel products was reported a little more active at Youngstown and Chicago, although trade reports from Pittsburg were scarcely cheerful. Trade reports from Chicago also indicated some improvement in wholesale and retail buying in the Middle West.

Stock prices, with other tables and market news, will be found on pages 5C, 6C, 7C and 8C.

GERMAN ATLANTIC FLYERS LAND AT HALIFAX, N. S., ON THEIR WAY TO NEW YORK

Fog Forces Them Down Near Small Village After Take-Off at Queensport—Left Home Week Ago.

By the Associated Press.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 25.—The German seaplane D-1422, carrying Capt. Wolgang Von Gronau, German aviator, and his crew of three from Germany to New York, arrived here at 1:30 p. m. today after a one-stop flight from Queensport.

Because of heavy fog the four flyers were forced to land near the village of Marie Joseph on their flight from Queensport where they had taken off early this morning. Marie Joseph is about 75 miles east of Halifax. The flyers were guided by a Moth pilot plane of the Halifax Flying Club. The German crew planned to start for New York probably tomorrow.

At 8:30 a. m. the flying boat was set down at Marie Joseph. It had kept a true course through the fog, but the captain decided against an attempt to make Halifax until conditions were more favorable.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25. — The Dornier Co. of America received a cablegram from Germany today saying that Capt. Von Gronau, the German flyer who has crossed the North Atlantic, would come on to New York from Halifax. Officers of the company said they had received no word from Von Gronau as to the time of his arrival and had not yet arranged for his reception here.

The ship, they said, must land on water and Von Gronau probably would descend at either North Beach, Long Island, or at the battery.

Flyers Reached Nova Scotia Yesterday; Weather Bad.

By the Associated Press.

QUEENSPORT, Nova Scotia, Aug. 25.—Capt. Wolfgang Von Gronau, German aviator, and his three companions waited here today, after a flight across the Atlantic, for weather conditions to improve before continuing their journey to the United States.

Their ultimate destination in the United States was not announced, but the next stop is to be Halifax, about 180 miles away, where the flyers plan to take on fuel and oil. They arrived here yesterday from Cartwright Bay, Labrador, about 600 miles distant.

Their plane, a big Dornier Wal flying boat, one of two used by Roald Amundsen in his 1925 Arctic expedition, appeared over the harbor here at 1:45 p. m. yesterday, completing the flight from Labrador in six hours and 45 minutes. But for a heavy fog blanket and incomplete weather charts, Von Gronau explained, they would have gone directly to Halifax.

The aviators left the Island of Sylt in the North Sea on their transatlantic flight last Monday, keeping their destination secret. They flew to the Faroe Islands, thence to Reykjavik, Iceland, where they announced they were returning to Germany.

Friday the plane left Reykjavik, but chose a course toward Greenland instead of toward Germany, and after reporting position occasionally by radio landed at Ivigtut, Greenland, in the afternoon. Fuel had been sent on there and Saturday morning the plane continued to Cartwright Bay, Labrador. Departure from Cartwright Bay was at 7 a. m. Sunday morning.

The flight from Cartwright to Queensport Harbor is about 600 miles. The Germans made the distance in eight hours and 25 minutes. All the way across the Atlantic they maintained an average speed of 85 miles an hour, but fog slowed them down to about 70 on the flight here.

During the trip they were reported over the Magdalene Islands, 225 miles from Halifax, over St. Paul's Island, north of Cape Berton, and over North Sydney, Nova Scotia.

Von Gronau said, aside from the fog, they met with no difficulties on the flight.

The trans-Atlantic crossing is the third westward crossing of the North Atlantic, the other two, however, having been nonstop crossings. They were that of the Bremen, carrying Capt. Hermann Koehl, Baron von Huenefeld and Col. James J. Fitzmaurice, and that of the Southern Cross, captained by Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith. The first ended at Greenley Island, Labrador, and the second at St. John's, N. F.

Head of Flying School.

Von Gronau, who is chief of a commercial air service school in Germany, is a serious-minded aviator, greatly interested in the scientific and commercial aspects of flying. Each year his school sponsors one long flight. The journey last year to Iceland proved very profitable in meteorological information and flight data.

Besides Von Gronau there are aboard the ship Eduard Zimmer, aviation student; Franz Hack, mechanic, and a wireless operator

YOUTH GETS 6 MONTHS TERM FOR PLAYING "MEANEST TRICK"

Joseph Goodman Put Lighted Firecracker Down Back of Girl's Dress.

For dropping a lighted fire cracker down the back of a young woman's dress, Joseph Goodman, 20 years old, of 5602 Etzel avenue, was sentenced to six months in the Workhouse by Judge Butler in Court of Criminal Correction today.

Miss Mary O'Donahoe, 5606 Bartmer avenue, charging common assault, testified she was talking to a friend at Clara and Etzel avenues last July 4 when Goodman slipped up behind her, pulled open the collar of her dress and dropped the fire cracker. A physician told of treating a burn between her shoulder blades.

Goodman and two friends declared he had merely lighted a string of small fire crackers and tossed them on the pavement, inferring that the series of explosions had thrown a lighted fire cracker to Miss O'Donahoe's neck.

"This is one of the meanest tricks I have ever heard of," said Judge Butler.

HULK OF LA SALLE'S CRAFT REPORTED FOUND BY CANADIANS

Commission Authorized to Salvage Wreck of Le Griffin in Georgian Bay.

By the Associated Press.

SEHGUANDAH, Ont., Aug. 25.—The hulk of the first commercial vessel to ply the Great Lakes has been discovered in Mississagi Strait, off Manitoulin Island, in Georgian Bay.

A commission of three Canadians, after inspection of the craft, announced today they are convinced the vessel was the Le Griffin, commanded by a Danish pilot named Lucas, which was lost in a storm 254 years ago. The commission has received permission from the Ontario Department of Public Works to salvage the wreck.

The Le Griffin was the boat in which Rene Robert, Sieur de la Salle, expected to find an opening from the Great Lakes to the Mississippi River. After sailing lakes Erie and Huron, La Salle, in 1697, took on a load of furs at Washington Island, Lake Michigan, and started it back to Niagara in charge of the Dane and five seamen.

The vessel was last seen as gales drove it through the Straits of Mackinac.

MAN KILLED, HOTEL FLOODED WHEN ELEVATOR RUNS WILD

Car, With Repairer in It, Breaks Water Tank in New York Building.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—An elevator in the Hotel Gotham, in Fifth avenue, ran wild today, causing a flood and killing Andrew Dublin, an assistant engineer.

Dublin was repairing the car at the street level when it started upward suddenly, dropped to the bottom of the shaft, then shot to the top, crashing into a water tank on the roof. Water poured into the lobby and cellar. Dublin's body was found at the bottom of the shaft, half submerged.

FRENCH SEIZE 15,000 DRAWINGS OF GOWNS FROM 2 U. S. WOMEN

Paris Dressmakers to Unite in Prosecution of Pair for Copying Frocks.

Copyright, 1930, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (the New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

PARIS, Aug. 25.—Twenty Paris dressmaking establishments are expected to join in the prosecution of two Americans, Mrs. Caroline Davis and Mrs. Ida Oliver, who have been accused of violating the law by copying French frock models for American firms.

The case may have its first hearing this week, although, because of the complexity of the litigation, it is likely to drag. The lawyers for the complainants propose to bring two separate suits. The case will be stoutly defended, however, with the two American women contending that modes always have been in the open market and that no theft is involved in copying.

Some 15,000 documents and drawings were seized at the homes of the women.

SQUADRON IN LAKE ERIE WAITING TO SMUGGLE LIQUOR

Coast Guard Commander Asks for Planes to Help Locate Ships.

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Unmolested today in the Canadian waters of Lake Erie are four, possibly five ocean-going steamers laden with liquor. All are awaiting favorable opportunities to discharge their cargoes to small boats, which will dash through the American cordon of Coast Guard boats, if possible, and land cargoes on the shores of New York, Pennsylvania or Ohio.

The situation was brought to the attention of Washington by M. W. Rasmussen, commander of the Coast Guard in this district, who asked that Coast Guard headquarters send airplanes as eyes for the liquor chasers he commands.

Coast Guard boats, 75 in number, have been mobilized in American waters between points opposite Port Burwell, Ont., and Long Point, Ont. Much uncertainty exists as to the exact location of the big liquor carriers, for they move about, carry their own smaller boats, loaded, and are prepared to send them toward the American shore at favorable opportunities.

PARACHUTE LANDS PLANE SAFELY IN TEST AT DETROIT

Apparatus Weighing Less Than 100 Pounds Used; Pilot Alights in Tree.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 25.—A parachute device to bring airplanes safely to the ground in emergencies operated successfully in a test conducted here today.

The apparatus, carried in a tube beneath the fuselage, lowered a plane from a height of 2000 feet over Grosse Ile airport. The plane went down easily, the pilot giving no attention to the controls. It finally dropped into a tree, adding a hazard which those in charge of the test had not contemplated. The plane, however, was only slightly damaged and the pilot, Warren Smith was not hurt.

The apparatus used for a small biplane weighs less than 100 pounds.

GLADYS O'DONNELL WINS AIR DERBY WITH 5-HOUR LEAD

First to Arrive in Chicago in Pacific Class A Contest Which Started at Long Beach, Cal.

PILOT OF GLIDER HURT IN CRASH

Kenneth Carr, Detroit, Suffers Possible Skull Fracture — Amelia Earhart Watches Races.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—At the national air races today, at Curtiss-Reynolds airport, the finish of the Pacific Derbies held odds-on favor.

Gladys O'Donnell of Long Beach, Cal., crossed the finish line at 3:18 p. m. today to win the women's Pacific Class A derby from Long Beach.

Her elapsed time was more than five hours less than her nearest opponent, Mrs. Mildred Morgan of Beverley Hills, Cal. The last leg of the race was from Milwaukee. Mrs. O'Donnell is the mother of two children. Miss Jean La Rene took third place in the derby. Ruth Stewart of St. Louis was fourth into Milwaukee earlier in the day.

John Blum of Seattle arrived at 3:50 p. m. today to win the men's class A derby from his home town.

John Livingston, Aurora, Ill., continued to be the most consistent winner at the air races today after he and Freddie Lund, Troy, O., tied for first in the men's dead stick landing contest. The pair landed within 22 feet of the goal, a flag on the ground.

Art Chester, Joliet, Ill., raced to first place in the civilians' closed course event of 25 miles, averaging 112.29 miles an hour. B. W. Diggle, Kansas City, Mo., averaged 108.92 miles an hour, while the only other entrant, Lund, averaged 95.53 miles an hour.

Flying at a speed averaging 166.4 miles an hour, Charles S. Holman, Minneapolis, Minn., won the 50-mile civilian free-for-all race. He flew a Laird biplane. B. O. Howard, St. Louis, finished second. Errett Williams, Patterson, La., was third.

A 50-mile race between Curtiss fighting planes of the United States Marine Corps was won by Lieut. Sanderson. The next three in order were Lieutenants Burchard, Kerr and Shepard. Their average speeds were 142.36; 142.10; 140.59 and 139.25 miles an hour.

The takeoff of the nonstop speed classic from Los Angeles, Cal., has been tentatively set for tomorrow, dependent upon the weather. Adverse winds, the forecaster said, would probably continue until nightfall.

The four speed aces in the classic are Lieutenant-Colonel Roscoe Turner, veteran transcontinental flyer; Capt. William S. Brock, New York-to-Tokio pilot; L. F. Schoenhair, and Wiley Post.

Post, contest officials said, expects to carry two barographs, leaving one and refueling at the finish here and taking off again for New York in attempt to break Capt. Frank Hawks' west-east record.

Race officials said Capt. Hawks would land from New York before nightfall, his speedster rigged out with trimmer wings and a faster propeller—cable, they said, of a 300-mile-an-hour speed. The plane is entered in the chief race, the Thompson Trophy event on Labor day.

Charles S. (Casey) Jones, one of the nation's best known aviators and a veteran of barnstorming days, zoomed past the pylons at an average speed of 149.41 miles yesterday to win the 50-mile cabin-plane event.

Lieut. Wilson N. Newhall of the 108th Observation Squadron won the National Guard Liberty engine builder's trophy, averaging 129.75 miles for 10 laps.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is expected to arrive today.

The attendance the first two days of the meeting totaled 105,000, officials said.

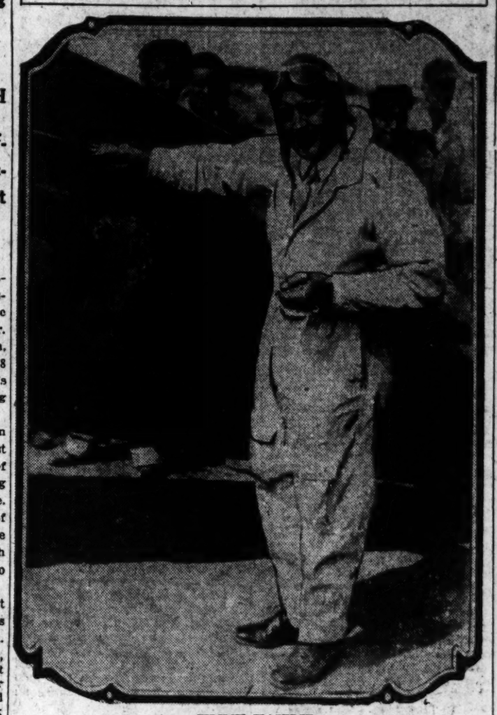

The first serious crash of the air races occurred early in today's program when a Franklin F. S. 2 type glider failed to release from its towline and nose-dived into the ground. Kenneth Carr of Detroit, the operator, suffered a possible fracture of the skull and was taken to a hospital.

Amelia Earhardt, first woman trans-Atlantic flyer, arrived here shortly before noon. She was accompanied by Henry Brown, vice president of the National Air Pi-

CAPT. GROW SEIZED BY REBELS AT CAMANA

He Is Reserve Officer Who Has Been Working With American Naval Mission but Is in Service of Lima Government.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25. —The American Embassy at Lima, Peru, advised the State Department today that Capt. Grow of the American Naval Mission to Peru, was captured by revolutionists at Camana on the morning of Aug. 24.

Acting Secretary of State Castle said the American Government would inquire of the Embassy regarding reports that a member of the American Naval Mission to Peru and an American executive of an aviation corporation had been arrested or detained. Representations, he said, would be withheld until full details were received.

Lieutenant-Commander Harold B. Grow of the naval reserve, holds the title of Captain in the Peruvian navy. Grow resigned from active service in the navy two years ago to accept an appointment as director-general of the Peruvian air forces. Although working with the United States naval mission to Peru, he was not attached to it because of his civilian status.

Grow was born in Greenville, Mich., 39 years ago. He was graduated from the naval academy in 1912.

Inquiries are being made by the Embassy regarding the seizure at Arequipa by the insurgents of an airplane of the Faucett Aviation Co. Faucett, an American citizen, listed at Washington as a resident of Savona, N. Y., who heads the company, is thought to be in Arequipa.

President Leguia Resigns and Flees on Warship.

By the Associated Press.

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 25.—A new government, a military junta, ruled Peru today following the regisnation and departure for Panama of President Augusto B. Leguia, who for 11 years has been the virtual dictator of the country. Leguia left on the cruiser Almiante.

Violence broke out in the afternoon, following the resignation and departure of President Leguia. Several members of a mob which ransacked the Leguia home were killed.

The mob broke in the door with a motor truck. Servants fired on the intruders and drove them back. Another group ransacked the home of the former Foreign Minister, Pedro Jose Rada Gamio.

Political prisoners at central prison demanded to be freed. The warden fired two shots into a crowd of men. They attacked him and a fire was started in the prison. Several were taken to a hospital.

When dissatisfaction grew in the country yesterday after news was received of a revolt at Arequipa led by Lieutenant-Colonel Sanches Cerro, the former Cabinet resigned and the President immediately dictated a new one.

About 1 o'clock this morning Leguia appeared at the government palace and began the ceremonies of swearing in the new ministry.

In a dramatic interruption Col. Leonidas Gonzales Mondemar rushed in to notify the President that a military committee had important news for him. Leaving two ministers unsworn, the President conferred with the officers' group and was told that his new Cabinet, headed by Gen. Fernando Sarmiento, was unsatisfactory. He was asked to resign and complied.

Thereupon the Junta announced formation of a new government in the following communique:

"In view of the difficult situation existing in the country, President Leguia has decided to resign

ROBBER SLAIN AFTER HE KILLS 2 U. S. OFFICERS

Emerick Fenatte, 21, Shoots Two Immigration Inspectors on Train Near Emo, Ont.

By the Associated Press.

FORT FRANCIS, Ont., Aug. 25. —Two United States immigration inspectors were killed yesterday on a Canadian National passenger train near Emo, Ont., by a 21-year-old robber who later was cornered in a farmhouse and mortally wounded.

The victims were Inspector Laurence Botes, 30, customs officer of Ranier, Minn., and Inspector Lawrence Jones of Warroad, Minn. The robber was Emerick Frenatte, of Fort Francis. He died last night in an Emo hospital.

The shooting was described today by George E. Ireland, conductor of the train. He met the robber in the vestibule between two coaches.

"I've just killed one man and if you don't do as I say, you'll be the second," the robber said.

"He told me that he wanted to go to Winnipeg and ordered me into the day coach, where there were quite a few passengers sleeping. After getting me to roll a cigarette for him, he made me sit a few seats away from him and facing him.

"Botes was sitting opposite. As the train neared a siding he got up and stretched upon which the robber shot him to death.

"The gunman then took me to the vestibule of another coach. At this point Inspector Jones, appeared at the entrance of the coach and asked where Botes was. I couldn't speak. The robber shot Jones."

Fenatte then marched Ireland through the train at the point of a pistol, but did not molest the passengers.

He forced Ireland to take him to the engineer's cab where he ordered Engineer J. R. Russell to start the train, which had stopped by trainmen who set the airbrakes from the rear after passengers had given the alarm.

Fenatte then ordered the engineer, brakemen and firemen out of the cab and started to rob them.

He refused to take the engi-

$100,000 DEPOSITS REPORTED MADE BY TAMMANY LEADER

Martin J. Healy's Account in Harlem Branch Bank Is Traced by Federal Investigators.

UNDER FIRE IN EWALD INQUIRY

During Three-Year Period Named, Income From His City Job Was Only $22,500.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Martin J. Healy, Tammany district leader, now under fire in the investigation of charges that George F. Ewald paid $10,000 for his appointment as City Magistrate, deposited approximately $100,000 in the Harlem branch of the Corn Exchange Bank during 1927, 1928 and 1929, according to information reported to have been prepared for the Federal authorities and which is to be turned over to them today.

During that time Healy's salary as First Deputy Commissioner of Plant and Structure—a job he had relinquished since he was drawn into the Ewald case—was $7500 a year. So far as Federal investigators have learned his deposits at the Corn Exchange Harlem branch, constituted his only bank account.

Today the full bench of the Appellate Division, first department, will decide whether it will undertake the general investigation of the inferior courts of Manhattan and the Bronx asked by Gov. Roosevelt.

Acting Presiding Justice Edward R. Finch and Gov. Roosevelt discussed the question yesterday at the Governor's home in Hyde Park, Dutchess County, where Justice and Mrs. Finch were luncheon guests. Doubt prevails that the Appellate Division will agree to undertake the investigation.

The Governor, it is thought, remains firm in his belief that the court, under the broad power conferred on it last winter, can inquire into the methods by which magistrates obtained their appointments. At least two of the justices of the Appellate Division, however, are known to doubt that their power is as broad as the Governor thinks it and to be very reluctant to place the court in the position of probing reports of the buying of judicial appointments during a political campaign.

GERMAN ATLANTIC FLYERS REACH COAST OF NOVA SCOTIA

named Albrecht. All are attached to the flying school at Warnemuende, Germany.

Interviewers found the Captain and his companions very modest regarding their achievement.

Soon after leaving Greenland, they lost their radio generator. Fortunately, a spare one was carried, and the loss occasioned no trouble. The flyers would have been able to make Halifax had their charts been sufficiently detailed. As it was, they thought it best to land here. The radio was chiefly useful in supplying weather reports, the Captain said.

German Papers Paid Little Attention to Flight at Beginning.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Aug. 25.—The feat of the Germans, led by Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, in flying across the Atlantic, was only scantily reported by the German press. Their arrival in Greenland and Labrador was treated as secondary news. Only today did two of the morning newspapers report arrival of the flyers in Halifax with front-page banner lines.

Gronau, who was born Feb. 25, 1893, entered the navy in 1911. After 1915 he devoted himself exclusively to seaplane flying. At the end of the World War he had risen to the rank of First Lieutenant. As head of the Army Commission charged with trying out new seaplanes he is credited by experts with many advances in German seaplane construction.

Assistant Pilot Eduard Zimmer is 26 years old. He was graduated recently from the Commercial Pilots' School of the island of Sylt, of which Gronau is the head teacher. Zimmer comes from Darmstadt.

It now develops that Gronau, with Eduard Zimmer, Franz Hack and Fritz Albrecht, recently made an extended flight over North Germany, evidently in preparation for their trans-ocean attempt.

Moritz Dornier told the Associated Press at Friedrichshafen that Von Gronau's seaplane, used in his flight from Europe to North America, is the same machine used by the English flyer, Courtney, in his attempted flight to America in 1926. Courtney was forced down at sea and was towed home.

Gronau's flight came just a year later than he had planned. When he landed on Iceland July 17, 1929, it was disclosed today, that he had intended to continue to America, but the German Transportation Ministry ordered him to desist, whereupon he returned by way of Edinburgh.

Then, as now, the German flyer had made the most careful preparations, but apparently the Ministry, in view of numerous accidents which happened about that time, declined to take the responsibility for his flight.

Mrs. Phoebe Omlie Leads Dixie Derby Into East St. Louis.

Mrs. Phoebe Fairgrave Omlie of Memphis, veteran cross-country pilot, was the first of five contenders in the women's Dixie Derby to land at Curtiss-Steinberg Field today after a 250-mile flight from Memphis.

Mrs. Omlie crossed the finish line at 11:21 a. m. for an average speed of 139 miles an hour. She had an uneventful trip. With a total elapsed time of 9 hours and 25 minutes, she is far in the lead in the derby which ends tomorrow at Chicago as part of the international air race program.

The derby began Friday at Washington and, including the flight to St. Louis, has taken the contestants over 1270 miles. Mrs. Omlie's Monocoupe has averaged 134 miles an hour.

Second into Curtiss-Steinberg field was Miss Laura Ingalls of St. Louis, holder of the world's barrell roll record and the women's consecutive loop record. Miss Ingalls sent her DH-Moth across the line at 11:52, having taken two hours and 17 minutes for the trip from Memphis. She reported bumpy traveling for the flight on which she averaged 110 miles an hour.

Mrs. Martie Bowman of Hempstead, N. Y. in a Fleet, was the third arrival, crossing the line a minute after Miss Ingalls had arrived.

Mrs. Nancy Hopkins of Garden City, N. Y., in a Kittyhawk, arrived at the East Side field at 1:35 after a four-hour trip from Memphis during which she landed for fuel at Ste. Genevieve, Mo. Mrs. Charity Faber Langdon in an Avro, crossed the line at 3:42, four hours and nine minutes after leaving Memphis.

The racers had luncheon at the field and hopped off at one-minute intervals beginning at 3 p. m. for Springfield, Ill., where they will spend the night. Tomorrow they have a stop at Elgin, before landing at Chicago.

STUDENT KILLED IN A FIGHT WITH ROBBERS AT PARTY

One of Three Arrested Admits Killing in Holdup of 40 Persons at Fashionable Cleveland Home.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 25.—Three men said to be members of a robber gang were charged by police today with the murder of Miller Wilkison, 21-year-old Princeton University senior, who was shot to death early today when the gang held up a party of 40 guests in a fashionable Shaker Heights residence here.

Police Lieutenant Fred Clarke said two of the arrested men, Mike Bell, 16, and his brother, Angelo, 20, confessed their part in the holdup and shooting, and named the third man arrested, Ross Valone, 18, as the engineer of the plot. Clarke said that Angelo admitted firing the fatal shot.

Both the Bell brothers were wounded in the leg, apparently by their own weapons, as they fled from members of the party and from police.

Wilkinson led a group of young men in resisting the robbers armed with rifles and pistols and was shot in the head.

Wilkinson was the son of Fred F. Wilkinson, dealer in investment securities.

The party was held at the home of Ray S. Dunham, real estate dealer, for friends of his son, Donald.

The elder Dunham said he was in the kitchen when his son ran in shouting, "get the police, five men are trying to rob us."

Dunham ran out to the garage, but was unable to get his car because of guests' machines. He ran to the front of the home, where he saw the young men backing the holdups off the porch.

"You guys are afraid to shoot. Why don't you start something," Wilkinson was saying to the robbers, Dunham said.

One man raised a rifle as if to fire and Wilkinson grappled with him. At the same time the other guests seized the other gunmen and a free-for-all fight started.

Meanwhile a neighbor had called the police and three patrolmen arrived while the scuffle was in progress.

Thought Holdup a Joke.

Guests of the party, given in honor of an engagement, at first thought the holdup men were practical jokers appearing to add a thrill to the evening.

The Bell brothers and a third youth, their faces masked with handkerchiefs and carrying two revolvers and a heavy rifle, made their way unnoticed into the living room of the mansion, guests told police.

Confronting the guests they gave the order to "Stick 'em up." There was suppressed laughter at first, and then many of the young women began slipping off their rings in attempts at concealment.

The robbers obviously were nervous and made no systematic attempt to gather the jewelry. "Easy, boys, don't shoot 'em," cautioned one with the rifle.

Crowd Robbers to Door.

The older men realized the situation and took advantage of it, crowding the robbers toward the door. One of them took to his heels through the rear, and Wilkinson and his friends soon were fighting the two brothers on the front lawn.

The other two holdup men stayed outside the house.

The Bell brothers, according to police, said they were driving home from a "target practice" when they saw the lighted windows of the Dunham house and the string of cars outside and conceived the idea of robbing the party.

Cleveland police found three revolvers, two rifles and 500 rounds of ammunition at the Bell home. Their father, Andrew Bell, 39, was held for questioning.

Wilkinson was manager of the Princeton hockey team, his friends said.

DROUTH SITUATION BETTER IN 5 STATES, HYDE REPORTS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Improvement in farm conditions in five states affected by the drouth was reported to President Hoover today by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde upon the latter's return from an automobile tour with experts of the agriculture department.

"I feel much better about the situation," Hyde said on leaving the White House. "While the loss is there, pastures are not permanently injured."

Hyde, with Dr. Harry N. Vinall, specialist on southern pastures in the Bureau of Plant Industry, and John B. Shepard, Bureau of Crop Estimates, made a four-day trip through Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Southern Indiana and Southern Ohio.

"I think probably the worst affected area in the drouth-stricken sections we visited was the Shenandoah Valley in Virginia," Hyde said, adding: "In a general way the loss of the corn crop is at least as great as estimated, but the hopeful thing is that the rains are bringing back the pastures.

"Even in the areas in Kentucky which we were doubtful about and thought would be ruined are beginning to get green. The farmers are turning cattle on them."

Fenatte fled, pursued by posses. He was surrounded in a farmhouse at Barwick, Ont., whose occupants he drove out. Many shots were exchanged, Fenatte daring the police to "come in and get me." Finally the house was set on fire and Fenatte was shot as he ran out.

In the hospital he told police he had lost both his job and his girl and was desperate. He expressed regret for the killings, but said he had heard American officers were quick to shoot.

and will be replaced by a government junta, appointed by army institutions, as follows:

"President and Minister without portfolio, Gen. Manuel Ponce.

"Foreign Affairs, Naval Capt. Julio V. Goicochea.

"Government and Police, Col. Eulogio Castillo.

"Justice and Public Education, Lieut. Arturo Zapata.

"Finance and Commerce, Col. Ricardo Llona.

"Public Works, Sergeant-Major Eduardo Castro Rios.

"Marine and Aviation, Rear Admiral Cesar Bielich.

"This Junta also will include Lieutenant-Colonel Sanchez Cerro when he arrives at Lima. (Sanchez Cerro began the Revolt.) A special commission will fly to Arequipa to inform Sanchez Cerro of these events."

A censorship, which had held up news of the changes since last night, was lifted today. The country is quiet.

The revolution began in Arequipa and spread to seven other departments immediately.

Leguia is 67 years old and for many years has been a storm center in Peruvian politics. He received his early education in Chile and served in the Peruvian army from 1879 to 1881. Later he entered business and became head of the Latin American department of an American insurance company. In 1903 he turned his attention to politics and five years later was elected president. Trouble developed quickly and in May, 1909, a revolution broke out in Lima which nearly cost him his life. The revolt was put down and he finished his term with foreign complications.

In 1913 Leguia was driven into exile and for six years was forced to remain out of his native land. In 1919 he returned to Peru and was again elected president. Asserting that he had been warned he would be prevented from taking office, he headed a revolt and seized the Government by a coup d'etat.

Since then Leguia has remained in power, the constitution being amended in 1923 and again in 1927 to permit his re-election.

American Investments in Peru Exceed Those of All Other Nations.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—American investments in Peru are said to exceed those of all other foreign countries combined. Mining operations, Petroleum and public utilities were listed as the three major fields for American investment. However, with the exception of the Guggenheim interests, which penetrate the length of the republic, most of the American capital is lodged in Lima and in the northern section. The Cerro de Pasco mine of the Guggenheim interests lies just north of the city of Arequipa, which is reported to be in the hands of the insurgents. Guggenheim properties extend north and south throughout the country.

Among the American concerns operating largely in Peru are W. R. Grace & Co., with large sugar holdings, and the Foundation Co., building and bonding concern, operating extensively in the Lima area. The Bertram Lee concession for building a railroad from the Eastern Andean slope in the northern part to the Pacific coast is another American interest. Exploitation of oil fields and colonization projects is involved in this undertaking. The concessions recently was transferred to W. R. Davis of New York.

Ticket Sales for Season Total $463,435, an Increase of $136,499 Over Last Year.

DEFICIT IS LIKELY DUE TO EXTRA COST

Rain Checks Were Needed on Only Two Nights — "Show Boat" Second Week Broke Record.

The official compilation of attendance and ticket sales at the Municipal Theater in Forest Park was issued by the Municipal Theater Association today following the close of the twelfth summer season with the final performance of "Show Boat" last night.

Attendance at the 85 performances of the season totaled 683,593, which is 182,367 more than attended the 81 performances last year. Ticket sales were $463,435.50, an increase of $136,499 over last year. The official figures are substantially in accord with estimates published in the Post-Dispatch yesterday.

Although attendance and ticket sales both made new high records, directors of the association, discussing the likelihood of a deficit, inasmuch as expenditures also climbed to a new high figure. The net result of the season's finances will not be known, however, until the completion of an audit which was begun today.

Last Week Is Best.

The second and final week of "Show Boat," with attendance of 67,720 and ticket sales of $69,975, proved the most popular week of the theater's history, topping by $685 the record of "Rose Marie" in 1927. "Madam Pompadour" was the least popular of the summer's productions.

Attendance and ticket sales for each of the 12 weeks of the 1930 season follow:

"Nina Rosa," (10 performances), 69,243—$50,000.25.

1700 Nightly in Free Seats.

The attendance figures include an estimate of 1700 nightly in the free sections of the theater. The total of 144,500 for the 85 performances, while 529,093 reserved seats were occupied. Only two performances were abandoned because of rain. Last year the total served attendance was 363,5[illegible], when the attendance in free seats was estimated at 137,700.

In addition to a greater expenditure for cast, chorus, costumes, stage settings and other production costs, directors of the association have pointed out that nearly $35,000 was spent, before the season opened, for plant improvements including a revolving stage, new electrical equipment and back stage improvements. Although these improvements are a permanent nature, they will be charged against the expense of the 1930 season.

Shubert Makes Speech.

The final performance of the season closed with a brief speech by Milton I. Shubert who, as general productions manager, has supervised the season. Brought to the footlights by Guy Robertson, Shubert praised the cast, chorus, musicians and association directors for their co-operation in the venture.

With the close of the season Robertson, Leonard Ceeley, Sheehan and George Anderson have been re-engaged by Shubert to appear in the New York opening of "Nina Rosa," which opened the Forest Park season after a run in Chicago. Miss Lillian Dupree, dancer, also will appear in the New York "Nina Rosa," as will St. Louis girls selected by Shubert from the Municipal Theater opening chorus.

Indiana Farm Family on Way to Town for Water at Time of Crash.

By the Associated Press.

ST. ANTHONY, Ind., Aug. 25.—A trip from a farm to St. Anthony to obtain water, needed because of the extended drouth, resulted in six members of a family being killed and three seriously injured when their automobile was struck by a Southern Railway freight train yesterday.

Besides Hedinger, those killed were his brother, Theodore, 11; his sister, Irene, 10; his mother-in-law, Mrs. John Bieker, 55, and her two grandchildren, Leola and Bernice Bieker, 8 and 4 years old.

MINNEAPOLIS-NEW ORLEANS SWIMMER REACHES ST. LOUIS

Fred Newton Resting Here Today, Will Continue Journey Down River Tomorrow.

Fred Newton of Clinton, Ok., who is attempting a 1850-mile swim down the Mississippi River from Minneapolis to New Orleans, rested in St. Louis today and will continue the trip tomorrow.

Newton, who is 27 years old and a showcard painter, arrived at the foot of Olive street at 6:07 o'clock last night, after completing a 25-mile swim from Alton in six hours and 50 minutes.

The stop here today is being made to permit physical examination of the swimmer to guard against any serious results of the endurance attempt, and to work out a schedule of the next 360 miles of the trip from river charts available here, according to Frank S. Newton, brother of the swimmer and his manager.

Another brother, Byron Newton, 17 years old, follows him in a rowboat during the swim as a protective measure. Several hundred persons witnessed the arrival of Newton. He is stopping at the Mark Twain Hotel.

TEXTILE MILLS RESUME WORK

Some Bessemer City Strikers Don't Accept Agreement.

By the Associated Press.

BESSEMER CITY, N. C., Aug. 25.—The two textile plants of the American Mills here, whose 700 employes walked out last Monday in protest against a wage cut, resumed operations today with a partial force.

George R. Spencer, superintendent of the mill, asserted "practically all" the strikers returned to work, but this was denied by strike leaders, who placed the number at "about half." An agreement for ending the strike was reached Saturday, the management promising to restore the wage scale to the level in force before the strike. The strikers receded from a demand for a reduction in rent on houses owned by the mill.

WANTED HUSBAND SLAIN BUT SAYS SHE LOVES HIM

Mrs. Ella Bartel Admits Offering $750 to Policeman, Who Posed as Gunman, to Murder Spouse.

Warrants charging conspiracy to murder Albert Bartel, 45 years old, a blacksmith, 2528 Elliott avenue, were issued today against his wife, Ella, 41, and Robert Hahn, 32, who lives in rooms above those occupied by the Bartels.

Mrs. Bartel has admitted agreeing to pay $750 to have her husband killed. When she decided to get rid of him, she said, she asked a friend, Roland Hughes, 2302A Sheridan avenue, to kill Bartel or have someone else do it. Hughes reported the request to Dayton street police and Probationary Patrolman Charles Calcaterra, in civilian clothes, was assigned to pose before Mrs. Bartel as a Chicago gangster willing to do the job.

I nthe presence of Hughes and Hahn, Mrs. Bartel made the $750 offer to Calcaterra, saying she expected to pay him out of $2657 insurance on Bartel's life made out in her favor. She and Hahn signed a promissory note for $750, payable after Sept. 1 to Calcaterra "for services." It was agreed that Bartel was to be killed on his way home in his machine from his place of employment, an automobile body firm at 1217 North Broadway. Mrs. Bartel gave Calcaterra a photograph of her husband and a description of his machine and asked to be notified in advance in order to give her and Hahn a chance to call on relatives and establish an alibi.

Today, Mrs. Bartel, a heavy-set blond, related a series of alleged cruelties since her marriage in 1911, leading up to her decision to have her husband killed.

"My husband has always been cruel to me," Mrs. Bartel said. "The only way I can explain my decision to have him killed is that I was just getting over one of his beatings. The idea never occurred to me until last Friday. I am glad it didn't happen, because I love him, although I was never able to convince him of it. He had always been suspicious of me. He refuses to let me prepare his meals because of fear of being poisoned and never accepts my explanations of how I spend the $20 or $30 a week he gives me.

"Last Friday I decided to try to get my old job back in a factory. Hahn happened too be on the same car and when we got off to transfer to another line, he suggested we get a drink. While in the saloon, we met Hughes and it was then the idea occurred to me to have my husband killed. I can't explain just how it happened."

THREE, ADRIFT 60 HOURS IN GALE AT SEA, SAVED

Fishermen in 33-Foot Boat Are Towed Into Portsmouth, N. H., by Coast Guards.

By the Associated Press.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 25.—Three Portland (Me.) fishermen, who had been missing in their 33-foot power boat since Thursday night, when they put out for Jeffreys Ledge, were towed in here yesterday by Portsmouth harbor coast guardsmen. The guards sighted the disabled boat wallowing in heavy seas two miles southeast of Wallis Sands Station.

The fishermen, Capt. Antonio Raduano, 26 years old; Cimino Antonio, 30, and Rasari Cino, 23, had been adrift for 60 hours in the worst northeast storm of the summer. They were near collapse, without food and fresh water. They had bailed feverishly to keep the craft afloat after the motor went dead.

Flares every night and an improvised distress signal made out of a small jib had failed to attract attention from ship or shore in the thick weather until yesterday morning, which dawned clear. The fishermen said they were driven before the storm at least 50 miles. Then the wind changed and they were driven back again toward this port.

On Friday morning in thick weather the three-masted schooner yacht Geneva, but of New York, passed so close that the fishermen could see the steersman at the wheel, but the big craft did not sight them.

Still Going Through Critical Stage of Illness, However.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 25.—Lon Chaney, "the man of a thousand faces," was fighting his way through the critical stage of his battle against pernicious anemia today. Undergoing a third blood transfusion Saturday night after two previous transfusions had failed to help him, the film actor lingered for hours in a grave condition, but took a definite turn for the better yesterday. Last night hospital attaches said he was "much better."

Chaney entered St. Vincent's Hospital here Aug. 15 after returning from New York, where he suffered a severe attack of pneumonia. Early last week his condition became serious and the blood transfusions were resorted to. Mrs. Chaney has been a constant visitor at her husband's bedside.

WOMAN HELD ON CHARGE OF SHOOTING NEGRO ON CAR

When Arrested, She Says She Drew Revolver and He Attempted to Seize It.

Kitty Williams, 27, a Negro, was arrested early today at her home, 2634½ Franklin avenue, on a charge of shooting Charles Taylor, 38, Negro waiter, on a Hodiamont street car yesterday afternoon. Taylor, who lives at 4302 West Belle place, is at City Hospital No. 2 with wounds of the head and right hand.

In a statement to police, the woman said the shooting was caused by jealousy. After watching Taylor board the car at Ninth and Locust streets, she entered a taxicab and caught up with the car several blocks away, she said. She sat with Taylor and they quarreled. When he arose to leave the car at Whittier street she drew a revolver from her purse. Taylor attempted to seize the revolver, which was discharged, according to the statement. The bullet passed through Taylor's hand, struck him in the mouth and lodged in his neck.

The passengers and crew were thrown into confusion by the shot, and the woman, dropping the revolver, left the car and escaped.

SAYS FINDING OF ANDREE'S BODY PROVES HE MADE FLIGHT

Excelsior Springs (Mo.) Physician Answers Critics Who Said Explorer Lost Nerve.

By the Associated Press.

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., Aug. 25.—Dr. Alexander Neuman of Excelsior Springs, whose sister married a brother of Salomon August Andree, Swedish explorer, who perished 33 years ago in a balloon expedition to the North Pole, thinks the discovery of Andree's body last Friday will silence critics who charged he had lost his courage and never attempted the flight.

"I am glad the body has been found," Dr. Neuman said. "It will be an answer to those in the Scandanavian countries who have kept alive a report that Andree never started for the pole. They would have it that he and his companions lost their nerve and that they used their balloon only to get away from Spitzbergen."

Dr. Neuman, who came to the United States in 1892, said his sister, Mrs. Greta Andree, was the widow of a brother of the explorer.

POSSES SEEK 10-YEAR-OLD GIRL AND KIDNAPER

Child Is Taken by Farm Laborer From Indiana Home in Auto While Her Parents Are Away.

By the Associated Press.

VALPARAISO, Ind., Aug. 25.—Hundreds of men searched the Kankakee River bottoms today for a farm laborer and the 10-year-old girl he kidnaped.

The girl, Betty Jane Foster, was abducted from her farm home Saturday night by Claude Dillner, 27 years old, who formerly worked for the girl's father, Ernest Foster. Dillner left a note, found yesterday, in which he said he was in love with the child, but would kill her if the police were notified.

Neighbors, friends and police of six counties joined in the search. Last night a report was received that an automobile containing a man and a girl had been seen on a little-used road in the river bottoms and that the man had driven to one side in an apparent effort to avoid being seen.

Twelve posses headed for the swamp land and today were closing in on the district from which the report came.

Dillner visited the Foster farm Saturday looking for work. The Fosters had enough help, but he was invited to dinner. After the meal the parents went to a neighbor and Dillner took Betty Jane and two other children to a nearby village where he bought candy for them.

When they returned to the farm, the other two children said, Dillner let them out, but pulled Betty Jane back into the car and drove off.

A note, signed by Dillner, and found yesterday on the farm, said: "I have planned to do this thing for a year, but never had enough money until now. I'm in love with this girl and am taking her with me. They have been trying to keep us apart, but now I've got her. I will kill her if the police are notified, but she will not be harmed otherwise."

The note said that Dillner intended to take the child to the home of a sister in Portland, Ore. He had wanted to steal the girl last year, he wrote, but had felt that he was not in a financial position to do so. Now, however, he is able to take care of her, he added.

Police learned that Dillner had deserted from the navy. The automobile several years old and of low price, was equipped with a radio.

Skeleton of Prehistoric Indian Chief Found on Ontario Island

Discoverers Think He Was Buried 500 to 1000 Years Ago — Marks on Trappings Antedate French Explorers.

By Radio to the Associated Press.

LA CLOCHE ISLAND, GEORGIAN BAY, Ontario, Aug. 25.—An Indian chief buried with all his treasures 500 to 1000 years ago has been found by archeologists of the McDonald-Warren Foundation expedition exploring ancient graves in this area.

The skeleton will be removed to the Warren Foundation at Three Oaks, Mich., together with the treasures taken from the grave.

Dr. George R. Fox, archeologist, who headed the party of scientists that came here from Chicago last month aboard the yacht Mispah, in command of Eugene F. McDonald, Chicago explorer, yachtsman and radio manufacturer, unearthed the skeleton after days of labor, aided by a crew of excavators.

That the Indian was of an era of civilization unknown to the white man is the belief of Dr. Fox and Dr. Alvin Laforge, Chicago, because of the bear tooth necklace, a shell necklace, stone heads and arrow and spear heads which did not bear any markings except those of the Indian tribes which inhabited this section prior to the coming of the French and English explorers.

The absence of glass beads, silver ornaments, cloth, iron implements and other trinkets common to the graves of Indians known to have been friendly with white traders and trappers, is considered further proof that the Indian unearthed by the expedition was of an age long before this land was trod by white persons.

The discovery was made after a long steel probe struck a stone cairn buried in the sand.

The Indian had been honored, the archeologists believe, by his bear tooth necklace, indicating fearlessness of wild animals. A shell necklace, a group of fine spear points of quartzite, cherts and ryolite, a huge stone weapon of cherts, and a stone head completed the articles found.

Canadian Flyers On Way to North Magnetic Pole.

By the Associated Press.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 25.—On a flight to the north magnetic pole, over thousands of miles of Arctic wastes never before visited by white men in the summer season, Pilot W. E. Gilbert and Maj. L. T. Burash, Canadian explorer, should be on the shores of King William's land today.

No word was received from the radio-equipped plane yesterday, but Saturday a start was made from Fort Hearne under favorable conditions, and King William's land shores would have been reached within a few hours. They planned to stop there for observations and photographs.

From William's Land the flight will be to the north magnetic pole, which it is expected they will reach in three or four days.

The north magnetic pole which the Canadian explorers will seek is not the porth pole which usually is the goal of Arctic explorers. It is the point to which the needle of a mariner's compass swings.

The magnetic pole changes from time to time, but it is roughly nearly 1500 miles from the north terrestrial pole. One recent position computed was that of latitude 71 degrees north, longitude 96 west, or in the southwest portion of Boothia Peninsula, northernmost part of the Canadian mainland.

FUGITIVE DRIVER HELD, ADMITS STRIKING MAN

Henry Hunter, Negro, Arrested Following Injury of Harry Hunt, a Collector.

Henry Hunter, Negro chauffeur, was arrested at his home, 4307 Cote Brilliante avenue, early yesterday on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident in which Harry C. Hunt, 52 years old, a collector, 3629 Easton avenue, was seriously injured.

Hunt suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries at 10 o'clock Saturday night, when struck by a sedan in front of 3220 Easton avenue. A description of the car and part of the license number, furnished by witnesses, was broadcast over the police radio and three hours later policemen found the machine parked in front of Hunter's home.

Hunter admitted striking Hunt, police say, explaining he became frightened and drove home, where he drank some whisky. He was taken to City Hospital, where physicians pronounced him intoxicated. He is held pending the outcome of Hunt's injuries. The machine is owned by Leo Jacobs, of the Majestic Hotel, Hunter's employer.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Noel, 3322A Vista avenue, were injured when struck at Eighteenth and Olive streets by a machine driven by Milo A. Coffmann, 5560 Pershing avenue. Noël was cut and bruised and his wife, Ida, suffered a fractured leg and head injuries.

BEATEN BY THREE MEN

Norman Kirkwood, 32, was severely beaten by three unidentified men as he sought to enter his rooming house at 6811 Michigan avenue last midnight. He could not ascribe a reason for the attack.

The men knocked Kirkwood down and kicked him, breaking his nose. Police learned of the assault when an officer noticed blood stains on the sidewalk in front of the house and investigated.

MRS. HOOVER HAS HIGHWAY NEAR SUMMER CAMP LAID OUT

20-Mile Road to Be Built in Blue Ridge Mountains for Tourist Travel.

By the Associated Press.

ORANGE, Va., Aug. 25.—At the instance of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, the Virginia Conservation Commission has staked out a 20-mile stretch of scenic Blue Ridge Mountain country near the Hoover camp as the first link in the main highway to traverse the Shenandoah National Park.

Work on the road, to be known as the Hoover Highway, probably will start in the fall, and officials expect it to be ready for tourist travel by next summer. Eventually the main highway will be continued up and down the great mountain ridges and probably will reach from Front Royal on the north to Staunton on the south.

The first link to be staked out skirts the President's Rapidan River lodge, crosses the Marine Guard camp a mile away, and continues to Hawksbill Peak, the highest in the Blue Ridge range in Virginia. From its 4000-foot summit the highway will continue to Crescent Rock, and will follow the backbone of the mountain ranges over the Skyland and Stony Man Mountain. From there it will trail down the mountain and exit at Luray.

POLICE RAIDING BOHEMIAN CLUB TAKE 58 TO JAIL

Cabaret in Levee District Visited at 2:30 A. M. — Many of Those Booked Give Fictitious Names.

Thirty-four men and 24 women rode in police patrols early yesterday after a raid on the Bohemian Night Club, Commercial and Market streets. A few furnished bond at Police Headquarters, but the majority, concealing their identity under fictitious names, spent five hours in the holdover until they were released unconditionally at 3 a. m.

Sounds of revelry had echoed through the quiet river-front district for several hours when the patrols pulled up at the place at 2:30 a. m. As uniformed patrolmen swept in the one entrance, merrymaking was replaced by the sound of breaking glass as bottles crashed to the floor beneath the tables.

From the litter of broken glass, the raiders salvaged eight unbroken bottles containing gin and whiskey. Men and women, including the proprietors, Albert Warner and Albert Reynolds, and their employes, were marshaled into patrols. At headquarters, a page of the blotter was filled with Smiths and Jones, most of whom it appeared were employed as salesmen and stenographers.

Among the Yes who made no secret of their identity were Wally Vernon, master of ceremonies at the Missouri Theater, and his bride, Mrs. Billie Vernon. Vernon arranged bond for his party of seven persons.

Dissatisfied with their work, the raiders returned at 1 a. m. today and found another pint of gin on the floor. Warner was re-arrested and was taken to headquarters with a Negro porter and two men customers. Inasmuch as both raids were made without the formality of a search warrant, there will be no prosecutions.

The "Commercial Club," 705 North Eighteenth street, was raided Saturday night by police who arrested Joseph Higgins, the manager, and seized a quantity of beer, whisky and gin. The raiders reported that the place was fitted with lounging rooms, barroom and other accessories of a club, while the third floor contained a complete bottling plant with caps and labels for various brands of whisky and gin.

Raiding the home of George A. Warrame, 67 years old, an electrician, 3946 Lindell boulevard, on a tip that beer was sold there, police arrested Warrame and seized 136 bottles of beer and five pints of whisky.

CENTRAL TRADES OPPOSES ONE-MAN STREET CARS

Unions Declare Such Service Is Virtual Return to Horse Trolley Service.

A resolution opposing one-man street car service was adopted by the Central Trades and Labor Union yesterday.

Speakers representing the Car Men's Union described one-man operation on the Creve Couer, Kirkwood-Ferguson, and Southampton lines as dangerous to car riders and other traffic, and a return to "horse car days." An extension of the plan will increase unemployment, speakers said. Union secretaries were instructed to address letters protesting against one-man cars to the Public Service Commission, the Board of Aldermen, and the Public Service Co.

Ignatius J. Bauer, representing the Public Ownership League, explained plans for presenting a proposed ordinance for public ownership of the street railway system to the Board of Aldermen, or by referendum to the voters.

HOOVER PARTY ATTENDS MARINE SERVICES

President Returns to Washington From Rapidan Where He Studied Waterway Problem.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Invigorated by the brisk air of the Virginia Mountains President Hoover returned to Washington today.

Nights under thick blankets, evenings around wood fires, furnished the President's camping party with a novel experience after a summer of sultry heat.

Following his recent custom of devoting each week-end to the consideration of a different governmental activity, the President spent much time during the last two days in a study of the inland waterways and Federal flood control.

In conference with Major General Lytle Brown, Chief of Army Engineers and other officials Mr. Hoover decided upon acceleration of the lower Mississippi flood control work and of waterway projects already being developed.

Besides taking advantage of the low water stages on most rivers and particularly the Mississippi, this speeding it is believed, will stimulate business in territory seriously affected by the drouth and unemployment.

Army engineers today were preparing data with a view to carrying out President Hoover's decision to speed up work on waterways projects. Secretary Hurley said the purpose was to assist localities through relief of the unemployment situation. The plan, he said, would be to spend more money immediately where unemployment is most serious.

Hurley said the inspection trip of the Mississippi waterways projects, flood control and rivers and harbors works which he will start from Minneapolis and extend to New Orleans about Sept. 1, will afford an opportunity of studying the situation intimately with a view to advising the President.

He will take with him Major-Generals Brown and Thomas Q. Ashburn, chairman of the Inland Waterways Corporation.

Yesterday the President, Mrs. Hoover and a number of guests attended religious services at the marine camp near the Presidential retreat. It was the first time such Sunday observance had been held by the guard.

FIRST POLISH LINER ARRIVES IN NEW YORK TOMORROW

Vessel Coming From Gdynia, Newly Created Seaport on the Baltic.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The Polonia of the Baltic-American line, the first ship ever to carry the Polish flag on a voyage across the Atlantic, will arrive here tomorrow from Gdynia, a newly created seaport on the Baltic Sea.

The arrival of the vessel will be of great importance to the various Polish-American associations in New York and representatives of each will be members of a Reception Committee which will board the ship at Quarantine, and proceed on board to the Bush Terminal in Brooklyn. Two other ships flying the Polish flag, the Pulaski and the Kosciusco, soon will arrive from Gdynia.

Although Poland had access to the sea through the free city of Danzig, the complicated situation there stimulated her desire for a seaport of her own. The Poles have charge of the anzig railway, but the language generally spoken is German and a Swiss presides over the harbor board. The League of Nations has a high commissioner at Danzig and Poland herself has a diplomatic representative in the city. Danzig has its own system of city. At Gdynia, right across the bay from Danzig, the land is under Polish control and the Polish port was built there.

SELLER OF PISTOL USED IN LINGLE KILLING ACCUSED

Chicago Sporting Goods Dealer Named in Warrant Obtained By Police.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Peter von Frantius, sporting goods dealer, today was named as an accessory before the fact in the killing June 9 of Alfred J. Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, in a warrant issued by Judge John H. Lyle at the request of police.

Through a checkup of numbers on a pistol left beside the body of Lingle, von Frantzius was identified as the seller of the weapon. Police said he told of selling it with four others to Frank Foster, Moran-Zuta-Aiello gangsters who has been identified as the man who dashed from the subway under Michigan avenue, where Lingle was slain, eluded a policeman and escaped.

Detective Frank Casey signed the warrant, which alleged that inasmuch as the sporting goods dealer "prepared the five weapons so as to avoid detection," he was an accessory.

Complicity in the St. Valentine's day killing of seven George (Bugs) Moran gangsters in 1928 also is set forth in the warrant. It charges that Von Frantzius, who operates a sporting goods store on Diversey Parkway, was the seller of "certain machine guns and deadly forearms used by the St. Valentine's day murderers."

Held for $19,000 Embezzlement.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Joseph T. Petroski, 30 years old, 254 Garfield avenue, Detroit, is held by Buffalo police, who say he is wanted in the Michigan city on a chaarge of embezzling $19,000 from the West Jefferson branch of the Michigan State Bank, of which he was manager.

One of the coaches of the Nevin Bus Lines, with local offices at 307 Twelfth boulevard, was attached Saturday night on a suit for $2791.98 brought by the Smith Motor Coach Co., of Memphis, Tenn.

About 30 passengers on a bus bound for Kansas City were delayed an hour when Chief Deputy Sheriff Arnold Willmann of St. Louis County, served the attachment on the driver of the bus at Kienlen and Easton avenues, Wellston. The driver sent for another bus, which was attached, and the passengers went on their way in their original conveyance.

BERNIE SHELTON MAKES BOND ON PISTOL CHARGE

Released on $5000 Bail at Belleville on Concealed Weapon Allegation.

Bernie Shelton, youngest of the notorious Shelton brothers, was released from the St. Clair County jail at Belleville today under $5000 bond on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. The bond was signed by Frank Kruts, 1115 West Eighth street, East St. Louis.

Shelton pleaded guilty of vagrancy last July before Justice of the Peace G. W. Thompson at East St. Louis, and received the choice of six months in jail or banishment. He promised to stay away from East St. Louis, but last Thursday detectives saw him at Third street and Illinois avenue. He had a pistol in his pocket, according to the officers.

City Judge William F. Borders of East St. Louis last Saturday ordered Sheldon released on $5000 bond on the vagrancy charge pending a hearing Wednesday. Shelton had to stay in jail over Sunday until bond was furnished on the concealed weapon charge.

Carl Shelton, leader of the Shelton gang, was released Saturday under $3000 bond on a Federal liquor violation charge. He was also arrested Thursday, when 25 gallons of alcohol was seized in his garage.

YOUTH SETS 3 RECORDS IN FLIGHT ACROSS U. S.

Eddie Schneider Beats Marks Set by Late Frank Goldsborough.

By the Associated Press.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 25. — Eighteen-year-old Eddie Schneider, Jersey City, N. J., landed here from Columbus, O., at 3:03 p. m. yesterday after having established three junior transcontinental records.

Beating the three records set by Frank Goldsborough, who was killed recently in a crash, he set the following marks: East-West, 29 hours and 41 minutes; West-East, 27 hours and 19 minutes; round trip, 57 hours.

The Goldsborough records were: East-West, 34 hours and 3 minutes; West-East, 28 hours and 55 minutes; round trip, 62 hours and 58 minutes.

Fighting a storm part of the way, Schneider came from Columbus in one hop, cutting one hour and 36 minutes from Goldsborough's mark for the coast-to-coast crossing. Starting from Los Angeles, Cal., Thursday, he made three overnight stops, at Albuquerque, N. M., Wichita, Kan., and Columbus. He crossed the continent westward several days ago.

Greeted by his father, Emil A. Schneider, and a large crowd of other relatives and friends, Schneider told of his flight. Two "tough spots," he said, were over the Pennsylvania mountains, when he had to contend with a storm, and a stretch between Albuquerque and Wichita, when the liquid ran out of his compass and he had to fly by dead reckoning.

Schneider took his plane, the Kangaroo, to a hangar and announced he would fly to the Chicago air races today. First, however, he must deliver letters from the Mayor of Los Angeles to Mayors James J. Walker of New York and Frank Hague of Jersey City. He also carried a letter from the Los Angeles Elks to the Jersey City Elks.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Aug. 25.—When insufficient gate receipts led to the cancellation of an automobile race at the Lexington Speedway yesterday the 3000 patrons demanded their money back. The ticket office was wrecked, but the receipts had been spirited away. When Secretary C. R. Carnahan wrote checks and gave them to 1000 patrons who remained, the trouble subsided.

He Retained and Copied All His Prescriptions, More than 125,000 of Them.

Funeral services for Henry F. Griesbach, a druggist at 3300 Easton avenue for 44 years, who died Saturday night at St. Mary's Hospital or uremic poisoning after a day's illness, will be held at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning at the funeral establishment of Thomas J. Finan, 1519 South Grand boulevard. Burial will be in the New Saint Peter and Saint Paul's Cemetery.

Mr. Griesbach, who was 69 years old and lived at 3514 University street, retained and copied all his prescriptions, more than 125,000 of them, and maintained the atmosphere of the old-time drug store, dealing principally in drugs and keeping an old-fashioned green globe in the window. He was at his store Friday, following his custom of going to work at 7:30 a. m. and leaving about 10 p. m.

Mr. Griesbach is survived by two daughters, Miss Elsie M. Griesbach and Mrs. James Sweeney; a brother, Julius, and four sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Fuller, Mrs. Frances Boese, Mrs. Helen Frank and Sister M. Corona of the Loretto Sisters of Pueblo, Colo.

CAUGHT AT SAFE ROBBERY, ADMITS OPENING OTHERS

Clarence P. Wallace Arrested After Police Find Burglar Tools in Office at 6409 Michigan.

A search of the neighborhood after police had found burglar tools scattered about the safe in the real estate office of Edward Hohenstein, 6409 Michigan avenue, resulted in the arrest early yesterday of a man who confessed robbing two safes last week, according to police.

The prisoner, who said he is Clarence P. Wallace of Detroit, Mich., was found on the roof of an adjoining building. Persons residing in the neighborhood said another man ran from the office when police approached, fleeing in an automobile in which a woman waited.

Wallace, however, told police he was alone. Going to an address on South Broadway, where Wallace had lived since coming here a week ago, police arrested a man who said he had come here with Wallace, but denied taking part in any robberies.

Wallace confessed, police reported, that he knocked the combination from a safe at the Efficiency Real Estate Co., 7417 South Broadway, obtaining $7 last Tuesday night, and took $41 from a safe at the Penzler Hardware Co., 7119 South Broadway, two nights later.

The combination was knocked from a safe in the offices of R. G. Dun & Co., 506 North Fourth street, last night and $200 was taken.

Grocer and Wife Held Up, Robbed of $410.

Closing their grocery at 1510 South Broadway late Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dobinsky wrapped $410 in a small bundle of clothing and started for their home at 4065 Page boulevard. As they were about to enter, two armed men took the package from Mrs. Dobinsky and robbed her husband of a $50 diamond ring.

Charles H. Buettner, jewelry salesman at Jaccard's, reported that an imitation diamond wedding ring had been substituted at the store for a ring valued at $420 Saturday. He made the discovery, he said, after he had showed a tray of rings to a well-dressed man and woman, who said they would return later.

Awakened early yesterday Miss Betty Blum, 5216A Delmar boulevard, found a burglar in her room. The man ran when she screamed. She said $4 had been taken from her purse.

HOPI INDIANS PERFORM ANNUAL SNAKE DANCE

Tribesmen, With Rattlers Dangling From Their Side, Celebrate in Arizona Desert.

By the Associated Press.

HOTEVILLA, HOPI RESERVATION, Ariz., Aug. 25.—Hopi Indians, following the ritual which guided their ancestors, performed their snake dance yesterday.

Many Indians with rattlesnakes dangling down their naked, glistenbodies, went through the rites, a supplication to the rain god, while a medicine man scanned the northern skies.

At teh end of the dance the serpents were released to glide into the crevasses and rocks of the Mesa, thence, in the legend of the red men, into the lower regions of the earth, where the snake people, guarding the rain god, receive the Indians' petition.

Shortly before sundown the priests and medicine men prepared the venomous messengers for their task by washing and annointing them on the kivas, sacred altars. The whites who witnessed the dance were excluded from this ceremony. No participant in the dance was bitten by the snakes. After the ceremony the Indians began a feast of 24 hours.

LA GUARDIA THREATENS TO RUN AS AN INDEPENDENT AGAIN

Says He Will Do This if New York G. O. P. Doesn't Come Out for Dry Repeal.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Supporting the recent demand of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler that the Republican State convention next month go on record for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, Representative F. H. La Guardia announced yesterday that not only would he take the same stand, but that if his view did not meet with the support of Republicans of his district he would run for re-election as an independent.

La Guardia, who is a candidate for Congress in the Twentieth District this fall, forsook the Republican fold once before, running for Congress in 1924 on the La Follette ticket, and was elected. He did not worry then about what Republican leaders might do to him, and he is not worrying now, for in a letter to Dr. Butler, made public, he bitterly attacked "political leaders, particularly in our State, who know conditions, who are convinced of the necessity for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, and yet have not the courage to declare themselves."

In his letter, Representative La Guardia also attacked the "association of bigotry now being formed in the State of Alabama," and said it must not be sanctioned by the national Republican party.

2 HURT WHEN SHELL EXPLODES

Pair at St. Joseph, Mo., Pound Shoe With Projectile.

By the Associated Press.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Aug. 25.—Dudley Garber, 17 years old, and Miss Genevieve Courter, 18, his aunt, were severely injured last night when a one-pound shell, kept as a curio, exploded.

Miss Courter was using the shell as a hammer to pound down a nail in her shoe. Garber, chiding her for her awkwardness, took the projectile. He had made only a few blows when the explosion occurred, tearing the fingers from his right hand and burning the palm of his left hand. His left side also was pierced by the metal. His condition was said to be dangerous. Miss Courter's face and eyes were burned. The projectile was given them last winter by two former service men.

FURTHER BUSINESS DECLINE REPORTED

Reserve Board Discloses Lowest Production and Employment in Several Years.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Further declines in business activity in July were reported yesterday in the monthly review of the Federal Reserve Board, disclosing the lowest levels in recent years for industrial production and factory employment. The ravages of the drouth added to the pessimistic picture.

However, the report showed that money rates continued easy and that a sharp downward movement in wholesale prices continued through July. This was offset somewhat early in August, when the prices of grain advanced as a result of the drouth.

The Reserve Board's review stated factory employment and wage payments were at the lowest level since 1922. The reduction in workers was largest at steel and automobile plants, car shops and foundries, hosiery and cotton mills and clothing factories. A seasonal increase in employment in the canning, flour and shoe industries was reported, but the Department of Agriculture showed "an unusually small demand for farm labor."

Effect of the Drouth.

The drouth was said to have effected "feed crops and pasturage severely," although the Government's statement reckoned it had been broken in mid-August.

"Loans and investments of reporting member banks in leading cities," continued the review, "decreased slightly between July 16 and Aug. 13, largely as a result of a decline of $48,000,000 in security loans. All other loans showed little change, while investments increased further.

"Reserve bank credit outstanding increased by about $60,000,000 during the first three weeks of August, reflecting seasonal increase in the demand for currency and a decrease of about $25,000,000 in the country's gold stock, chiefly on account of gold exports to France. The increase in reserve bank credit was in the form of bankers' acceptances and United States Government securities; member bank borrowings showed little change.

St. Louis Cuts Discount Rate.

"Money rates continued easy. The prevailing rate on commercial papers was reduced to 3 per cent around the first of August and remained at that level during the first three weeks of the month. Bond yields continued to decline. Discount rates at the Federal Reserve Banks of St. Louis, San Francisco and Kansas City were lowered from 4 to 3½ per cent during August."

As for distribution, the review stated that freight car loadings have been in smaller volume than at the same season of any other recent year, while department store sales declined in July to the "lowest level since the summer of 1924."

Building contracts awarded during July and the first half of August were reported "in exceptionally small volume."

TRAPPED AND SLAIN BY POLICE

Newark (N. J.) Negro Had Killed Man in Brawl.

By the Associated Press.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 25.—Trapped in a room in a tenement house after he had killed one man and wounded a Police Lieutenant and a Negro woman, Smith Bray, Negro, was shot nine times last night and killed. Bray was cornered across the street from where he had killed another Negro, A. Roberts, in a brawl.

Police were called and as they were leaving, Bray fired several shots from his hiding place. Lieut. Rowe crashed into the room and the Negro shot him in the hip. Edward Leary, a reporter, was close behind. The Negro rushed at Leary, shoved the pistol into his stomach and pulled the trigger. The weapon was empty. Leary drew a revolver and shot the man three times. From the floor, Rowe also sent three bullets into Bray's body and Detective Garrigan shot him three times. In a bed in the house in which Bray was slain, Mrs. Bray, his estranged wife, was found suffering from bullet wounds.

Five Pullmans Derailed.

By the Associated Press.

AUBURN, Ala., Aug. 25.—Five Pullmans, the mail car and the tender of the Crescent Limited, Southern Railway train from New Orleans to New York, were derailed here yesterday. Passengers were thrown from their berths, but none was injured. Although 500 feet of track was torn up, none of the cars overturned.

Nelly Don Frocks have a story. Nelly Don is a real person, a graduate of Lindenwood College.

After her marriage, Nelly Don kept house, even as you and I. But she thought house dresses were drab and dull and unattractive. She made some gay frocks herself. She made some more. She began designing them for friends. Today Nelly Don ranks among America's foremost designers and manufacturers of informal frocks.

That she has selected Stix, Baer & Fuller as her exclusive representative in St. Louis is significant, for this is the store where women expect to find exclusive fashions moderately priced.

26 CONGRESSMEN TO RETIRE IN MARCH

18 Republicans and 8 Democrats on List So Far—May Be More.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—At least 26 new faces will appear in the House of the Seventy-second Congress as the result of voluntary and involuntary retirement of present members.

Fifteen Republicans and seven Democrats have relinquished their seats or announced their intention to do so at the end of the present Congress, while three Republicans and one Democrat were defeated in primaries.

Of the voluntary departures, six Republican and one Democratic were due to senatorial aspirations, in all but two instances these representatives won senatorial nominations.

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, after serving one House term, has been nominated by Illinois Republicans for the Senate. Representatives White of Maine, Dickinson of Iowa and Pritchard of North Carolina also have been nominated by the Republicans for the Senate. Cordell Hull of Tennessee is the only Democratic Congressman nominated for a place in the Senate.

Kansan Defeated by Allen.

Congressmen Fort of New Jersey and Sproul of Kansas, Republicans, were defeated, the former by Ambassador Dwight Morrow and the latter by Senator Allen.

The involuntary retirement list, which may be increased in late primaries, now consists of Congressmen Sears of Nebraska, Chalmers of Ohio and Michaelson of Illinois, Republicans, and Box of Texas, Democrat.

A desire to re-enter the business world, old age, long public service and purely personal matters have been given as reasons for the voluntary retirements.

Maj. Charles Manly Stedman, the only Civil War veteran remaining in the House, will go "home for a rest" next March, ending 20 years as a Democratic representative from North Carolina, at the age of 90.

Congressman Wainwright (Rep.), New York, a veteran of both the Spanish-American and World wars, also plans to retire. Moore, Virginia Democrat, likewise has determined to withdraw after 12 years' service.

Woman Wants to Retire.

Mrs. Pearl Peden Oldfield of Arkansas, one of the three women Democrats in the House, wants to leave her office next March.

Two Pennsylvania Republicans, Watres and Esterly, plan to return to private business. Bingham (Rep.) of Vermont has accepted a post with an insurance company.

Hudspeth of Texas and Fisher of Tennessee, both Democrats, will retire for personal reasons. Another Democrat, Jeremiah O'Connell of Rhode Island, has resigned to accept a State Supreme Court judgeship.

Hoffman of New Jersey has been appointed State Automobile Commissioner and Williams of Illinois has been made a Judge of the District Court of Claims. Both are Republicans. Frank M. Ramey of Illinois, Walker of Kentucky and Shaffer of Virginia, all Republicans, declined to enter another campaign because of personal affairs.

The explosion occurred in a building in which gases were generated for acetylene equipment. The cause was undetermined. Other employes were outside at the time of the blast, while Herndon had just started through the entrance.

New Jersey Youth Saves Three Women and a Man Caught in Undertow.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

POINT PLEASANT, N. J., Aug. 25.—Bart Osborn Jr., 18 years old, of Manasquan, who aspires to be a life guard, yesterday rescued three women and a man caught in an undertow in the ocean five miles south of here.

Those he saved were Mrs. Fred Kroon of Stelton, N. J., Mrs. Frank Krauser, New Brunswick, Miss Jeanette Manderville of Irvington, and unidentified man about 35.

The wind was rolling 10-foot breakers ashore as Osborn swam out 250 feet and rescued the four. He telephoned to the first aid squad of Point Pleasant. Dr. William H. Middleton and Capt. George Bagdall, head of the squad, worked over the rescued persons an hour and a half before they were restored to consciousness.

Police in Chicago Suburb Lay Shooting to Gang.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Joseph Terravecchia, a butcher in suburban Cicero, was shot to death last night in an alley behind his home.

Several shotgun slugs were found in the body, which was only partly clothed. The widow was too hysterical to be questioned but police advanced the theory of a gang shooting. So far as could be learned, however, Terravecchia had no gang connections.

STERLING WINS BY 90,000 IN TEXAS GOVERNOR RACE

Houston Publisher Defeats Mrs. Miriam Ferguson, Former Executive, in Run-Off Primary.

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 25. — Returns today from the run-off Democratic primary for the nomination for Governor today showed that Ross B. Sterling had defeated Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson by more than 90,000.

The number of votes cast last Saturday was the largest ever cast in the State. The latest tabulation was: Sterling, 464,698; Ferguson, 371,654.

Mrs. Ferguson and her husband, James E., have been figures in Texas politics for 16 years. After serving as Governor from 1914 to 1917 he was ousted and failed for the nomination in 1918. Mrs. Ferguson became Governor in 1924. She was defeated for renomination by Gov. Dan Moody in 1926. Ferguson's impeachment was ruled as barring him from the race this year.

George C. Butte Republican Nominee.

Sterling will be opposed in the November election by Dr. George C. Butte of Austin, nominated by the Republicans in the first primary a month ago. The Democratic nomination has been equivalent to election since reconstruction days.

The Democratic nominee, a capitalist and newspaper publisher, issued a statement asking Democrats to forget the bitterness of the campaign and join him in a constructive program of government.

Sterling P. Strong of Dallas, former prohibition crusader and State superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League 20 years ago, was defeated for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant-Governor by State Senator Edgar Witt of Waco.

Former Gov. Pat M. Neff's majority in the Railroad Commission race was more than 100,000 votes on the latest tabulation. Neff is at present a member of the commission.

Career of Sterling.

Sterling, known in the vicinity of Houston through his philanthropies, his civic work, his building enterprises and his ownership of the Houston Post-Dispatch, became chairman of Gov. Moody's Highway Commission three and one-half years ago.

He was born on a Southeast Texas farm. He quit school in the third grade to help earn a living for the family. For a time he was a freight boat boy and then he successively became a country store keeper and country banker.

Next he became interested in oil, which gave him his millions. He formed the Humble Oil Co. and managed its affairs until a few years ago, when he sold his holdings for $12,000,000.

Veteran Circus Man Said to Be Sinking Rapidly.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 25.—Al G. Barnes, veteran circus man, suffering from lobar pneumonia, is in a grave condition. Although his physician refused comment, Barnes' nurse said he was "sinking rapidly."

Barnes, legally known as Alphonseus George Stonehouse, was admitted to a hospital here two weeks ago. His progress was favorable until yesterday, when he suffered a relapse. Barnes' divorced wife, Mrs. Sarah Jane Barnes, was called to his bedside yesterday.

CHARGES MARRIAGE LAW IS UNFAIR TO WOMEN

National Woman's Party Issues Booklet Listing Discriminations Against Feminine Sex.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Asserting that under American law marriage "practically leases a wife out" for her board and keep, the National Woman's party today issued a booklet listing discriminations against the feminine sex under the title of "The Denial of Justice to Women."

While listing disadvantages accruing to married women under the laws of many states, the booklet, edited by Burnita Shelton Matthews, Washington attorney, condemned as contrary to the law of nature the legal attitude that an illegitimate child has no father.

Miss Matthews asserted that while the father of a legitimate child usually is given paramount rights, the child born out of wedlock has no legal guardian but the mother. She cited a recent court decision under which the estate of a bachelor, who died intestate, was taken over by a state on the ground he had no lawful kin, although an illegitimate child he had supported from birth sought to obtain it.

Marriage laws, she wrote, placed women under a disability on the theory of protection to herself, "as though marriage on the part of a woman indicated lack of judgment."

Fireman-Policeman Jobs Combined

LIMA, O., Aug. 25.—Lima city firemen became policemen today. The 39 members of the Fire Department, in a petition to City Manager Fred C. Becker, agreed they would perform police duties as well as their fire-fighting work, subject to call at any time, when it became known that city finances would not permit the engaging of extra police help.

101-MILE GLIDER FLIGHT

Austrian Sets World's Record at Competition in Germany.

By the Associated Press.

WASSERKUPPE, Germany, Aug. 25.—The world's distance record for glider flying was broken yesterday by Robert Kronfeld, Austrian, who made a flight of 101 miles.

It was the second time Kronfeld had broken the record during the international glider meet here. His previous record was 92 miles, on Aug. 14. He set out in his glider "Wien" yesterday and six hours later fluttered to earth at Markredwitz.

Dishonored Hero Ends Life.

By the Associated Press.

SZEGED, Hungary, Aug. 25.—Anton Horvath Von Csecpreg, Major of the General staff, committed suicide today in military prison by taking poison after having been struck off the register of Hungarian heroes. It was said that Csepreg sold a neighboring government important military documents through the wife of a merchant of that country.

Witnesses testified the child was pursuing another boy and ran into the path of the car, which was driven by Mike Miano, 5147 Shaw boulevard.

SOME HOT WEATHER FOOD FOLLIES

The Summer Dietary Should Aim to Store Up Health and Vitality for Winter.

The summer sun, fresh air, and the abundance of fruits and vegetables that are available at this season, should help us store up a supply of health and vitality that will stand us in good stead during the cold winter months.

In actuality, however, many persons find that they have failed to make the most of the many advantages offered by nature.

The heat irritates them and they eat the wrong kind of food and suffer digestive disturbances; they are careless of health habits, and often use the vacation period in an expenditure of energy that put a strain on their systems for weeks to come.

They are for the most part likely to look upon the summer as a time of spending, rather than storing up. Longer hours of daylight mean more time for doing things and they often fail to take into consideration the fact that the heat itself causes a state of nervous fatigue that needs rest and relaxation.

Sudden changes in temperature are almost always followed by outbreaks of digestive disturbances and for that reason it is wisest to keep to simple, easily digested foods during a hot spell.

Avoid a great deal of ice cold foods or drinks—a moderate amount will not be likely to do harm, but when the appetite is finicky, as it almost always is on a hot day, there is often a tendency to overdo cold foods. A good plan is to use a warm beverage if cold foods form the main part of the meal, or see that one warm food is served.

It is possible, by making radical changes in the diet, or by limiting the diet too suddenly, to cause digestive disturbances that are, to say the least, distressing.

Overripe fruit or an oversupply of it may also cause trouble.

Erratic eating seems to follow, or rather to accompany, erratic weather, and the combination does not always work out best for the human race.

When on vacation, or on a trip away from home, the application of common sense to the selection of one's food supply, appears to be almost too much to expect. The lack of exercise and the change in routine that travelers suffer when on a long train trip puts a strain on the system and when they add to it by overeating or by eating food hard to digest, distress often follows:

TEMPTING PEACH COBBLER

One of the Favorite Sweets for Family Service.

Peach cobbler was one of the favorite company desserts of pioneer American housewives. This tasty pastry is just as tempting now as it was in days gone by, the only difference being that few modern housewives know how the dessert is made.

Peach Cobbler.

One egg, well beaten, one-third cup milk, three tablespoons melted butter, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth cup sugar, one cup flour, two teaspoons baking powder, eight peaches, one-half teaspoon nutmeg and two-thirds cup sugar.

Beat egg light, add one-fourth cup sugar, butter and milk. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together and add to first mixture. Beat thoroughly.

Half fill greased baking dish with peaches blended with two-thirds cup sugar and spice. Cover with batter and bake in moderate oven for 30 minutes. Serve hot with whipped cream.

A FAVORITE PICKLE

Piccalili Is One of the Most Popular Home-Made Relishes.

One-half peck green tomatoes, one-half cup salt, one-half teaspoon turmeric powder, one cup sugar, one-half red pepper, chopped rather coarse, three medium-sized onions, one-half teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon cinnamon and vinegar.

Slice green tomatoes and onions. Sprinkle with salt and let stand three hours. Drain in a bag.

Put in preserving kettle, cover with vinegar and set over fire. Add turmeric powder mixed with vinegar, cloves, cinnamon, sugar and red pepper.

Mix thoroughly and cook until tender, stirring occasionally. Store in fruit jars as canned fruit.

Thought for the Day.

Sugar can be more quickly and easily converted into energy than any other food. Any normal diet, and most reducing diets, contain sugar. Sugar is pure energy. No cell in the body can live without fuel, and sugar is one of the most effective of fuels. When a long denial of sugar has set craving it, it is quite possible that the need is a real one.

Grape Juice Egg-Nog.

Allow four eggs to one quart of grape juice. Beat the yolks of the eggs until they become creamy and stir into the grape juice sweetened to taste. Beat the whites of the eggs and stir in half, seasoning with nutmeg. Place on ice until thoroughly chilled. Serve in frappe cups with a teaspoonful of meringue on top of each cup. This is very nourishing and delightful.

CHEESE MACARONI LOAF

A Tasty Dish for the Family Luncheon or Dinner.

To make this tasty main dish use three-fourths cup macaroni, one teaspoon parsley, two teaspoons chopped onion, one tablespoon chopped green pepper, one tablespoon fat, one-half cup grated cheese, one and one-half cup milk, one egg, one teaspoon salt and one-half cup buttered bread crumbs.

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water 25 minutes. Saute the parsley, onion and pepper in the fat until tender. Drain water from macaroni.

Place a layer of this in a buttered baking dish, then a layer of peppers, onions and cheese. Repeat until the dish is full.

Pour over it the milk mixed with the egg. Cover with buttered crumbs and brown in a moderate oven. Serve with tomato sauce.

Oriental Tea Punch.

Make a tea infusion by adding three-quarters of a cup of boiling water to one tablespoon of tea. Let stand a few minutes and strain. When cool, add the juice of three oranges and two lemons, one-third cup of raspberry syrup and one-half cup of sugar syrup. Color red with vegetable coloring. Just before serving add one pint of charged water and pour over one pint of orange sherbet. Makes about two quarts.

A Good Summer Food.

Because hot, relaxing weather makes it sometimes necessary to coax the appetite, canned salmon makes a good summer food. Its pink or red color, contrasted against the crisp, cool green of lettuce and complimented by such points of color as stuffed olives, peppers, pimentoes, tomatoes, sauces, etc., is an invitation to eat and enjoy.

HELEN KANE ADMITS GETTING $50,000 FROM BANKRUPT MAN

Musical Comedy Singer, However, Declares She Had Lent Money to Him.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Helen Kane, baby-talk songstress of musical comedy and the screen, testified today that she bought $90,000 worth of liberty bonds last Monday and placed them in a safe deposit box in Chicago, under the name of Mary Marks.

"Why didn't you use your own name?" she was asked. "I'm afraid of the people in Chicago," she replied. "They're so tough out there. And I didn't want anyone to know I had that much money."

Miss Kane, a witness at the bankruptcy hearing of a dress firm operated by Murray Posner and Jack Eisen, was called as a result of the discovery that Posner recently gave her $50,000 of the firm's money.

She said she gave Posner the money to buy bonds for her, but that he put it into his business. On Aug. 12, she said, he called on her in Chicago, telling her he was in "terrible trouble" and saying he had just deposited $40,000 to her account in the Plaza Trust Co.

He had a few days previously sent her $10,000. He told her, she said, to "forget" how she gave him the money in the first place and say it was a loan. She said she refused, because it was untrue, and that when Posner became abusive she had a house detective put him out.

REDUCED LOCAL FREIGHT RATES FROM WESTERN DROUTH AREAS

One-Third Reduction is Announced by the Traffic Executive Committee.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 25.—The Public Service Commission was notified today that the Western Traffic Executive Committee, representing all of the western railroads, has decided to grant reductions of one-third on local rates from all drouth areas.

The Western Traffic Committee also has granted the same reduction on feed and hay to the drouth areas, the reduction to be effective Aug. 25. The reduction is given on authority of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Public Service Commission, and is designed as an emergency relief measure for farmers in the drouth stricken areas.

ASSAILS RASKOB 'PLOT' AGAINST PRESIDENT

Congressman Wood Declares Hired Detractor Misrepresents Hoover's Acts.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Congressman Wood of Indiana, yesterday said "the plot" of John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, to "bring about a systematic and malicious misrepresentation" of President Hoover was disclosed by Frank Kent, a political writer, in the current issue of Scribner's Magazine.

In a statement through the Republican Congressional Committee of which he is chairman, Wood said that from Kent's article it appeared Charles Michelson, Washington writer, "was employed at a large salary by Raskob to develop these misrepresentations of the President in every quarter of the United States, in an attempt to systematically undermine his influence to do service."

The attacks, he said, were prepared at Michelson's Bureau, and issued in the names of various persons "who have shown themselves willing to be pawns in such practices."

"This scheme represents one of the most infamous incidents in American political history," Wood charged. "And it is to the credit of some Democratic leaders that they have refused to lend their names to its furtherance."

Wood said his collection of the statements showed practically every act of the President, big or little, had been "challenged, slandered, maligned."

"That the President has endured this for 17 months without complaint," Wood added, "is a tribute to his high-mindedness and patience, and his sense of the dignity of his great office.

"Mr. Kent, himself a Democrat, has done a national service by his expose, for those who read his article no longer can put credence in anything emanating from Mr. Raskob's propaganda bureau."

KENSINGTON IS SECOND IN $4300 RACE AND CHENE FINISHES THIRD

By the Associated Press.

SARATOGA TRACK, N. Y., Aug. 25.—The silks of Harry Payne Whitney were carried to victory in the Kentucky Claiming Stakes here today when Gosling, the bay filly by St. Germans-Mother Goose, defeated a high class field of fillies, running the 5½ furlongs in 1:07. W. R. Travers' Kensington was second and Harry Payne Whitney's Chene, coupled with the winner, third. The entry was quoted at 18 to 5.

Eight good fillies paraded for the take with Morshion odds on favorite. McAtee had the mount and he got the filly away on her toes. She showed her speed by taking a length lead over Princess Peroxide, an added starter, and Gosling. Morshion tired in the final furlong and then Robertson sent Gosling to the front.

The Whitney filly drew away but in the final sixteenth Kensington came with a rush. Gosling lasted, however, to win by three-quarters of a length. The race was worth $4350.

Gosling Wins Kentucky Claiming Stake at Saratoga

KENSINGTON IS SECOND IN $4300 RACE AND CHENE FINISHES THIRD

By the Associated Press.

SARATOGA TRACK, N. Y., Aug. 25.—The silks of Harry Payne Whitney were carried to victory in the Kentucky Claiming Stakes here today when Gosling, the bay filly by St. Germans-Mother Goose, defeated a high class field of fillies, running the 5½ furlongs in 1:07. W. R. Travers' Kensington was second and Harry Payne Whitney's Chene, coupled with the winner, third. The entry was quoted at 13 to 5.

Eight good fillies paraded for the stake with Morshion odds on favorite. McAtee had the mount and he got the filly away on her toes. She showed her speed by taking a length lead over Princess Peroxide, an added starter, and Gosling. Morshion tired in the final furlong and then Robertson sent Gosling to the front.

The Whitney filly drew away but in the final sixteenth Kensington came with a rush. Gosling lasted, however, to win by three-quarters of a length. The race was worth $4350.

Wilson Charles, Indian Athlete, Leading in National Decathlon

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 25.—Winning the broad jump and placing up in the other events, Wilson Charles, Oneida Indian of Haskell Institute, led the field at the half-way point in the National Amateur Athletic Union decathlon championship. Jim Stewart, Los Angeles A. C., was second and Joe Hall, University of Florida, third.

Charles, besides capturing the broad jump with a leap of 22 feet 11¾ inches, was third in the 400-meter run, tied for third in the high jump, tied for fourth in the 100-meter dash and fifth in the shotput.

Harlow Rothert of the San Francisco Olympic Club, making his decathlon debut, stood fourth when the athletes took time out for lunch after five of the 10 events. In fifth place was Howard Jones, New York A. C. athlete, who showed the way in both the 100 and 400 meter runs.

Stewart's one first place was scored in the high jump in which he cleared six feet. Rothert easily led in the shotput. Hall, an outsider, was second in the high jump and shotput.

Howard Jones of the New York A. C., made the best time in the 100-meter dash, covering the distance in 11.2 seconds.

Jim Stewart of the Los Angeles A. C., and Everett Utterback, Brooklyn Harriers, who were added to the field at the last minute made the second best showing with a mark of 11.4 for the 100 meters. Harlow Rothert, Stanford University, football, basketball and track star making his debut in the decathlon, was farther down the list with 11.7.

A total of 13 athletes, comprising a far stronger field than had been anticipated, began the chase for the all-around title won last year by Ken Doherty of Detroit who has since retired from amateur competition. Among the leading contenders was Wilson Charles of Haskell Institute who started off by running the 100 meters in 11.5 seconds.

Charles, who is a full-blooded Oneida Indian, topped the field in the broad jump when he cleared 22 feet 11¾ inches. The fleet Utterback and Jones kept up the good work begun in the 100 meters by taking second and fourth honors in the broad jump, respectively, with leaps of 21 feet 11¾ inches and 21 feet. Forest Munger of the University of Florida placed third with 21 feet 4¾ inches.

The bigger men were farther down the list, Stewart clearing 20 feet 8¾ inches and Rothert 19

Charles, although in fifth place in the shot-put with his heave of 41 feet, 7⅛ inches, held his lead at the end of this event by but the slimest of margins.

Rothert in Second Place.

Charles at this point had 2386.05 points. Strung out behind him were Harlow Rothert, San Francisco Olympic Club, second, 2322.125; Joe Hall, University of Florida, third, 2276.80; Jim Stewart, Los Angeles A. C., fourth, 2254.5; Howard Jones, New York A. C., fifth, 2216.70; Edward Wlodkya, Boston A. A., sixth, 2112,125; Ivan Dyckman, Denver A. C., seventh, 1996.575; Fred Pusch, Grove City College, eighth, 1993.5; Forest Munger, University of Florida, ninth, 1969.20; Louis Peresenyi, Union A. C., Pittsburg, tenth, 1844; W. J. Hutchinson, Ithaca, N. Y., School of Physical Education, eleventh, 1650.75; and Jim Deering, Yale, twelfth, 1614.85.

Charles and Rothert, the leaders after three events, tied for third place in the fourth, the high jump, both clearing 5 feet, 7¾ inches. Stewart's leap of just six feet topped them all.

Jones, strong in the running events, turned in the fastest time for the 400-meter run, the last event before lunch, sprinting around the track in 50.7 seconds. Munger, who ran in the same heat, made the second best time, 51.9. Neither Charles, Rothert nor Stewart burned up the course in this event. Of the three favorites Charles was clocked from the 400 meters at 54.1, Rothert at 55.8 and Stewart at 56.8.

Resuming competition after lunch, the sensational dark horse, Hall, boosted his stock by winning the 110-meter hurdles in 16.1 seconds. Charles, the Indian star, was fifth with 16.8; Stewart fourth, 16.7; Rothert sixth, 17.3. Second and third in this event went to Dyckman and Munger with 16.4 and 16.5, respectively.

Hall's fine showing in the hurdles shoved him into second place ahead of Stewart, Charles still holding the lead. Point standing of the leaders at the end of six events was:

Charles, first, 4706.21.

MRS. O. S. HILL HAS MEDAL OF 75 IN WESTERN

By the Associated Press.

HILL CREST COUNTRY CLUB, Kansas City, Aug. 25.—Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, defending champion in the annual women's Western golf tournament today carded a 75, only two over men's par and seven under women's par, in the 18-hole qualifying test. The card was two strokes under her 77 last year at Cleveland, which won medalist honors.

Mrs. Hill and Miss Dorothy Page, Madison, Wis., were the first pair to complete the round. Miss Page had a 79.

On the out nine Mrs. Hill had a 38 and added a brilliant 37 coming home. At no time was she over women's par on any hole.

Mrs. Hill's card compared with womn's par:

Out—Par	446	555	355—42
Hill	345	545	354—38
In—Par	634	544	554—40—82
Hill	534	534	454—37—75

Mrs. Gregg Lifur, Los Angeles threat, finished one stroke behind Mrs. Hill with a 76. She had a 39 out and a 37 on the last nine.

Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, a member of the women's team which played in Great Britain this year, ended even par, 82.

Mrs. G. W. Tyson, Kansas City, who as Mrs. Miriam Burns Horn won the national title in 1927, carded an 86.

Mrs. Hill's remarkable 75 still was two strokes higher than the all tournament medal score. Three years ago at Olympia Fields, Chicago, Mrs. Melvin Jones, Chicago, woman's Western medal play champion, scored a 73. Mrs. Jones today had an 83, assuring her a place in the championship flight.

With half the field of 109 entrants in at 2 p. m., it appeared a 91 would be the highest score to qualify for the 32 places in the championship flight. Virtually all the leading golfers had finished the qualifying round by that time.

CARDINALS PLAY CHAMPIONSHIP BALL DURING 22-GAME HOME STAND

REDBIRDS WON 15 AND LOST ONLY 7 CONTESTS; CLUB NOW ONE GAME BEHIND BROOKLYN

By Herman Wecke.

Gabby Street's Cardinals, battling for a higher berth in the National League pennant race, are idle today, following a successful stand at Sportsman's Park. During the stay on the local lot, which opened against the Cubs, Aug. 5, the Cardinals won 15 games and lost seven, for a winning percentage of .682.

This pace, a real pennant gait, enabled the Knotholers to make a slight gain on their rivals. When the locals returned from their last disastrous battling on the road, the club was nine games out of first place. Now Street's aggregation is seven and one-half games removed from the leading Cubs.

Capturing a doubleheader from the lowly Phillies, 9 to 4 and 6 to 4, to close the home stay yesterday, the Cardinals picked up ground on the three leaders. They gained half a game on the Cubs, who made it three out of four over the Giants; the Street crew picked up a game and a half on the Giants and the lead of the New Yorkers over the Cardinals now is two and one-half games. Brooklyn, idle because of rain, dropped a game closer to the Cardinals and the St. Louis entry is but a single game removed from third position.

Cards Play 23 Games Away from Home.

But if Street's team is to climb higher in the race, the soaring must be done on foreign soil, inasmuch as but eight of the remaining 31 games will be played at Sportsman's Park. And records show that Street's club has been nothing to boast about when battling the enemy away from St. Louis. The Cardinals' only home dates are Sept. 4, 5, 6 and 7 with the Reds and Sept. 25 to 28, inclusive, to finish the campaign here with the Pirates.

All other battling will be away from here. A short road trip opens against the Reds in Cincinnati tomorrow. Two games will be played, after which Street and his crew move over to Chicago for four battles with the league leaders. Two games will be played in Pittsburg Labor day, before the team returns to wage war against Dan Howley's crew.

During the stay at home, the Cardinals lost the decision in only one series, that in which the Cubs won two out of three. After this, Street's men started the Robins on the downgrade by winning four out of five. This was followed by three out of five from the Braves. Then the club broke even in the series with the Giants after which came five successive conquests of Burt Shotton's tailend Phillies.

Grimes Now at His Best.

That Burleigh Grimes, the big spitball pitcher, is to play an important part in the drive for a higher position, was evinced again yesterday, in the second of the doubleheader. In this battle, the Cardinals gave Herman Bell a five-run lead, but he could not hold it. Al Grabowski came next and he also failed. After this, Gabby Street took no more chances with second stringers. He called on Grimes and the righthander made good. He protected a two-run lead and inasmuch as he twirled three and one-third innings of great baseball, whereas both Bell and Grabowski were taken out because they were wavering, Grimes was officially credited with the victory.

SCHLERETH AND TERRY SIGN FOR BOUTS ON HATZFIELD POST CARD

Buddy Schlereth and Lou Terry, lightweights, have signed to appear in 10-round matches on the next Walter Hatzfeld American Legion Post professional boxing card which will take place Wednesday night, Sept. 3, at the Battery A outdoor arena, according to Matchmaker Eddie Felix.

The feature battle will be between John Schwake, local heavyweight, and Joe Lohman, of Toledo.

In Terry's two summer engagements he stopped Roy Mitchell of Centralia, Ill., and won over Johnny Franks, an Arkansas fighter, in an interesting fracas.

THE Duchess and the Duke of York
Received a visit from the stork
That caused a lot of glee,
Because the Prince of Wales had said
That if it was a girl he'd wed
And lo! It was a she!

In view of what his Highness said,
That puts it up to Albert Ed
To cut the bait or fish;
And so the wedding bells will ring
With orange wreaths and everything
As per the Nation's wish.

The bridesmaids now can start to train
For Mendelssohn's refreshing strain
And that of Lohengrin,
As seemingly the stage is set,
So pick the happy bride and let
The wedding march begin.

Small-Town Fans Know Their Big League Stars, All-America Team Selections Prove

Many of Entrants in Babe Ruth Contest Probably Have Never Seen a Contest Between Teams of Major Circuit.

By Damon Kerby.

Whether "city" baseball fans know it or not, there is a strong belief among small-town baseball followers that they (the small towners) know as much about big league players and their worth as the residents in major league cities who attend games regularly.

The question will never be settled, and perhaps it wouldn't be of great importance if it were; but all-star selections in the Babe Ruth All-America contest received from out-of-town residents by the Post-Dispatch prove that baseball fans in small communities do have an accurate insight into big league baseball.

From the plains of Texas, the oil field region in Oklahoma, the hills of Arkansas, the blue grass country of Kentucky and Tennessee, and many other regions, have come selections in the Babe Ruth contest. One selection was received from Wardsville, Ontario. With scattered exceptions the all-star lineups from far places have shown that the contestants are close followers of major league baseball.

It is unlikely that more than a small percentage of the out-of-state entrants have witnessed a big-league game this year, and it is probable that many of them have never seen big leaguers in action. Therefore their choices must be based entirely on the averages, without benefit of personal observation of the players. This, however, is no marked handicap. The selections and essays in connection prove the point.

The contest, which closes Sunday, at midnight, is open to all readers of the Post-Dispatch. As is told in the rules of the contest, printed elsewhere on this page, Babe Ruth will name what he believes is the strongest combination of players in the majors, based on their work of this year. Two pitchers will be named. He will place the players in the order in which he would send them to the plate.

The contestant who names Ruth's exact lineup in the same batting order will receive first prize of $100. In case no contestant submits Ruth's exact team the first award will go to the entrant submitting the team closest to the Babe's. In the event of a tie the award will be made on the merit of the essay which must accompany every all-star lineup.

Second prize in the contest is $75; third, $50; fourth, $25, and five awards of $10 each will be made. Twelve autographed Babe Ruth bats, and 12 baseballs, also autographed by Ruth, will be awarded successful contestants in the order of merit.

Letters posted before Sunday at midnight will be judged.

A committee of three prominent St. Louisans, not connected with the Post-Dispatch, will serve as judges.

Mail your selections to Babe Ruth contest editor, care the Post-Dispatch.

James F. Bibb of Marmaduke, Ark., has submitted the following team:

Terry, Giants, first base.
Lindstrom, Giants, third base.
Klein, Phillies, right field.
Frisch, Cardinals, second base.
Wilson, Cubs, center field.
Simmons, Athletics, left field.
Wright, Pirates, shortstop.
Cochrane, Athletics, catcher.
Grove, Athletics, pitch.
Marberry, Senators, pitch.

One of a number of selections from Kansas was submitted by Arch Sweet, Box 37, Hallowell, Kan. Sweet's lineup:

Frisch, Cardinals, second base.
Cochrane, Athletics, catcher.
Terry, Giants, first base.
Wilson, Cubs, center field.
Simmons, Athletics, left field.
Klein, Phillies, right field.
Lindstrom, Giants, third base.
Wright, Robins, shortstop.
Grove, Athletics, pitch.
Earnshaw, Athletics, pitch.

Oklahoma is heavily represented. Keith Holland, 206A Southeast avenue, Miami, Ok., has submitted the following team:

Simmons, Athletics, left field.
Averill, Indians, center field.
Terry, Giants, first base.
Klein, Phillies, right field.
Hodapp, Indians, second base.
Lindstrom, Giants, third base.
Jackson, Giants, shortstop.

By the Associated Press.

DEAUVILLE, France, Aug. 25.—G. Wildenstein's Rieur, 3-year-old by Joyeux Drille out of Riene De Naples, won the Grand Prix Deauville, worth half a million francs yesterday.

Rules Governing Babe Ruth's All-America Team Contest

THE contest is open to everyone, except employes of the Post-Dispatch and their families.

Entries will close Aug. 31 at midnight and letters bearing postmark up to that time will be considered eligible.

The contestant naming the same players in the same positions and batting order as Babe Ruth wins the first prize; but in event no contestant duplicates Ruth's picks, the one nearest will be considered the winner.

In addition to naming the players to conform to those chosen by Ruth, contestants must arrange them in the same batting order as Babe Ruth. The Babe has agreed to place his choices in the order in which he thinks they should go to the plate.

An explanatory letter of not more than 250 words must accompany the selections and will be passed upon by the judges. This is as important as selecting the players. Babe himself will write an explanation of his choices. In event of a tie, excellence of the compositions would determine the winner. (Write on one side of the paper only and make your selections on a separate sheet.)

Ten players will make up the team, two pitchers and eight other players, one for each position. Only one team may be submitted by each contestant.

No correction will be accepted once an entry has been received and filed.

Babe Ruth is not eligible. He will not pick himself.

Players must be selected on the basis of their play in the 1930 season only. Performances of previous years do not count.

A player may be placed in a position other than the one he regularly occupies, provided he has played such position in one or more championship games. Otherwise regular positions must be rigidly adhered to. For instance, a regular left fielder may not be placed in right field, unless he has played there at least once in 1930.

The trophies will be $100 cash for first, $75 for second and $50 for third, $25 for the fourth and five others of $10 each. A dozen autographed Babe Ruth bats and another dozen autographed baseball mounted on blotters will be the other mementoes for successful contestants.

Mail selections to the BABE RUTH CONTEST EDITOR, care the Post-Dispatch.

American Track Officials Select 66 Men to Oppose British in Chicago Meet

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Track and field aces of the British Empire and the United States today moved toward Chicago, where they will meet Wednesday night in Soldier Field for international supremacy.

From Hamilton, Ont., where the empire games were held last week, a team of more than 50 stars headed for the scene of the first British-United States meet to be held in the United States, while from Pittsburg, scene of the national championship of the amateur athletic union, 66 of Uncle Sam's best moved westward.

Following the elaborate opening ceremony and parade by members of both teams and their accompanying delegations, 14 relay and team events will be decided. One point will be awarded for each event. The running events to be relay and team affairs, while the field events will be decided on the basis of total height or distance.

Britons Have Fine Chance.

Based on comparative performances in their championship meets, the British strength is concentrated in the running events, while the United States appears to have a big edge in the field. Great Britain's chances in the sprint relays will not be hurt by the loss to the American team of Percy Williams, double championship winner in the 1928 Olympic games. Williams, who pulled a tendon in the final of the 100-yard dash Saturday, had not planned to run in any event except the special 100-yard dash.

With Eddie Tolan, University of Michigan Negro, and George Simpson of Ohio State, paired with two other American sprint stars, the United States appeared to have the edge in the 400-yard relay, and the mile relay stacked up as close, in the longer races, however, Great Britain rates as more powerful in the field, with Herman Brix and Jimmy De Mers, approaching their A. A. U., championship marks in the shot put and javelin, respectively the U. S. should win easily, as well as in the pole vault, in which Uncle Sam's men performed more impressively than the British.

The loss of Williams from the special 100-yard dash is disappointing, but Simpson, Tolan, Leland and Farmer, are expected to find sturdy competition in Leight Miller and Jimmy Fitzpatrick of Canada; Page of England, and Legge of South Africa.

America Has Fine Team.

The American team of 66 men selected on a basis of showings in the A. A. U. meet follows:

JENNINGS WINS OVER MITCHELL IN PUBLIC PARK SINGLES FINAL

By Davison Obear.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—George J. Jennings Jr., Chicago, won the National Public Parks men's single championship by defeating Dennison L. Mitchell, Washington, D. C., in the final round at Rock Creek Park yesterday, 6—4, 7—5, 6—1.

In defeating Mitchell the Chicago star won his third straight title. He scored at Cleveland in 19[..] and at Buffalo last year.

While Mitchell showed flashes of superiority over his opponent he lacked the all-around game to win. Mitchell led, 4—2 in the first set and 5 to 2 in the second, but Jennings overcame the lead to win and then took the third set easily.

There were four deuce points in the first game of the opening set, Mitchell winning on steadiness. Jennings was erratic at the start of the set but Mitchell made a number of placements to take the lead, at 4 to 2. Errors by Mitchell and good service by Jennings enabled the champion to bring the score to 4-all. Jennings' net placements gave him the next two games and the set, 6—4.

Mitchell won the first four games of the second set due to his fast placements to all parts of the court. He came into the net frequently at this stage of the set. Jennings' determination gave him the fifth game and then he came back gradually to even the score. Mitchell had set point once in the eighth game and four times in the ninth game but lost on errors. Jennings was steadier in the next three games and took the second set, 7—5.

In the third and final set, Jennings' service and net play proved too much for Mitchell. The Washington player took the fourth game on his service. Mitchell lost a number of points on shots going out of court by inches.

WRESTLERS TO TRAIN TONIGHT FOR PROGRAM HERE ON WEDNESDAY

Four of the eight wrestlers who will appear in the matches on Wednesday night's wrestling card at the Battery A arena will engage in workouts tonight at the Grand boulevard open-air arena, which will be illuminated so the public may witness the training sessions, Promoter Tom Packs announced.

Rudy Dusek, Jim Clinstock, Lloyd Burdick and Johnny Spellman will appear in opening workouts. Dusek, a Memphis grappler, meets Dick Shikat, in the main match which is listed as a finish affair.

In the second preliminary, limited to 45 minutes, Clinstock will face Hans Steinke, German grappler, who is one of the strongest and biggest wrestlers in the game. Clinstock has won three victories and lost one decision in his four bouts here this summer. The semi-windup, restricted to one hour, matches Spellman of Providence, R. I., against Ghafoor Khan, champion of Afghanistan.

Burdick, an Illinois University product, meets Firpo Wilcox of Oklahoma University in the 30-minute curtain-raiser.

Simmons Joins Quincy.

Pitcher Pat Simmons has joined the Quincy Indians following his release by the Boston Red Sox with whom he has had several trials.

BETTY NUTHALL DEFEATS MRS. HARPER FOR NATIONAL TENNIS TITLE

ENGLISH PLAYER CONQUERS COAST ACE IN STRAIGHT SETS, IN FINAL

By the Associated Press.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Betty Nuthall, 20-year-old British girl with a smile famous on two continents and a blistering forehand drive, is the new tennis champion of the United States.

She wasn't considered good enough to have a place this year on the British Wightman Cup team and she was a disappointment at Wimbledon, but before an American gallery that has made her its darling, she scored a double triumph in the finals of the National Women's championships on the rain-drenched courts of the West Side Tennis Club.

Succeeding to the title forfeited by Helen Wills Moody just before the tournament started, Miss Nuthall captured the singles championship by defeating Mrs. Anna Virginia McCune Harper, San Francisco left-hander and fifth ranking American, 6—1, 6—4.

Returning to the courts after a heavy downpour and playing on slippery turf through intermittent showers, Miss Nuthall teamed with a 17-year-old American girl, Sarah Palfrey of Boston, to win the doubles honors. They came from behind to defeat Mrs. Harper and Edith Cross, also of San Francisco, 3—6, 6—3, 7—5.

For the first time in 43 years, the American women's singles championship goes abroad in Miss Nuthall's possession, but few victories by home-bred stars have been received with any more applause than was Betty's triumph.

She was a favorite all week in the tournament, with Mrs. Moody out of the competition, and she completed her march of conquest in impressive fashion against Mrs. Harper. Except when she staged a strong rally in the second set, leading at one time by 4—2 on games and 30—0 on points, the California woman was outclassed by Miss Nuthall's sweeping, hard-hit drives. Mrs. Harper, her mere 116 pounds and slim build a contrast to her rival's size and strength, had neither the service nor the stroking battery adequate to combat Miss Nuthall.

The English girl was extended in only one match in the entire tournament. That was in the semifinals when she defeated Marjorie Morill, 6—8, 6—4, 6—2.

Rovin Wins Over Adler in Tennis Tourney Final

In the Forest Park Tennis Club tournament being held on the Jefferson Memorial Courts, Charles Rovin defeated Hyman Adler in the junior singles final match, 1—6, 6—3, 6—1, yesterday.

The Dietz-Felbinger pair, Kurt and Ella, reached the mixed doubles final by downing Mattern and Moran, 6—2, 6—1. In one of the hardest-fought matches Adolph and Charles Rovin managed to turn back Mendelson and Adler to reach the quarterfinals in men's doubles.

Adler played well in the first set of the junior title match, but Rovin tightened up and won the next two.

The Dietz-Felbingers were clearly superior to their opponents who could only win three games in the match.

After winning Saturday from Max Schneider, Norman Lerman bowed to Merton Weber yesterday, 6—4, 6—1. Wayne Smith, also a winner Saturday, was defeated in love sets by Joyce Portnoy.

Tournament play continues this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Good and Fast	103	7	9	8^1	9	9	9	E. Hanford	27.21

Flying Cherokee, prominent from the start, came strongly in the final sixteenth and taking a short lead near the end held the others in a driving finish. Upright was outrun early, moved up fast on the outside approaching the stretch turn but though forced very wide, on the bend closed gamely on the outside. Fudge was in close quarters in the stretch run and finished close up. Valedictory weakened near the end.

$2 mutuels paid: Flying Cherokee, win $15.50, place $9.02, show $5.10; Upright, place $5.56, show $3.92; Fudge, show $3.88.

Little Rumpus	105	3	6	7	7	7	7	M. Rose	64.78

Princeton broke quickly and showing good speed from the start held sway throughout and won easily. Theo Rochester raced close up, saved ground where possible and held The Tartar. The latter made up much ground and was going well at the end. Hot Time weakly ridden, could never get to the leaders and racing wide in the stretch was tiring at the finish. Sir Argo broke slowly and was never dangerous.

$2 mutuels paid: Princeton, win $6.34, place $4.42, show $3.42; Theo Rochester, place $7.06, show $4.46; TheTartar, show $8.04.

CARNERA MEETS BERTAZZOLA IN BOUT SATURDAY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—With newcomers rapidly coming to the fore, the lightweight division fast is regaining the favor of boxing's fandom.

In the last year the division has undergone a sweeping change so far as leading challengers go with public interest centered on such figures as Al Singer, the new champion; Jack Kid Berg of England, Tony Canzoneri, erstwhile featherweight king; Justo Suarez, Argentine sensation, and Goldie Hess, Pacific Coast star.

Hess makes his Eastern debut against Canzoneri in a 10-round bout at the Queensboro Stadium here tomorrow night. He has compiled an impressive record in recent months and may rob Canzoneri of his chance for a title bout with Singer in Madison Square Garden Nov. 18. Canzoneri, a fast and skillful workman, rules a slight favorite in the betting.

Primo Carnera, mammoth Italian, meets his fellow-countryman, Ricardo Bertazzola, in a 15-rounder at Atlantic City Saturday night; George Godfrey, giant Pennsylvania Negro, takes on Arthur DeKuh of New York at Cleveland tomorrow night, while at San Francisco tonight, the coast's two best heavyweights, in Jack Dempsey's opinion, Max Baer of Livermore, Cal., and Frankie Campbell of San Francisco, battle it out in a 10-rounder. Otto Von Porat, Norweigian puncher from Chicago, battles Joe Lohman of Toledo at Springfield, Ill., Thursday.

Philadelphia's card tonight is headed by a 10-rounder between Eddie Shea, Chicago featherweight, and Lew Massey, Philadelphia.

Bronson Offered Post as Matchmaker for 12 Boxing Programs at the Arena

By Harry McKenna.

Whether Jimmy Bronson, popular manager of boxers and former Missourian, will return to his native State as the matchmaker for a St. Louis promoting group headed by Joseph Broderick, an attorney, will be decided today at a conference between Bronson and Broderick.

Broderick, who has an option giving him exclusive rights to conduct boxing shows at The Arena for 12 nights beginning in October and extending through April, submitted his proposition to Bronson yesterday, and the two are to have another conference today. Broderick says he has the promise of financial support from a small group of St. Louis sportsmen, who are eager to put St. Louis back on the map as a boxing center. He said he was not at liberty at the present to make public the names of his backers.

Broderick has not signed a contract with The Arena officials for his 12 shows, but he must make known his decision today or the option will expire.

Bronson, who was born and reared at Joplin, Mo., where he conducted boxing shows for 15 years, until he left there in 1918 to join the Y. M. C. A. service in the World War, was the guest of honor at a banquet last night at the Melbourne Hotel, which was attended by a group of sportsmen.

Bronson, who now makes his headquarters in New York, where he handles a stable of fighters, thinks boxing is due for a big comeback in St. Louis.

Bronson Must See Money.

"I am very much interested in Mr. Broderick's offer," Bronson said. "If Mr. Broderick can show me that he has sufficient financial backing to put boxing over in a big way in St. Louis, I probably will enter into a contract with him to promote shows here.

"I have always wanted to get back into the promotion end of boxing. I have been in the boxing game for many years as a manager, and with my wide acquaintance among managers of boxers and the boxers themselves I think I am well qualified to become a promoter.

"I wouldn't care to come back to Missouri and St. Louis as a matchmaker and be a failure. I could go to Newark or Jersey City and promote fights and if I failed to succeed it wouldn't matter, but I would hate to return to my native state and fall down as a promoter.

"St. Louis has the population and should be one of the leading boxing centers of the country. And if I return here as a promoter I will give the boxing public of St. Louis the high-class shows to which it is entitled, and I am sure that the public will give these shows the proper support."

"The fistic fans nowadays want action and that is the kind of fights I would give them. There might not always be champions or near-champions on the cards but they would give the fans plenty of action, and when you give the public a run for its money, people are going to attend your shows.

"The public today is the matchmaker. Give the fans action and they will come back."

The Arena Ideal.

Bronson visited The Arena and pronounced it an ideal place for holding fights. He said the seating capacity of the building was large enough so that boxing shows with a $3 top price should be a success.

Lewis T. Tune, former manager for Bradstreet's, declared that the St. Louis sport public wanted clean sportsmanship and that if a promoter gave the fans their money's worth in boxing attraction that the public would support boxing in a big way.

Robert Probst asserted that St. Louis was known over the country as an "athletic cemetery" and that it needed the right kind of promoters to put the city back where it belongs as a sports center.

George Hook, a member of the City Boxing Commission, pledged Bronson the support of that body in putting boxing on a higher plane here.

Broderick declared it would be his aim to give St. Louis boxing fans "the best fights we can give them for the money."

Bronson, who had charge of boxing activities of the American Expeditionary Forces in France, where he conducted the A. E. F. boxing championships and benefit shows, on his return from the war managed Bob Martin, the A. E. F. heavyweight champion. He was chief second for Gene Tunney, the retired heavyweight champion, in his two fights with Jack Dempsey.

Bronson plans to return to New York tomorrow.

JAPANESE WOMEN WRESTLERS AMUSE HONOLULU CROWDS

HONOLULU, Aug. 25.—Fourteen Japanese women wrestlers, who toss 150-pound sacks of rice around like beanbags and handle each other as roughly as elephants at play, are giving a thrill even to blase residents of this city.

They came over billed at "Fair Maidens of Japan" but the large opening night crowd saw a group of huskies led by 207-pound Miyo Arita.

One of her acts is to hold a half dozen of her playmates in the air with the nonchalance of eating a bowl of rice.

The young women combine all the gestures of the professional men jiu jitsu experts of their native land. They swagger around the ring; spit on their hands, and smack each other down to the accompaniment of lusty shouts.

Typos Will Play Washington Team In First Round

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 25.—The annual baseball tournament of the Union Printers' International Baseball League will open here today with five games in the first round of a round robin series to determine the winner of the Garry Herrmann trophy, emblematic of the championship.

At a meeting of the National Commission of the league, held yesterday, the following schedule was drawn: Indianapolis vs. Detroit; St. Paul vs. Boston; New York vs. Pittsburg; Cincinnati vs. Chicago; St. Louis vs. Washington. Cleveland drew the byes.

The Mound City printers, the last to be drawn, were pitted against Washington, the present champions, winners of the cup on eight occasions.

Tomorrow morning the annual golf tourney will get under way at Alcoma Country Club with 72 holes of medal play.

The St. Louis ball club, which left the Mound City early Saturday evening, was thrown for a loss on the trip here. When the players arose yesterday morning it was discovered that a thief had entered the car and taken most of the money the boys had.

OKLAHOMA A.-M. FOOTBALL SQUAD TO HOLD FIRST DRILL SEPT. 10

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

STILLWATER, Ok., Aug. 25.—In order to get in shape for contests with two Big Ten teams, the Oklahoma A. and M. College football squad has been given permission by the Missouri Valley Conference to hold its initial practice Sept. 10, five days earlier than usual.

The Aggies play the University of Iowa and Indiana University on successive October Saturdays. They are the only Missouri Valley school which will engage in Big Ten competition this year.

A. and M. this year plays Washington University of St. Louis and Creighton of Omaha within the Missouri Valley Conference, Oklahoma University of the Big Six, Arkansas University of the Southwest Conference, the University of Wichita of the Kansas Conference and Haskell Indians and Oklahoma City University as other schools.

Coaches Are At Work.

Coaches are already busy at Stillwater getting practice schedules worked out, looking after equipment and making the other preliminary arrangements necessary for the opening of practice.

A total of $3500 has been spent on new equipment this summer and another $5000 has been expended for the purchase of a 16-passenger bus which will be used to transport athletic teams.

The coaching staff at Stillwater remains the same this year as last. Lynn O. Waldorf, Syracuse star, will be the head coach and pay special attention to the line. A. A. Exendine, the famous Indian player and coach, will be in charge of the backfield. "Wash" Kenny will help with the line and "Puny" James will have the freshmen again this season.

Backfield to Be Heavy.

Reversing a situation which has prevailed at Stillwater for many years, the backfield will be heavy this season and the line relatively light. Waldorf likes his line to be light and fast.

Nemecek, a junior tackle, is the only probable regular who weighs 200 pounds and he will have part of this weight pared down during the regular playing season.

Two tackles, two ends and three guards are to be back from the 1929 team. The greatest difficulty the Aggie coaches will have is the matter of developing a center. Burleson and Nemecek are the veteran tackles, Haston and Fisher the experienced ends and Dotter, Gregg and Oates the guards.

If the Aggie line is light its backfield will be extra heavy. Capt. Jack Baker and Bill Lott are fullbacks, Blackburn and Cowboy Curtain experienced halfbacks and Martin and Trigg, two fiery and well qualified quarterbacks.

Following is the Aggie schedule for 1930:

Sept. 26, Wichita University at home; Oct. 4, Iowa University at Iowa City; Oct. 11, Indiana University at Bloomington; Oct. 17, Oklahoma City University at Oklahoma City; Oct. 24, Washington University at home; Oct. 31, Haskell Indians at home; Nov. 8, Arkansas University at Fayetteville; Nov. 23, Oklahoma University at home (homecoming); Nov. 27, Creighton University at Omaha.

SENTINELS AND TOWER CAMP PROVE SURPRISE TEAMS IN MUNY PLAY

CLUBS TO MEET IN SEMIFINALS ROUND OF TITLE SERIES SUNDAY

Semifinal Pairings

Tower Camp (Commercial League) vs. Sentinels (De-Molay League).
Spartons (Empire League) vs. Salisburys (South Side League).

THIRD ROUND RESULTS.
Tower Camp 14, Freight Accounts 1.
Sentinels 12, St. Anthonys 3.
Spartons 20, Ebenezers 1.
Salisburys 11, McQuay-Norris 3.

By Dent McSkimming.

In spite of the absence of some clubs which were generally regarded as strong title contenders, the semifinal round of the Municipal Baseball Association championship series, to be played next Sunday, gives promise of furnishing keen competition and a fair afternoon's entertainment. The semifinals will be played as a doubleheader at Fairground. In the upper bracket the Tower Camp team will oppose the sensational Sentinels and in the lower half the Spartons will oppose the Salisburys.

Only two of these four clubs were seeded, the Spartons and Salisburys. The other two teams which league officials looked upon as probable semifinalists were the Polish Falcons and the Freight Accounts. The Sentinels wiped out the Falcons on Saturday and yesterday the Tower Camp blasted the Freight Accounts out of the picture. Thus, the two surprise teams of the competition are scheduled to meet next Sunday.

An unhappy choice of pitchers yesterday cost the Freight Accounts whatever chance they had of beating the Tower Camp team in their game at Forest Park. About 2000 persons gathered in anticipation of a close battle but what they saw was a rout. Falling on the offerings of Lehr, Galliher and Spreck in the first inning, the Woodmen slammed out seven hits for seven runs. Spreck succeeded in getting the side out after 12 men had batted, but later in the game there were other uprisings in which even he was belted about carelessly.

Govenat Pitches Well.

From the standpoint of the Tower Camp team, the superb pitching of George Govenat was perhaps as important a factor as the team's heavy hitting. Although he did not win any games for the team during the regular season when he was used exclusively as an outfielder, Govenat has been in complete command of the hurling during the elimination series. He beat the Colleagues in the first round game, 20 to 5, he rested in the game with the Gebkens and came back yesterday to hold the highly regarded Freights to seven scattered hits and one run. He walked only one man yesterday and none at all in the Colleagues game, an extraordinary display of control for a Municipal Leaguer. He was well supported, particularly by Drost and Schmidt. The infield rattled off three fast double plays to smother incipient Freight rallies. Schmidt's one-hand stab of Stuckel's line drive was a classic.

The Spartons, Salisburys and Sentinels had comparatively easy games.

SUNSETS CLINCH TITLE IN DIVISION ONE OF HORSESHOE LEAGUE

The Sunsets won the championship of division one of the Municipal Horseshoe League Sunday morning at Fairgrounds by defeating the Free Juniors, 12 to 4, in their 16-game match. This is the first championship the Sunsets have won and also the first championship the teams managed by Gus Klemme have lost in the last six years.

Frank Meyer of the Sunsets established a new high ringer record for one game by tossing 34 ringers out of 46 shoes for an average of .739. The former record was held by A. Michel of the Flints and was pitched in 1928. He had 25 ringers in 36 shoes to average .694. In the second match of this division the Flints won 14 and lost 2 to the Liberty Bells. This setback dropped the Liberty Bell team in the cellar in the final standings. The third set of games were won by the Angelicas, 10 to 6, from the Larrs.

Milton Zobrist of the Flints, pitched a new high ringer average for this season. Zobrist tossed 113 shoes on the peg out of 198 tries to average .570.

The final standings:

Team.	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Sunsets	173	57	.752
Flints	144	60	.706
Free Juniors	127	102	.554
Angelicas	121	113	.517
Larrs	84	106	.442
Liberty Bells	56	177	.240

WRAY'S Column

As Fighters View It.

JIMMY BRONSON, the Missouri boy with an international reputation as a handler of fighters, who has under consideration an offer to handle 12 fights at The Arena, for the coming season, calls attention to the handicaps under which cities like St. Louis, Cleveland, Pittsburg and other secondary communities labor. Although the city is overshadowed in money and publicity factors by metropolitan boxing centers, home fans still demand that first rate fighters be exhibited for one-third the price and expect them to give exactly as good an exhibition as in New York.

"Fighters are not as wholehearted as they once were," Bronson commented today. "Once upon a time a boxer of standing resented the mere imputation that another fighter could beat him. He had pride in his craft. Vindication of his professional honors was a natural consequence.

"Today the fighter wants the biggest money and the biggest publicity. St. Louis? He knows that St. Louis doesn't and can't pay the prices that New York does. He knows better than any one else that no matter whom he fights publicity emanating from St. Louis would not be one-fiftieth what it would be coming out of New York.

"If Justo Suarez, for example, fought Kid Berg in St. Louis, it would be just another fight to the rest of the country; but if it happened in New York it would be a championship elimination, with a gate of $200,000.

"The fighter is as keen for his publicity as he is for his money. But he can not get either great guarantees or much credit for a fight in a secondary city.

"So, when it comes to making matches for St. Louis, the field of principals is limited. The managers argue that if a Berg and Suarez would go big in St. Louis they would go five times bigger in New York at fancy prices. Under present conditions you can't blame them. It's the way they are being brought up."

* * *

When Williard Quit.

BRONSON, who has refereed many fights in America and foreign lands, will not forget one in which he officiated in Springfield, Mo., about 20 years ago, when the then giant cowboy, Jess Willard was not even known, outside of the cow ranges.

Jess, who knew little of ring ways and had fought only a few times in his life, was persuaded to get into the ring with a tough Missouri boy named Joe Cox. Joe never attained much fame, although he reached New York before he died. He was many pounds lighter than Willard and could have walked under his extended arm—almost. But he had a punch like the kick of a mule. Jess didn't like it, and before the first round was over he thought he had business elsewhere. Bronson, who wanted to give the crowd its money's worth, as referee would not let Jess quit for several rounds. But finally after the big boy had taken a lot of pile-drivers to the midsection he climbed through the ropes and walked off without waiting for his money.

The man mountain had had enough.

Five years later Willard won the world's championship from Jack Johnson. What a champion! Gorgonzola? No, let's see—limberger. That was the odor we recall.

* * *

He Guessed Wrong.

BRONSON missed early fame and wealth by a hair line. Not that Jimmy hasn't accumulated a lot of both. But he might have a safe full of gilt-edged stuff if he had just had things break a bit differently.

* * *

First, Jimmy, while looking over the boxers in France during the World War, finally picked Bob Martin to chaperone and campaign, as the "coming world heavyweight champion." He might have grabbed Gene Tunney.

Second, he might have succeeded with Martin, but Fate stepped in and ruined Martin's future when an auto accident smashed up Bob and put him out of the running.

Martin was the Inter-Allied heavyweight champion and Tunney was the A. E. F. champion. Martin was bigger man with a terrific wallop. Bronson sensed the value of the punch and elected to campaign Martin instead of Tunney.

Even as things turned out Bronson, when Tunney fought Dempsey, was invited to handle Tunney's corner during both fights. How well he did his stuff the world knows. Too bad Gene and Jimmy didn't hook up from the beginning.

* * *

Everything Is Jake.

"YES, there are bad elements in boxing, in New York—and every place else," Bronson commented. "But there have always been black sheep and bad eggs. We have defaulters in banks. We have presidents of business companies who betray their stockholders. You find occasional untrustworthy people in every line of business. The point is that they are the exception. There are bad people in boxing. Racketeers are in charge, in some instances, or at least make a show of dictating. But I don't know of any community where they actually run things.

"For the most part the fighters are all right and are fighting on the level and that's the main thing. Fighters know they can't get very far by cheating so, if they are of any account, they just won't submit to questionable tactics.

"In the old days the boys used to stall and take it easy. That was their way of fooling the public. Now the officials and the crowd ride them to a fare-you-well. The fans don't want boxing, so the fighters can't stall and pretend, as formerly, they are so skillful that neither can reach the other. Fans today want to see real blows struck and land—and that means the contestants must extend themselves to the limit, without undue clinching or holding. If they fail, the fans put the Indian sign on them. They can't sell themselves to that community again.

"I really believe that if certain managers of fighters, and they are not as numerous as some persons seem to think, were banned, their boxers would be all right."

GEHRIG GETS 6 HITS IN 8 TIMES UP AND AGAIN LEADS AMERICAN

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Lou Gehrig alone was able to break the spell the pitchers held over the Big Six batsmen yesterday, while Babe Herman apparently got a break, as rain kept him idle. Gehrig hit safely six times in eight trips to the plate, lifted his average six points above its former level of .390, and captured the American League batting lead and second place in the Big Six. Bill Terry retained a lead of 12 points over Gehrig, although he lost one by getting only one hit in four times at bat.

Al Simmons held his mark at .391 with two hits in four attempts, although he was dropped into third place. Chuck Klein dropped a point nearer the idle Herman, going to .387 with three hits in nine times up. Babe Ruth went to the plate eight times without getting a hit, and dropped seven points to .362.

WHITES AND REDS PLAY 13-13 TIE IN POLO MATCH

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Tommy Hitchcock's varsity Whites ran into stubborn opposition from the Reds, or junior varsity, in yesterday's trial match for the International series and were held to a 13-13 tie. It was the first time since the polo trials began that Hitchcock's varsity failed to win.

The varsity lined up with Hitchcock at No. 3, Eric Pedley of California, at No. 1, Winston Guest at back and Cecil Smith of Texas, at No. 2, the opposing Reds had Earle A. S. Hopping at No. 2, H. W. (Rube) Williams of Texas at No. 3, Elmer Boeseke of California at back, and G. H. (Pete) Bostwick and Stephen Sanford dividing duty at No. 1.

Hitchcock narrowly escaped serious injury in the fourth period when he was thrown from his pony. The American leader escaped with a shaking up, however, and resumed play.

GOLFERS WALKED 30 MILES.

It is calculated that contestants in this season's British open golf tournament who played through to the end covered about 30 miles on foot.

ALGONQUIN WINS FROM NORMANDIE IN GOLF MATCH; LORD IS STAR

By W. J. McGoogan.

Roger Lord, captain, led a team of 10 Algonquin Golf Club players to victory in a match with Normandie's team, headed by Jim Manion, at Algonquin yesterday by a score of 27 points to five. The Algonquin team scored 14 points to four for Normandie in the individual matches in the morning while in the best ball matches in the afternoon, Algonquin scored 13 points to one for Normandie.

Lord had the best individual score of the day, shooting the morning 18 in 71 and the afternoon in 72 for a total of 143 while Charley Collins, Western Junior champion, and Lord's partner in the match, had the best 18-hole score of the 20 players when he went around in the afternoon in a flat 70, one stroke under par.

Manion was the leading point winner for his team for he took three points from Collins in the morning, when Jim shot a 71, and he led his team all day when he came back in the afternoon with a 74 for a 145 total for the 36 holes.

Probably the most closely contested battles of the play were those between Benny Goodwin and Don Bender for Algonquin and Elliott Whitbread and Donald Anderson, Normandie. Goodwin and Bender each won one point in the morning, Goodwin defeating Whitbread, one up, and Bender winning from Anderson, 2 up. In the afternoon Goodwin and Bender took Whitbread and Anderson for three points. Bender was the star of this foursome in the afternoon when he turned in 71. Don was out in 37, 2 over par and came back in 34, 2 under. His incoming nine was helped greatly by a string of four threes which he put together on the first four holes, including an eagle on No. 10 and a birdie on No. 12.

The teams plan another match under the same conditions at Normandie Sunday, Sept. 7.

Willard Against Foul Rule.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 25.—Jess Willard, the realtor, but formerly heavyweight champion of the fistic world, says in his opinion, the foul rule now enforced by the New York Boxing Commission will "demoralize boxing and will fall through."

BRITISH PALESTINE POLICY ASSAILED BY LEAGUE BOARD

Mandates Commission Declares England Failed to Satisfy Aims of Arabs and to Protect Property.

HENDERSON REPLIES FOR ENGLAND

Says It Was Difficult to Reconcile Aspirations of One Group With Cause of Jewish Home.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Aug. 25. — A sharp clash of opinion on responsibility for the Palestine disorders of last August was disclosed officially to-day when the League of Nations published its mandate commission's report on an examination of the situation, with the British Government's comments on the report which will be placed before the League Council next month.

The mandate commission, composed of the strongest powers of the league, accused the British Government of having failed in administration of the Palestine mandate, specifically in failing to satisfy the political aspirations of the Arabs, in failing to provide security for persons and property in establishment of the Jewish home and for being taken by surprise by the outbreak of last August.

Secretary Henderson, replying for Great Britain, declared the commission itself did not foresee the trouble and that the commission in many instances has rejected the findings of the Shaw Commission and accepted the declarations presented by Jewish agencies upon which the Government had no chance to comment.

Difficulty of Task.

Henderson pointed out the difficulty of satisfying the political ambitions of the Arabs and at the same time advancing the cause of a Jewish national home, while carrying out orders of the League of Nations to maintain the rights of all inhabitants of Palestine regardless of race and religion.

The League Council to which the report will be presented will begin its session on Sept. 8 but the report will not be considered until the close of the meeting, probably about Oct. 1, after the end of the League assembly session.

The British Government, commenting on the report, considers the charge of partial inaction the more surprising in view of the fact that the Mandates Commission, though having examined the mandatory's report from year to year, has not foreshadowed in any way the charges now brought against the manner in which the mandatory Power has been carrying out its obligations."

Quarrel Over Wailing Wall.

The subject of the wailing wall was dealt with by the commission and by the British rejoinder as well. "Quarrels over the wailing wall," the commission report declares, "the symbolic significance of which was not evident in its full gravity to the foreign observer," gave rise among the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and through them, throughout a large part of Palestine, to a state of nervousness and suppressed excitement likely on an early occasion to develop into an outbreak of violence."

Dealing with the commission's assertion that political disappointments provoked Arab resentment against the mandatory Power, Secretary Henderson observed that the commission "failed to take account of the paramount importance hitherto attached by Arab leaders to the political issue and ignored the fact that the demands of the Arabs have always been for a particular form of representative institutions which would be plainly incompatible with execution of the mandate. Repeated offers of His Majesty's government to associate Arabs and Jews in a form of representative government which would be compatible with the mandatory obligations always have been rejected by the Arab leaders."

Board's Attitude 'Surprising.'

Criticizing the mandatory commission's attitude the British declaration says "His Majesty's Government note that the findings of the Shaw Commission on questions of fact, such as the causes and responsibility for the outbreak, have been in some cases ignored and in others called in question.

"Whatever view may be taken of the conclusions arrived at by the Commission, their verdict on questions of fact, coming from an authoritative source, and based upon actual evidence tested by rigorous cross examination, ... surprising the attitude toward ... of the mandates commission ...

"This sincere striking when contrasted with the fact that at the same time criticisms taken from a Jewish memorandum ... reached the mandatory power ...

GENEVA, Aug. 25. — A sharp clash of opinion on responsibility for the Palestine disorders of last August was disclosed officially today when the League of Nations published its mandate commission report on an examination of the situation, with the British Government's comments on the report which will be placed before the League Council next month.

The mandate commission, composed of the strongest powers of the league, accused the British Government of having failed in its administration of the Palestine mandate, specifically in failing to satisfy the political aspirations of the Arabs, in failing to procure security for persons and property, in establishment of the Jewish home and for being taken by surprise by the outbreak of last August.

Secretary Henderson, replying for Great Britain, declared the commission itself did not foresee the trouble and that the commission in many instances has rejected the findings of the Shaw Commission and accepted the declarations presented by Jewish agencies upon which the Government had no chance to comment.

Difficulty of Task.

Henderson pointed out the difficulty of satisfying the political ambitions of the Arabs and at the same time advancing the cause of a Jewish national home, while carrying out orders of the League of Nations to maintain the rights of all inhabitants of Palestine regardless of race and religion.

The League Council to which the report will be presented will begin its session on Sept. 8 but the report will not be considered until near the close of the meeting, probably about Oct. 1, after the end of the League assembly session.

The British Government, commenting on the report, considers the charge of partial inaction "the more surprising in view of the fact that the Mandates Commission, although having examined the mandatory's report from year to year, has not foreshadowed in any way the charges now brought against the manner in which the mandatory Power has been carrying out its obligations."

Quarrel Over Wailing Wall.

The subject of the wailing wall was dealt with by the commission and by the British rejoinder as well. Quarrels over the wailing wall, the commission report declares, "the symbolic significance of which was not evident in its full gravity to a foreign observer," gave rise among the inhabitants of Jerusalem, "and through them, throughout a large part of Palestine, to a state of nervousness and suppressed excitement likely on an early occasion to develop into an outbreak of violence."

Dealing with the commission's assertion that political disappointments provoked Arab resentment against the mandatory Power, Secretary Henderson observed that the commission "failed to take account of the paramount importance hitherto attached by Arab leaders to the political issue and ignored the fact that the demands of the Arabs have always been for a particular form of representative institutions which would be plainly incompatible with execution of the mandate. Repeated offers of his majesty's government to associate the Arabs and Jews in a form of representative government which would be compatible with the mandatory obligations always have been rejected by the Arab leaders."

Board's Attitude 'Surprising.'

Criticizing the mandatory commission's attitude the British declaration says "His Majesty's government note that the findings of the Shaw Commission on questions of fact, such as the causes of responsibility for the outbreak, have been in some cases ignored and in others called in question.

"Whatever view may be taken of the conclusions arrived at by the commission, their verdict on questions of fact, coming from so authoritative source, and based upon actual evidence tested by rigorous cross examination, make surprising the attitude toward them of the mandates commission.

"This is more striking when contrasted with the fact that at the same time criticisms taken from a Jewish memorandum—which reached the mandatory powers too late for an accompanying comment to be made upon it—have been adopted.

"Generally speaking, the pronouncements on the charge of the Arabs against the Jews and of Jews agains Arabs have been omitted fro mthe report as ultimately held to be outside the scope of the mandates commission, although they were discussed at length in the proceedings.

English Alone Criticised.

"The mandatory power has in consequence been made to appear as the only one of the parties concerned who is deserving of criticism. The manner in which the ex-parte statements reflecting on the conduct of His Majesty's Government have been adopted by the commission, while the considered judgments of the Shaw Commission based on an exhaustive inquiry on the spot and upon evidence which had been subjected to searching cross-examination by eminent counsel, have been dismissed as untenable or have been ignored, suggests that undue weight has been given to criticisms of the mandatory which His Majesty's Government had insufficient opportunity of rebutting or, in some cases, none at all.

"His Majesty's Government cannot but feel that a protest is called for against the procedure of the commission in basing much of their criticisms on information drawn from such sources."

Causes of Disorder.

Dealing with the immediate causes of the Palestine disorders, the mandate report says:

"It has already been observed that numerous incidents centering at the Wailing Wall from September, 1928, to Aug. 16, 1929, contributed largely to creation of the state of mind which eventually led to the outbreak. For the most part these incidents were provoked by attempts by both parties to alter, as regards the arrangements at the place and the customary use made of it, the satus quo that the British Government by its declaration of Nov. 19, 1928, had ordered to be observed pending the agreement which it was hoped would be reached between Moslem and Jewish authorities regarding the performance of ceremonies before the wall.

"This declaration would have gained by being supplemented by police regulations specifying the practices in which Moslems and Jews might engage and those which were forbidden. In the absence of such regulations, the expression 'status quo' had no definite meaning in the eyes of the two parties who were equally disposed to exaggerate their claim.

"Moreover, the consequent uncertainty necessarily made it difficult for the police to act. The regulations which might well have been issued earlier were finally promulgated in September, 1929. They inevitably gave rise to recriminations on the part of those who found an equivocal position convenient, but since it is stated in the report on the administration of Palestine for 1929 that 'no incidents of note have taken place at the wall since these instructions were issued,' it is reasonable to suppose that had regulations been issued earlier regarding the use of the pavement in front of the wall and the space immediately surrounding it, many incidents would have been avoided. The dangerous excitement to which they led was kept at a high pitch until the eve of the disturbances."

Incitements in Press.

"B—The mandatory government agrees with the commission of inquriy that this state of mind was maintained by continual incitements of the Jewish, and more especially of the Arab local press. It has, however, been established that the administration did not always use at the right moment its powers under the press law to suspend seditious prints.

"C—It is beyond question that the Palestine Government was in several instances taken by surprise by these events. In the course of the agitation the administration appears to have displayed a lack of insight especially on the occasion of the Jewish demonstration before the wall on Aug. 15 and the Moslem counter-demonstration on the following day, the gravity of which it apparently did not foresee; and again during the days from Aug. 20 to 23, when the danger, though imminent, probably still could have been warded off by proper precautions. The inadequacy of the intelligence service which is admitted by the mandatory government explains this failure to appreciate the situation.

Armed Forces Inadequate.

"D. The hesitation of the local administration during this period is explained by the fact that at the time of the incidents it had altogether inadequate armed forces at its disposal. The authorities were lulled into a false sense of security by the absence for some years of any overt acts of hostility. In consequence the forces were reduced below the margin of safety.

"The last British regiment was withdrawn from Palestine in 1925, and from that time onward maintenance of order was entrusted to a body of native police, mostly Arabs but partly Jews, with a section of British police whose strength was reduced year by year, as might have been expected in a country where explosions of religious and racial passions have constantly threatened the public peace there was a defection on the part of native contingents as soon as rioting brought the two races into conflict.

175 Policemen.

"Some of them even joined the rioters. Lastly, in Palestine, a country of 900,000 inhabitants, maintenance of order at that critical moment was entirely in the hands of 175 British policemen, one squadron of airplanes and one armored car company. The Permanent Mandates Commission cannot help feeling that the insufficient number of British troops and inadequacy of the police force was the main cause of the large area over which the disturbances took place and the gravity of their consequences.

"The circumstances attendant upon the outbreaks at Hebron and Safed sufficed to show that this inadequacy was largely responsible for the loss of many lives."

The Palestine Commission considers that the Arab element might have found its interests safeguarded by a Government agricultural policy, including public works, to develop a fertile area and the organization of an agricultural credit, which would also have indirectly helped toward the establishment of the Jewish National Home, the report continues.

The report concludes that the Mandates Commission "ventures to think that had the mandatory Government concerned itself more closely with the social and economic adaptation of the Arab population to new conditions due to Jewish immigration it would have served the interests of both sections of the population."

INCOME TAXES AND OTHER INTERNAL REVENUE RECEIPTS INCREASE DESPITE RATE CUT

Total Collections for Year $3,040,145,733, Rise of $101,091,357 — Hoover's Hope for Continuing Reduction Borne Out.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Income taxes and other internal revenue receipts showed a substantial increase for the fiscal year just ended, despite the 1 per cent income tax rate reduction in effect the last six months.

A preliminary statement by the Bureau of Internal Revenue set the total collections for the 12 months ending June 30 at $3,040,145,733, an increase of $101,091,357 over the preceding year's receipts. Of the total, $2,410,259,230 was in income taxes, accounting for almost $79,000,000 of the increase.

In the report was seen added support for the hopeful attitude expressed within the last few days, both by President Hoover and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon for continuation of the reduction on both personal and corporate income taxes.

During the period the bureau disbursed a total of $126,836,333 in tax refunds, the bulk of them income taxes erroneously collected.

Tobacco Taxes Gain.

New York State led in income tax payments, with a total of $830,-165,401. Illinois took second place, while Delaware took honors for the largest percentage of increase. Wyoming showed a 35 per cent decrease. In the miscellaneous tax collections, North Carolina, as usual, led in tobacco taxes, with $232,177,228; New York had the bulk of stamp tax business, with payments of $41,000,000 on capital stock sales and transfers.

Payments of inheritance taxes amounted for the year to $64,769,-625. Tobacco taxes yielded $450,-339,060, an increase of more than $15,000,000 over the preceding year, accounting for the largest portion of the gain exclusive of the income tax payments.

Income taxes represented 79 per cent of the total receipts and miscellaneous taxes 21 per cent, the same as the previous year.

Recapitulation of Receipts.

The following table gives a recapitulation of receipts, by general sources corresponding to the titles in the revenue acts of 1926 and 1928, for the fiscal years 1929 and 1930:

$62,023,891 PAID BY MISSOURI IN YEAR

201-205 Kellogg Bldg.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Missouri, during the Government fiscal year which ended June 30, paid $62,023,891.39 into the Federal Treasury in income and miscellaneous taxes, the Internal Revenue Bureau announced today. This was a decrease of $3,827,721.42 in comparison with collections in 1929 when Federal internal revenue collections in the State amounted to $65,851,612.81.

The First Missouri (St. Louis) district accounted for $49,077,-189.17 of the State's total in the fiscal year just ended. In 1929 collections of this district amounted to $51,705,8 6.52. The decrease was 5 per cent. Income taxes in the St. Louis district aggregated $28,378,084.16, and miscellaneous taxes, $10,699,105.01.

Total collections in the Sixth Missouri (Kansas City) district amounted to $12,946,702.22 in 1930 as compared with $14,146,216.29 in 1929. The decrease war 8 per cent. Income taxes amounted to $12,163,824.92 and miscellaneous taxes to only $782,877.30 in the Kansas City area in 1930.

The total income tax for the State was $50,541,809.08 in 1930. Of this $30,645,474.71 was from corporations and $19,896,434.37 from individuals.

More than two-thirds of the State's miscellaneous taxes came from the manufactured tobacco and snuff factories in the St. Louis area. This tax amounted to $8,-762,439.76, and was exceeded only by North Carolina and Ohio. The State's contribution to the Federal cigar tax was $120,019.70; the cigarette tax, $64,056.03; bonded indebtedness and capital stock issues taxes, $162,278.04; capital sales tax, $48,763.51; taxes on produce futures, $120,394.52; estate taxes, $1,275,161.99; admission taxes, $22,686.63; playing card tax, $868.20.

ST. LOUIS DEFICIT CUT $891,937 IN LAST FISCAL YEAR

Increased Revenue and Economy Reduced It to $193,711 Says Comptroller Nolte in Report.

CITY GOVERNMENT COST $32,076,302

This Is Exclusive of Schools —Assets of the Municipality Exceeds Its Liabilities by $147,262,089.

The printed report of Comptroller Nolte showing in detail the financial transactions and status of the city for the fiscal year ended April 7, 1930, was issued today.

In the letter of transmittal to the Board of Aldermen, Nolte stated that the deficit in the municipal revenue fund was $193,-711.26, having been reduced from $1,085,648 at the beginning of the last fiscal year.

The reduction in deficit, he said, resulted from an increase of $429,120.74 in municipal revenue receipts and a decrease in revenue fund disbursements and appropriations. The deficit had been caused largely by the expenditure out of general revenue of more than $1,-000,000 for erection of the new Police Headquarters building and $500,000 for completion of the new Civil Court House.

In the year ending last April 7, expenditures for the Police Department were $957,510.57 less than in the preceding year, despite a charge of $210,137.55 for the police pension fund.

Assets and Liabilities.

The city redeemed $3,963,000 of maturing bonds, taking the money out of sinking funds accumulated in the treasury for the purpose.

At the end of the year the city had $23,040,018.03 cash in the hands of the Treasurer and deposited in banks, and its sinking fund investments totaled $5,226,-000. Delinquent general and special taxes totaling $5,212,921.80 were listed among assets.

The city's total assets, including real estate and improvements valued at $218,383,567.54, were given as $256,284,952.85. Liabilities included $73,376,000 bonds outstanding, and the excess of assets over liabilities was $147,262,089.66.

How Money Was Spent.

The cost of the city government for the year, exclusive of public schools, was $32,076,302.20, distributed as follows: Public library, $551,626.97; art museum, $452,-630.48; zoological park, $354,-046.31; water works, $3,313,156.46; interest and public debt, $5,380,-553.60; all other municipal purposes, $22,023,405.67.

Total receipts from taxes and other sources were $31,631,693.02, distributed as follows: Public library, $540,475.50; art museum, $270,248.81; zoological park, $325,-046.31; water works, $3,986,063.28; interest and public debt revenue, $4,340,796.90; all other municipal purposes, $22,169,052.22.

Specific tax rates for interest and public debt, public library, art museum and zoological park are included in the total city rate.

The total assessable value of all taxable property in the city is $1,-286,982,005.50. A table gives this valuation by years, beginning with 1878, the valuation in that year having been $179,708,760. The total tax rate in that year was $2.80, compared with $2.69 last year.

Tax-exempt property owned by religious and educational institutions, association and city, State and Federal governments is valued at $125,838,550 for land and $98,-744,030 for improvements, a total of $224,582,580.

Bond-issue expenditures in the fiscal year were $8,160,363.60, as follows: Public building, $6,464,-959.07; waterworks, $886,856.92; municipar airport, $808,547.61. Proceeds from the sale of bonds for these purposes were $21,091,550.

ORTIZ RUBIO SANCTIONS DEBT TREATY MADE FOR MEXICO

President Approves Settlement Signed With International Bankers' Committee.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 25.—President Ortiz Rubio issued a statement yesterday expressing his complete accord with the agreement made by Montes de Oca, Minister of Finance, and Thomas W. Lamont, as chairman of the International Committee of Bankers on Mexico, for adjusting the country's foreign debt. The statement made public corresponds with the Minister of Finance, in which Ortiz Rubio wrote:

"I duly acknowledge the text of the agreement which, by instructions from this executive, you signed with the chairman of the International Committee of Bankers, covering the public external debt and mortgages on the National Railways of Mexico, as well as the memorandum containing the essential points of the aforesaid agreement.

"In reply, it pleases me to express my warmest felicitations to you for the skilful and patriotic manner in which you have brought these negotiations to a successful termination. The results have my complete conformity."

BRITISH LABORITES STIRRED OVER BIRTH OF ROYAL BABY

Woman M. P., in Speech, Compares Life of Infants to That of Workers' Children.

By the Associated Press.

GLAMIS, Scotland, Aug. 25. — Britain's new royal baby, born Thursday to the Duchess of York, has stirred some of Labor's Left Wing members to comparisons between the lot of royal infants and that of their poverty-stricken infant subjects.

At the annual Keir Hardie memorial demonstration Saturday at Cumnock, Ayrshire, Miss Mary Sherman, Laborite, said the royal baby "would never have to face the question of living on 5, 3 or 2 shillings a week."

John R. Clynes, Labor Home Secretary, was present to attest the birth. John McGovern, recently elected Labor M. P. for Shettleston, said it was "a mockery and a shame to see the Labor Home Secretary sitting for three weeks on the doorstep of royalty as a kind of labor midwife, while the working classes were enduring the long night of martyrdom and despair."

Departure of the Duke of York for Balmoral to visit the King and Queen is taken here as the best indication yet of the good progress being made by the Duchess and the newborn Princess.

INDIAN MEDIATOR SAYS SETTLEMENT IS STILL FAR AWAY

M. Jayakar Confers With Colleague, Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, After Conversing With the Viceroy.

TERMS OF GANDHI STILL UNKNOWN

It Is Thought Demands Are Impossible of Acceptance and Mahatma Will 'Stick It Out.'

By the Associated Press.

SIMLA, India, Aug. 25. — Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, Indian leader, who has engaged in talks with Mahatma Gandhi and other imprisoned Nationalist leaders with a view to abandonment of the civil disobedience campaign, arrived here today in response to an urgent call from his colleague, M. Jayakar.

He and Jayakar conferred for two hours immediately, their conversation, it was believed, taking up details of Jayakar's conferences with Viceroy Lord Irwin since his arrival here Thursday from Poona, where he saw the imprisoned Gandhi.

On the shoulders of the Viceroy and of Jayakar, and now of Sir Tej, has lain the burden of negotiations built around Gandhi's terms for settlement of the disobedience movement and, to judge from the worried mien of each, the burden has not rested there well.

"Many Obstacles Ahead."

"There are many obstacles to be overcome before both sides are satisfied," Jayakar told the Associated Press. "The negotiations have been proceeding exactly a month and five days and none can say how much longer they will continue.

"I came here from seeing Gandhi at Yeroda Prison, Poona, expecting a yes or no, but there is no telling whether I shall have either. But I well realized when Sir Tej and I agreed to undertake the mission that it would not be a task of a day and, of course, I am going to see it through."

The Viceroy, although in excellent health, all too plainly feels the responsibility which is his. His features show his anxiety and his conversation indicates his eagerness to have matters restored to a normal basis. He is most inquisitive and during a 40-minute talk with the Associated Press correspondent inquired the writer's views, what he had seen and thought of the home rule campaign in Calcutta, Bombay and other parts of India.

Viceroy Mentions Gandhi.

The Viceroy insisted on the details of such incidents as police charges with staves. He referred to Gandhi several times and, although the Viceroy is never quoted, it is safe to say assume, that he thinks Gandhi a smart man, but altogether on the wrong track.

It is no breach of confidence to say that the Viceroy still holds virtually the same views as when he recently addressed the two houses of the Indian Legislature and referred to the forthcoming round-table conference at London as a sustained effort to discover once for all "the more excellent way in which India and Britain, to benefit from each, can talk together."

Once, also when writing Jayakar, he expressed an earnest desire of the home government and the Indian government to assist the people of India "to obtain as large a degree of management of their own affairs as can be shown to be consistent with making provision for those matters in regard to which they are not at present ready to assume responsibility."

Gandhi's Terms Unknown.

There is much speculation as to just what the letter from Gandhi to the Viceroy says and as to what terms it lays down. The general guess is, however, that the demands are impossible of acceptance and that Gandhi as well as Jawaharlal and Motilal Nehru are determined to stick it out some time yet.

Jayakar said he saw Gandhi day after day while he was at Poona and that he had no complaint to offer as to his imprisonment. Not once, he said, did Gandhi express and unkind word against any individual or bemoan his predicament.

"He is a man in a million," Jayakar said, "although, as is well known, I disagree with his civil disobedience campaign. He is one of the most patient, one of the most considerate souls I have ever met."

Another consideration likely to delay the negotiations is the illness of Pandit Motilal Nehru. Observers see weeks of bargaining ahead.

Critique of Mr. Coolidge's Writings.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

TO date I have read all of Mr. Coolidge's daily editorials. After digesting them, I have concluded the following:

The United States is not only the greatest country in the world, but it is directly under the hand and especial care of Providence. The fact that we not only lived and had our being, but even prospered, during the seven years that Mr. Coolidge was the head of the nation proves this beyond question.

Mr. Coolidge writes his editorials upon a typewriter without making use of a single comma; then he takes a very small caliber gun, loads it with from three to seven commas, points it toward the paper, shuts both eyes and pulls the trigger. If any where any comma strikes and sticks it is allowed to stay. In this way Mr. Coolidge avoids appearing to take any positive stand upon the subject and of seeming to differ with Mr. Hoover's policy, which, as we all know, is to drown his banalities in an Atlantic Ocean of commas.

Mr. Coolidge is the reincarnation, in equal proportions, of Aristotle, Plato, Epictetus, Prester John, Rousseau, Voltaire, Kant, Schopenhauer, Spinoza, Hegel and Haeckel, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Cotton Mather, the Boop-a-doop sisters, Victor B. Himmelschwanger, Henri Bergson and Henry Ford; either this or he is only a rank plagiarist engaged in repeating, from his shorthand notes made at the time, the dissertations of Henry Eighth Pleasantbottom (pronounced Plezzenboom), the former stagecoach driver and sage of Plymouth, Vt. Prof. Pleasantbottom, who, it may be parenthetically remarked, received his name not in memory of Good Prince Hal, but because his father numbered as well as named his offspring, daily held forth at the general store in Plymouth nigh onto 20 years of his ripe old age. He is no doubt the source if not the precise author of Mr. Coolidge's philosophy.

The drouth will be a splendid thing for agriculturists, farmers and all such, because it will cut down production and every one knows that the production of much food so that it will be plentiful is a bad thing for everybody. Mr. Coolidge can truthfully claim that this drouth took place during a Republican administration. On the other hand, considering the individual who tilled his soil, spent his time and money and lost his seed in a crop that never matured, of course, the administration is not responsible for weather conditions.

It is a bad thing for the people to start criticising Mr. Hoover. If they ever began they would never know where or when to stop; they would keep right on until next election day and continue to mutter at intervals even into the eternity of Mr. Hoover's oblivion.

If Mr. Coolidge would give out his daily editorials free and they could be published in every newspaper in the country, the Democrats would win in 1932, even with Al Smith.

GREAT CAESAR'S GHOST.

Forty Years Ago and Now.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

DOES history repeat itself? I recall that 40 years ago we had a severe drouth and lived through it. We had prayer meetings for rain, like we had this summer, and it rained in due time. The next winter God tempered the winds to the shorn lamb, as He will do this coming winter.

And 40 years ago we had to stand by and see National Chairman Quay of the Republican party kicked out, similar to the manner Huston was handled a few days ago. Bootleggers and robbers were very numerous also 40 years ago. Human nature is just the same as it was in the days long ago.

Evils of Hoarding Money.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE continual circulation of money is as important to the well-being of society as a systematic flow of blood is to the human body. What stagnant blood will do to a human body, hoarded money will do to the social body. They who practice it are as guilty of wrongdoing as one who hoards foodstuffs when others are in need of it.

Money is an equivalent to the necessaries of life, and they who possess it control the destinies of the people. Accumulated in the hands of a few, it is like an impediment in the veins, which may lead to a rupture of the brain, or a revolt among the masses.

Without the adoption of a perfect regulation of the monetary system, there can be no hope of ever establishing a permanent employment for all, and society itself is doomed to an inevitable death. The hoarding of money is as great an evil, and one deserving of just as severe a condemnation, as the withholding of food from a starving man.

JOHN M. DOERLE.
Cincinnati, O.

A CONSTITUTIONALIST.

Chief Justice Hughes' address to the meeting of the American Bar Association at Chicago is a heartening message, not only because of the speaker's high professional authority but also because Mr. Hughes, by reason of his office, is in a position to put his philosophy of government into practice.

What is his philosophy of government? Literally that of the founding fathers. The rights of the States must be preserved. They are indispensable to the perpetuity of the Government. Encroachment upon those rights must be resisted.

As to the system of checks and balances and the separate spheres of the Federal Government and the States, Mr. Hughes shows in a luminous paragraph why there must be limitations to the powers of the different governmental departments and units. Thus:

> If the Congress could determine the limits of its own authority it could usurp the authority of the national Executive. If the States could determine the limitations of their power they could destroy the Union. If the President could finally interpret the Constitution for himself executive authority could be made supreme. Somewhere in such a system, with a written constitution establishing restrictions of State power and of national power, there must be a final arbiter, that is, final until the people in the constitutional method prescribe a change, if that be desired.

The final arbiter is, of course, the Supreme Court. Politically Mr. Hughes is a fundamentalist. Paradoxically, however, the old-fashioned doctrine which he preaches is the gospel of liberalism. Moreover, it is competent and relevant, we believe, to point out that his first decision as Chief Justice, was consonant with the theory he has so ably presented in his bar address. That opinion, written for the majority of the court, declared constitutional a provision of the Ohio State Constitution which prevents the State Supreme Court from invalidating State laws upheld by lower State courts if more than one State Supreme Court Justice holds the law constitutional. A State has the right so to limit the power of its Supreme Court over legislation if it wants to and the United States Supreme Court cannot question, void or abridge that right.

The wisdom or unwisdom of the exercise of such a power by a State may be debatable, but, as the Hughes opinion held, it is not within the province of the United States Supreme Court to "intervene to protect the citizens of the State from the consequences of its policy if the State has not disregarded the requirements of the Federal Constitution."

In its comment at the time the Post-Dispatch said the decision is "of particular interest because it upholds the constitutional restriction of the power of the courts to pass on legislation, a check on the judiciary long sought by the school of political thought which so strenuously opposed him in the Senate." That same school of political thought—the liberal opinion, indeed, of the whole country—will find in Chief Justice Hughes' latest address a logical elaboration of that decision.

If, as it appears, Chief Justice Hughes is a constitutionalist in spirit as well as letter the country may well rejoice.

Our solution to the unemployment problem is to have President Hoover keep on appointing commissions until nobody is out of work.

GOV. SMITH WILL SPEAK FOR HIMSELF.

Former Gov. Smith has called time on the persons who, in care-free fashion, sign his name to turgid expressions of their own sentiments. He had to. He doubtless saw, though it has not been generally noted, what they were trying to let him in for. The Smith message faked last week, and addressed to a New Jersey group, contained a good deal more than the part generally quoted, which was a commonplace prediction of an early change in the political control of the country, with consequent general prosperity and happiness.

The message also represented Gov. Smith as indorsing certain phases of the careers of five historical personages. One of these was "Grover Cleveland, whose action in the great Chicago strike emphasized that law and order must prevail."

Probably Gov. Smith would not say that he disapproved of the policy expressed in President Cleveland's historic utterance, "If it takes the entire United States Army to deliver one postal card in the city of Chicago, that postal card will be delivered." But the Democratic Governor of Illinois did not agree with the President, and Altgeld has had, and still has, his partisans in the historic controversy. Gov. Smith, who was not of voting age when these things happened, could be pardoned for not wishing to take sides in the matter. If he does wish to discuss it, he should be permitted to do so on his own initiative, and in his own words.

The Cardinals appear to have filled themselves up again with the Spirit of St. Louis, and if they can avoid leaks on their road trip they ought to come back amid considerable excitement.

PRODUCTION IN RUSSIA.

Thomas D. Campbell, sometimes called the world's largest individual wheat grower, has just returned from his latest trip to Russia with a conception of the Soviet's position in world commerce somewhat different from that of the patriots who recently have been working for an embargo on Russian products. Russia is increasing her production under the five-year economic plan, Mr. Campbell says, but her domestic consumption also is increasing, and it will be a long time before she is an exporting nation. Thus Russia is following the same economic sequence which has helped build up American mass production. As more goods were manufactured here, domestic demand was stimulated. Sale of factory goods in their large and unified territory built up American industries, which later branched out into export trade.

Fear of Russian competition is a dog-in-the-manger attitude, held, fortunately, by only a minority among American industrialists. Henry Ford, holding an enlightened world view of business potentialities, points out that America cannot expect to keep other nations perpetually in economic dependence upon her. Those who oppose admittance of Russian lumber and pulpwood forget that America must conserve her forests or suffer dire consequences. Those who fight importation of manganese from Russia forget that the domestic supply is limited, and that the War Department advises it be kept in reserve for emergencies.

No country can build a stone wall about its frontiers and fill all its people's needs and wants. The United States, for instance, must import 10 basic minerals from foreign lands. Russia, too, with the dream of industrialization fulfilled, will find herself importing many a commodity which nature has not equipped her to produce. The arrival of Russia as a producing nation may make necessary some adjustments among her former sources of supply, but world trade will go on just the same.

CHICAGO'S DUAL GOVERNMENT.

Al Capone is back in Chicago, apparently to stay. He has set up his seat of government in a hotel in Cicero, the notorious suburb run by gangsters, surrounded by his gunmen. The other night he and his crowd celebrated the murder of Zuta, his only serious rival in the Chicago underworld, with an all-night party.

Was the door guarded? Certainly not against the Chicago police or the Sheriff of Cook County. The Chicago authorities are working on the murder of Zuta as well as of Lingle. They did not disturb Al and his cohorts in their triumphal celebration.

Al has returned from Florida for climatic reasons. The climate for him in Chicago is much more healthful since the Moran gang has fled the city following the publicity attending the roundup of suspects in the Lingle case. Zuta is dead, and Aiello, king of the racketeers, has left town, also for climatic reasons, opening to Capone the opportunity of seizing a monopoly of the racket game.

The "big boy" is not in hiding. The avowed leader of the mob which has shot its way to dominance in the golden fields of bootlegging and racketeering, he struts about Chicago with no hindrance and no visible protection except his "secret service." The police? Though Lingle is dead Capone will make "new contacts."

Something new under the sun in this greatest of inland cities. A dual government. Governments not at war nor at peace. The one with the legal and physical force of the city behind it. The other, by murder, illicit trade and extortion, actually ruling that same city. Of course, if there were ethics, honesty and justice, that would change things.

But there need be no blinking of facts, and smug moralizations are not enough. The mass of Chicagoans are helpless. Powerful leadership, public intelligence and less interference with the noncriminal personal habits of the people are forces which would effect a quick change. No European city, model or otherwise, has had to contend with such regulative laws as have afflicted Chicago and other American cities.

FISHPEDDLER AND SHOEMAKER.

In Avella, Pa., two speakers were shot and killed; on Boston Common a meeting was prevented by police and arrests made; elsewhere there were deaths and disorder on the third anniversary of the execution of Nicolo Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti. Nothing could have been further from the wish of those long-suffering martyrs than that the day of their death should become an occasion for violence. Obscure workers in humble walks of life, with utmost patience they lived a paradox of Damiani: "There is no faith without desperation and no desperation which does not hope to the last." Their lives went on the altar of American consciousness, their spirits took guard that such should not occur again. Governor Fuller may have said, "Thank God! it's all over," but history hears the plea of appeal. Before its bar all that man does must stand review. As the case of Sacco and Vanzetti slips into the past it becomes more plain that Massachusetts' legal system failed in its profession to do justice regardless of favor or fear. The cloud of prejudice rises and history sees the good shoemaker and the poor fishpeddler the victims of hysteria.

ANOTHER MYTH BREAKING DOWN?

Wesley Livsey Jones once impressed us as an outstanding leader among the assured elect. He was born in Bethany (Illinois, to be sure, not Palestine, but Bethany just the same) and for more than a quarter century taught a Sunday school class. For many years he has been senior Senator from that sovereign and virtuous State of Washington. At the outset he was known as a firm believer in prohibition and wrote the drastic act under which a mother could be put in prison for five years for a first violation. He declared lawyers who offered to defend, free of charge, violators of his law were breaking their oaths. He assailed the press as wet and unfair. Everything he did and said pointed to his pre-eminence among the chosen. Others might be tripped up in the public gaze, but not Wesley Livsey Jones.

Then like a bolt from the blue on a fair May morning came the news that the Washington State Republican convention had adopted a plank demanding modification of prohibition and furthermore, when informed of the action Senator Jones had solemnly said: "I will vote at the request duly made by the people of my State." We were shocked beyond words, but it was nothing to our present state of upset, also due to remarks of Senator Jones. When asked about the testimony in a Federal liquor conspiracy and bribery trial that liquor runners had donated $6000 to his 1926 campaign, he replied, according to the Associated Press, that he never was told and never knew that liquor money had been contributed.

If that doesn't come from the Ultima Thule of surprises nothing ever will. We wait, wondering what next, and reflect that either Wesley is getting some bad breaks or another myth is falling to pieces.

THE BELLEVILLE DAILY NEWS-DEMOCRAT.

The Belleville Daily News-Democrat, which has published a 120-page issue in celebration of its seventy-fifth anniversary, began life fighting the Know Nothing Party of the '50s, the forerunner of the Ku Klux Klan, and in the words of its present proprietor, Fred J. Kern, has been opposing "fanatics and cranks" ever since. Its founder, the Rev. Williamson Boyakin, a fiery preacher who went West to hunt buffaloes after serving in the Civil War, gave his modest paper the tradition of vigorous editing for which it is well-known under the management of former Congressman Kern, whose grandfather shot deer before breakfast. Among the News-Democrat's early "big" stories were those of Perry's penetration of Japan and the assault upon Charles Sumner. The jubilee edition, in seven sections and eight colors of ink, contains among other features, much local historical material, pictures from the horsecar era and the wrath of Kern's vocabulary heaped on prohibition. On prohibition as on other issues the News-Democrat asserts itself loudly and often. No one can say that it accepts the world with the complacency generally characteristic of newspapers of its size, or any size, for that matter.

AUTHOR OF THE MYTH THAT PROHIBITION EMPTIES THE JAILS.

Corporations as Givers

Recent survey shows extent that corporations help community chests; in 1929 they gave 22 per cent of total in 129 cities; bulk of gifts came from small number of firms, as in private contributions; donations by individuals have increased at greater rate; manufacturing concerns are largest givers and railroads smallest.

Arthur J. Todd in the Survey.

NOBODY bothers much in these days about whether a corporation has a soul or not. In such matters as taxation, wages or responsibility for employe health and safety, law and public opinion make it behave as if it had, and that suffices for all practical purposes. But public opinion touched by social awareness tends to go much further and begins to inquire whether corporations have "bowels of mercy" in the sense of a disposition to support community enterprises for social welfare. Two differing questions seem to be current: Does the corporation assume its fair share of the community burden of social need? Does the corporation dominate philanthropic methods and policies? Another question arises in the offing: Is corporation giving a screen behind which individuals may dodge their community responsibilities?

The community chest has been up against such questions as these for several years, but until the last few weeks has had no facts with which to answer them. Last year the National Bureau of Economic Research was requested by the Association of Community Chests and Councils to undertake a study of corporation giving, financed jointly by some 350 chests, by interested individuals and corporations of national importance.

* * *

The essential lines of the picture presented seem to be: That 32 per cent of the total of nearly $59,000,000 raised by chests in 129 cities in 1929 came from corporations; that from 1920 to 1929 corporation giving seems to have followed pretty closely the growth of the chest movement; that corporation gifts vary enormously not only in gross amounts but also in percentage of total contributions in the several communities; that the bulk of corporation support comes from a relatively small group of concerns, thus paralleling the experience with individual givers; if we except the experience of the Y. M. C. A., it appears that charitable organizations in non-chest cities fare less well at the hands of corporations as do non-members of chests in chest cities, and national organizations in general, and that corporations seem to give more largely to community chests than to disaster appeals even in chest cities; finally, that different sections of corporate industry show marked variations in their policy of giving.

Manufacturing gave over 47 per cent of the total; retail and wholesale trade over 22 per cent; chain stores approximately 3 per cent; banks and trust companies over 10 per cent. But insurance companies offered only 1.5 per cent; while railroads, although their income bulks about 7.5 per cent of the total corporate income of the country, proffered only .3 of 1 per cent of total corporation gifts when the community hat went around.

Even under pressure of the various war drives, corporations used to be very conservative and hesitant about contributing as corporations. Legal reassurance, experience with Y. M. C. A. drive technique, passage in some cases of new legislation, and enlistment of conspicuous corporation executives as drive leaders gradually overcame this initial reluctance. In the last 10 years in the 13 chest cities with records for that period the number of corporation gifts has almost doubled, though the total contributed increased only a little over 10 per cent. Indeed, the rate of increase for non-corporation giving topped it by over 50 per cent.

This seems to show either that corporations have not been tapped as intensively as individual givers, or that their sales resistance is more effective or perhaps that drive techniques have not yet been perfected; for while corporation gifts increase, their rate of increase is pretty consistently below that of individual givers.

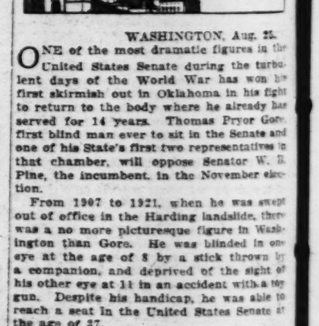

* * *

Apparently corporations on the whole prefer to deal with community chests. In general they give most largely to communities where they employ large numbers of workers in manufacturing; less in those in which they are merely distributers; rarely to communities where they operate only sales branches. Pressure and veiled threats sometimes extract gifts. Dependence upon local good will is a powerful incentive. Perhaps the authors of the report are correct in their hypothesis that railroads give little because they have so recently come out from under governmental control; but a more likely explanation is that they have not yet adopted the new attitude toward the public which some other forward looking public service companies are manifesting.

Further problems of corporation giving must be read between the lines of statistics or be worked out by subsequent investigations involving more intensive field check-ups. Certain very pertinent questions merit early consideration. For example, do corporation gifts fall off more or less rapidly than individual gifts in times of business depression? Did the cities whose chests received, say, more than 30 per cent of their funds from corporation sources grow more or less rapidly than those below that figure? If cities like Detroit, Minneapolis, Los Angeles, Columbus, Rochester receive half their corporatich support from 2 to 3 per cent of corporate contributers, does this indicate domination, a keen sense of community responsibility or an enlightened personnel?

The net impression of this report is that corporation contributions to community welfare are apparently now definitely in the money, but that the norms of responsibility for either solicitation or response are not yet determined. Evidently the community chest makes a special appeal to the corporation through centralizing the demands for giving. While the figures for New York, Chicago and Boston, the three largest non-chest cities, are not strictly comparable to data from chest cities, yet such as they are it would appear that New York charities benefit to the extent of only 5 per cent, Chicago 14.2 per cent and Boston 6.2 per cent of their total contributions from corporate sources as compared with an average of 22 per cent for the 129 chest cities studied.

All the parties to this excellent report are to be commended for their careful scrutiny of facts, their caution in making generalizations, and their disarming candor. It is a pathfinder which should prove tremendously serviceable to the general public no less than to corporation officials and social welfare administrators.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.

ONE of the most dramatic figures in the United States Senate during the turbulent days of the World War has won his first skirmish out in Oklahoma in his fight to return to the body where he already has served for 14 years. Thomas Pryor Gore, first blind man ever to sit in the Senate and one of his State's first two representatives in that chamber, will oppose Senator W. B. Pine, the incumbent, in the November election.

From 1907 to 1921, when he was swept out of office in the Harding landslide, there was a no more picturesque figure in Washington than Gore. He was blinded in one eye at the age of 5 by a stick thrown by a companion, and deprived of the sight of his other eye at 14 in an accident with a toy gun. Despite his handicap, he was able to reach a seat in the United States Senate at the age of 37.

* * *

GORE traces his yearning for a political career to hearing the Congressional Record read while he was a page in the Senate of his native Mississippi. His father, who was a Justice of the Peace, instilled a desire for law in him. Working as a school teacher with the aid of his classmates who read the books to him, he succeeded in graduating from a law school in Tennessee.

Oklahoma soon claimed him. That State regards him as one of its political pioneers. He assisted in writing its Constitution and was chosen as one of Oklahoma's first pair of United States Senators.

He disdains the use of raised type for the blind. He prefers to keep posted on current events by having publications read to him. His hobby is second-hand books. Often in strange cities, while waiting for his train, he has had bell boys take him to a book store where he would pick out volumes that caught his fancy. His library numbers thousands of volumes.

* * *

IN his Washington law office, to which he retired when defeated for the Senate, Gore finds his way unaided through the large office building where he practices. The carefully screened electric fan in his office is the only precaution that he has.

Since he left the Senate in 1921, his interest in events "on the Hill" has continued unabated. It is a familiar sight to see him enter the chamber where he sat for so long, find his way near the place where he formerly sat, and listen to what is going on on the floor. He even snaps his fingers to summon a page just as he did years ago.

Always immaculate in person, he is noticeably light-hearted and seldom, if ever, despondent. He regards his frustration of what he calls a $30,000,000 "steal" from the Osage Indians as one of his outstanding achievements in the Senate.

Of Making Many Books

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

A Masterpiece of Sophistication

PARTIES. By Carl Van Vechten. (Alfred A. Knopf, New York City; $2.50.)

CARL VAN VECHTEN is one of the outstanding American novelists of our day and each new book that he publishes is certain to be welcomed with extravagant praise by a formidable chorus of "authoritative" critics. Heretofore, these have remarked enthusiastically upon Carl's "infinite grace and friendly," have found his work "in keeping with the traditions" of American humor at its best," being "the product of a mind overflowing with ideas that are fresh and spontaneous," and so on. Also anything he writes is certain to be read widely and with eager acceptance, for Carl is "modern" to the last degree.

"Parties" is apparently no less than a masterpiece of the sophisticated mentality. This could be demonstrated beyond cavil merely by presenting a comprehensive list of the many "frank" words and phrases employed by the author with a "courage" that will certainly be hailed as admirable. But it is doubtful if any reputable newspaper would be "courageous" enough to print the list.

Advanced people may be assured that no "reactionary" note is struck in "Parties." Every character therein is indubitably "progressive" and warranted 100 per cent "civilized." Not one of them, male or female, is even slightly tainted with the ridiculous Victorian notion that dignity, restraint, reticence, self-respect and respect for others may have any possible human meaning. All are even more sophisticated than alley cats. They spend their days and nights in speak-easies absorbing weird potions in enormous quantities, spewing foul language and foul ideas. These ladies and gentlemen, saturated with the culture of two continents, always end the day's business in the dives of Harlem, there to "change their luck," as the jocular saying used to go in the old pre-Freudian days of cruel "repression" before miscegenation became at least a literary fashion.

It is not to be denied that Carl is "clever" and that he knows his stuff, such as it is. Anyone who has not been living in a trunk will know that in a general, if overemphasized way, his picture of certain strata of urban society is accurate enough to be impressive and beyond question the diabolically anarchic mood of the book is dominant in the world at large to a degree that should arouse terror wherever there is intelligence, for it involves something lying far deeper in the social structure and far more vital than any question of conventional moral codes. Were there any hint of understanding and interpretation in the tale, its appalling vulgarity would be justified; for there is no theme, and certainly not that of prevailing social phenomena, which may not be treated frankly and with perfect justification, providing the author is aware of vital relations in his subject matter. But here we have absolutely nothing but bestiality not only viewed as complete in itself but treated, in general, as vastly amusing.

As a contribution to the symptomatic literature of twentieth century futility, "Parties" is important; the more so for the very reason that it will prove a source of delightful entertainment to the majority of its readers.

CHANG OF THE SIAMESE JUNGLE. By Elizabeth Morse. Illustrated by Erick Berry. (E. P. Dutton & Co., New York City, $2.00).

The scene of this capital story for youngsters is laid in the primeval forests of northern Siam where few white men have ever been and where herds of wild elephants still roam. The hero is a little native boy, Savat, who, according to the prophecy of an old seer of the tribe, is destined to become a great man in the far off, fabulous city of Bangkok. One night a forest fire drives his people in panic flight before it, and Savat, with his pet monkey, is lost in the jungle. Wandering hopelessly about in search of his family, he has the good fortune to find a female elephant that has revolted and fled from civilization. The boy and the elephant become friends, and Savat with his pet monkey wander through the primeval forest on the back of their formidable comrade. A baby elephant is born and the four continue their wanderings. But the old mother is nearing the end of her life and, after the manner of her kind, feeling the approach of death, she sets out for the valley where the elephants go to die. Thereafter the baby elephant, the boy and the monkey live together, until, one day, they chance upon the village of the boy's people. And, wonder of wonders! It is a sacred white elephant that the little boy has brought home—an elephant for which the King of Siam will give a fortune. After many vicissitudes, Savat reaches Bangkok with his living treasure, and not only is he made rich, but when the story closes it looks very much as though he would wed the beautiful princess and live happily ever after.

The Week's New Films

—:— By NIE —:—

"ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT" was reviewed extensively in these columns when it was shown, some months ago, at the Shubert Theater. It has returned to town by way of the Ambassador where it is on view in all its glory at regular movie prices and all that need be said at this time is that it is the best film of the great war ever put upon the screen and one of the very best pictures, of any sort, turned out in Hollywood.

• • •

Mr. McCormack Obliges.

THERE isn't so very much to the nice, clean little story of old Ireland called "Song O' My Heart" at the Fox but John McCormack is in it and as he sings 11 songs during the course of the film nothing much more is needed. The picture, one of the old-fashioned tales of the sort Chauncey Olcott used to act in days gone by, was made in Ireland and serves to introduce, as well as Mr. McCormack, Tommy Clifford, a clever boy actor and Maureen O'Sullivan, a charming girl who has become pretty fairly established since this film was manufactured. Whenever the action threatens to drag McCormack goes into his songs and everything is O. K. with the customers. His singing alone is worth the price of admission.

For Laughing Purposes Only.

THERE isn't much sense either, to "Let's Go Native" at the Missouri but then it was never intended that there should be for this is a film built for amusement only and it furnishes plenty of that sort of thing with Jack Oakie, Kay Francis, Skeets Gallagher and a lot of other funmakers going at top speed. The story is a sort of serio-comic, melodramatic, musical comedy farce with shipwrecks and wild women all jumbled up in a lot of funny situations and snappy lines. Most of the time the audience is in convulsions of laughter and "Let's Go Native" furnishes enough amusement for a dozen ordinary pictures.

Campus Capers.

THE bright college days must be pretty dreary if "Cheer Up and Smile" at Loew's is a fair example of what goes on around a big school. The makers evidently realized this for when the picture is half over it forgets all about dear old Rutgers and goes into New York night clubs so that "Whispering Jack" Smith, who would be over age as a college boy, can do his specialty singing. Mr. Smith, who doesn't whisper at all, sings very nicely and furnishes the only entertainment which the picture has to offer.

KARYL NORMAN HEADS BILL AT THE ST. LOUIS

The St. Louis Theater this week offers Karyl Norman, "The Creole Fashion Plate," at the head of an entertaining vaudeville bill, and the motion picture, "Dixiana," which, superb as it is in some respects, is after all just another high-pressure attempt to put Bebe Daniels over in a big way as a singing-talking-acting star.

Norman, who has not been seen here for nearly two years, is easily the hit of the show with his routine of sons in the dress and manner of a woman. The program opens with George Andre & Co. in a most sensational and picturesque adagio dance presentation, and it continues with Jack Wardman, amusing and clever wisecracker, with Miss Harriet; the Lander Brothers, who heap absurdity on absurdity in a sprightly play on words—"fish don't sweat"—and the Palm Beach Nights Revue, four or five talented girls, assisted by the Landers.

"Dixiana," the picture, is a lavish spectacle of old New Orleans at Mardi Gras. Miss Daniels, all her demerits, is surrounded by absolutely fool-proof support. Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey provide the laughs, Bill Robinson, king of the Negro tap dancers, does his stuff; Ralf Harolde plays a heavy gambler, and the music and singing generally are well above the average for shows of the kind. It ought to be a great success.

SUABIAN SOCIETY CELEBRATES

SCHOOL PUPILS URGED TO ENROLL FIRST DAY

About 89,700 Expected to Start Term Sept. 2; Supervision System to Be Used.

When the St. Louis public schools open for the new term, a week from tomorrow, the enrollment is expected to be about 89,700, compared with 89,172 on opening day last year. This allows for the normal rate of increase.

The average daily attendance is about 90,000. School officials are urging parents to enroll their children on the first day, instead of delaying. The total registration of individual pupils last year reached 116,276. The difference between the total and the daily average is normal, due to children who remain in school only brief periods.

There will be 152 schools in operation—a white and a Negro teachers' college, five white and two Negro high schools, a white and a Negro vocational school, four white and two Negro intermediate schools, 117 elementary schools for whites and 19 for Negroes, this classification including the various special schools.

The Columbia School, southeast corner of Garrison and St. Louis avenues, will be the only new school building to be put into service. It has 14 rooms and a capacity of 630 pupils. Its cost was about $300,000, including furnishings. This replaces an old-fashioned building which was destroyed by the tornado on Sept. 29, 1927.

About 3043 principals and teachers are expected to be on duty. Many of them will gather at Soldan High School auditorium next Monday at 10 a. m. to hear Superintendent of Instruction Gerling outline educational policies for the new year and describe the significant developments of last year.

Beginning Monday, the reorganization plan for supervising instruction, which was approved by the Board of Education in July upon Gerling's recommendation, will be effective. Under it, there will be nine assistant superintendents of equal ranking—Miss Lillie R. Ernst, L. D. Rader, B. G. Shackelford, Edmund F. Brown, F. J. Jeffrey, John Rush Powell, F. M. Underwood, Miss Mathilde C. Gecks and George L. Hawkins. There no longer will be district superintendents, special subject supervisors and special principals.

Gerling has not announced the division of duties among his assistants. The new plan will free him of much detail work.

Harris and Stowe Teachers' Colleges will continue as public free general colleges, under the plan of limited expansion of their original purpose, which became effective for the last semester, starting last January. While their principal object is to train women teachers, they are accepting boys and girls as general students.

Seventh grade pupils no longer will be sent to the intermediate schools, because the latter have been overcrowded. This class will remain in elementary schools. Eighth grade pupils from schools which heretofore have contributed to the intermediates will continue to be sent to the intermediates. As many ninth grade pupils as possible will be accommodated in the intermediates and the rest will be sent to high schools, where all higher grades will be conducted.

2000 ORPHANS TO ATTEND OUTING GIVEN BY ROTARIANS

Children to Be Taken to Forest Park in Special Busses; Demonstration by Boy Scouts.

About 2000 boys and girls of the 18 orphanages of the city and county will be entertained tomorrow at the twelfth annual orphans' outing of the St. Louis Rotarians and Rotary Anns.

The children, ranging in age from 3 to 16, and representing various religious faiths, will be taken to the cricket grounds in Forest Park at 9:30 a. m. in 25 special busses. Refreshments will be ready for them, including 8000 sandwiches, 4000 bottles of milk, and quantities of ice cream, cake and soda pop.

After being taken to the Zoo, they will participate in baseball games, other athletic events and dramatic performances. There will be scouting demonstrations by groups of Boy Scouts. The outing will end at 6:30 p. m.

The committee in charge includes Jacob Stocks Jr., chairman; Oscar Fisher, soft drinks; John Mavrakos, sandwiches; Alfred Roth, Lee Orcutt and Richard Kerckhoff, ice cream; Benjamin Smith, athletics; John Rohan, dramatics; Shields R. Smith, publicity.

FRECKLE REMOVER

—bleaches skin 4 or 5 shades

At last science discovers a genuine tonic bleach cream

At last science has given us a bleach cream that banishes freckles like magic and lightens skin 4 or 5 shades almost overnight. It's called Golden Peacock Bleach Creme, and it's wonderful!

Golden Peacock is the most important aid to feminine beauty in years. Some 30 eminent doctors and skin specialists experimented for more than 10 years and tried more than 1000 formulae before the right one was perfected. They have found it at last.

Now you may apply a thin, delicately-scented coat of Golden Peacock tonight and awaken tomorrow to a remarkable transformation.

Overnight, freckles have faded. Pimples and blackheads have disappeared. Even the darkest skin is lighter . . . whiter . . . lovelier. In one or two nights your complexion is 4 or 5 shades lighter and you are a thousand times happier.

You take no chances with Golden Peacock. It is a tonic to the skin, its bleaching agent also heals and soothes. Thousands of women have tried it with complete success. And if it fails in its work, take it back and your money will be cheerfully refunded.

Buy a jar of Golden Peacock today at any drug or toiletry counter. Use it tonight. Be wonderfully attractive tomorrow.

MRS. ANNA COMSTOCK, NOTED WOOD CARVER, DIES AT 76

Was Voted in 1923 as One of Greatest American Women; Former Cornell U. Teacher.

By the Associated Press.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Mrs. Anna Botsford Comstock, chosen in 1923 by the National League of Women Voters as one of the 12 greatest living American women, died at her home here yesterday. In her 76 years of life she attained national fame as a naturalist and wood engraver. She was former assistant professor of nature study at Cornell University.

Her husband, John Henry Comstock is a distinguished entomologist and a Cornell professor. His books on entomology, all widely used were illustrated with Mrs. Comstock's wood cuts. Her text books have been translated into many other languages and are in general use in the United States and Canada.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK.

DIARY of a modern Pepys: A note from Tom Geraghty who grows mellow about California "Where cherokee roses play tag with mocking birds." After breakfast perusing my big new dictionary and admiring my desk of glass and aluminum.

So resolved to keep it clear of debris which set the household laughing. Then at work picking "Ritz Carlton" out of many of our towels and Clara Belle Walsh came with her new puppy "Skippy O," a sober sided Sealyham, and I gave up labor for the day.

In the evening with Rupert Hughes to the Lambs and talked among others to Joe Weber, Lew Fields and Gene Buck and home to find young Clayton Seitz and Miss Barbara Cates, a comely lass. And Clayton is returning to San Francisco before going to London to reside, which I regret.

NEW YORK police act quickly when autoists pass a signal. This morning on East Forty-eighth street a gorgeous lady in a roadster was halted. The cop waved his hand toward a curb, but she merely waved back merrily and shot away. The officer burst into a mile-wide grin and more such are needed in this all-too-grumpy town.

COSTUMERS, despite a theatrical slump, are doing a fair business in rentals for dinner parties. Guests representing celebrities is a vogue. One may be outfitted, at prices from $10 to $20, to represent Amos and Andy, Greta Garbo, Helen Morgan, Will Rogers, Ed Wynn, Eddie Cantor, Nazimova, Lily Damita, Mae West and Ganna Walska.

THE most popular is Greta Garbo as Anna Christie. Any thin lady with a long bob in a reddish wig, sweater, skirt and cheap satchel becomes a striking image of the Swedish star. The Garbo influence affects flappers in another way. They talk from their boots in deep bass.

ANn ultra-sophisticated magazine, by the way, lists the two most important celebrities in New York of the season as Harry Rosenthal, a pianist who became a successful actor, and Peter Arno, an artist.

BOWERY lodging houses meet competition employing barkers They tell of one who cries: "Here you are! Nice, clean rooms 30 cents a night! Good warm bed—man just got out of it."

IT isn't a world-rocking observation, but it strikes me 90 per cent of radio announcers—the target for hoots—are as interesting and certainly better mannered than the majority of radio performers.

THE minor passion of a gay flapper who spends evenings cafe-ing is to pencil grotesque and write limericks on white shirt fronts of her boy friends. If anyone protests she leaves in a huff.

HOUSEKEEPING presents problems for the novice. An employment agency yesterday sent a cook. An hour later four little children arrived to announce they "wanted to be with mama." And on top of that some person or one of the dogs has been eating sugar cookies on my bed.

THEY were talking of best remembered movie stars—the penguin-like hops of Chaplin, the startled naivette of Harold Lloyd, the funny falls of Roscoe Arbuckle, the boyishness gaiety of Mabel Normand and the handsome physique of Wally Reid. But not one mentioned what dyed-in-wool fans remembered most vividly—the slumberous eyes of Valentino.

UPWARD TREND MAINTAINED IN CATTLE; HOG TRADE SLOW

NATIONAL STOCK YARDS, Aug. 25.—Receipts estimated: Cattle, 6500; calves, 3500; hogs, 9500; sheep, 2000; horses and mules, 150.

Hogs: Sharply lower trends elsewhere, an increase in supplies, and a poor order demand, caused a slow hog trade at the local pens today. Light and weighty hogs were 10c to 15c lower than Saturday's average, with bids on pigs and light lights 25c lower. Packing sows were steady.

Shippers and butchers, aided by a few packer purchases, bought the bulk of good to choice 160 to 230's at $11.25 to $11.35, while $11.40 was the peak, given sparingly. A drove of 260-lb. weights at $11 was the chief contribution in the weighty division.

Pigs, 100 to 130 lbs., were quotable at $8 to $10, with 130 to 150s, $9.75 to $11.

Packing sows sold mostly $8.50 to $9, with light kinds up to $9.25. Stags were eligible to $7.25 to $8.25.

The arrivals here today were estimated at 9500, a moderate offering, of which 1800 were on through and direct billing, leaving the salable supply light at 7700. Holdovers in first hands were negligible. Supplies at 11 market centers totaled 95,760, against 80,587 a week ago, and 128,932 a year ago.

In the late hog market light hogs were steady to 10c lower than early, with late bulk $11.25; some down to $11.15. Weighty hogs were steady for the day, with 260s to 280s at $11 and 290s at $10.75. Bulk of desirable hogs for the day $10.75 to $11.40. Clearance was good.

SHEEP—Nothing was done early at the local sheep house with exception of the purchase of a few closely-sorted lambs by butchers at $10, steady However, packer bids were lower in accordance with trends at other markets.

The supplies were light and were estimated at 2000. Holdovers in first hands were 41. Receipts at 11 markets totaled 107,400, against 84,105 week ago, and 96,084 year ago.

Quotations: Slaughter Stock—Good to choice lambs, $9.25 to $10; medium to good, $8.25 to $9; plain to medium, $7.25 to $8; culls, $4.50 to $5; skips, $2 to $3; good to choice mutton ewes, $4; plain to good and heavy, $3.50; choppers and bucks, $2.50; canners, $1 to $1.25; breeding ewes, $4 to $5.

In the late sheep market there was a good clearance, with prices on lambs 25c to 50c lower. Bulk of lambs, $9.25 to $9.50; plain grades, $6.75; culls steady at $4.50 mostly; sheep unchanged at $4 down.

CATTLE—With moderate supplies again billed for the local cattle trade today the upward trend started last week was continued. Most cattle were on a strong to 25c higher basis and trading was active with a good clearance being effected early. The estimate called for 6500 cattle and 3500 calves, of which 1000 were billed through and direct and 100 cars of Westerns. The supply of native steers was light and buyers readily effected a clearance with deals strong to mostly 25c higher. Bulk were sold in the $9 list with quite a few consignments carrying quality to cash from $10.25 to $11. Top on load lots rested at $11.25. Some show calves from the Missouri State Fair sold from $11 to $12.50, but no criterion of the general market. Mixed yearlings and heifers sold up to $10 and $10.50, with most in the $8 and $9 columns. Western steers ruled 25c higher in an active trade and sales appeared from $6.75 to $8.50. Native cows ruled steady to strong, beef grades selling largely from $4.50 to $5.50, cutters $3.75 to $4.25 and canners $3 to $3.50. Bulls also held a steady level although some difficulty was experienced. Bolognas sold mainly between $6 and $6.50. Vealers maintained an unchanged level, tops selling at $12.75, first cuts $10.25 and others downward in proportion.

Quotations: Range on all—Beef steers $5.50 to $11.75; mixed yearlings and heifers $5 to $11.25; beef cows $4.50 to $7; canners and cutters $2.75 to $4.50; bologna bulls $4.50 to $6.50.

WHEAT LOWER AT CHICAGO ON VISIBLE SUPPLY INCREASE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—An 8,255,000-bushel increase of the United States wheat visible supply accompanied lower prices today for wheat. The increase brings the total up to 182,475,000 bushels, against 176,897,000 bushels a year ago. Good rains in Kansas, favorable for fall plowing, tended also to ease wheat values down and to offset fresh reports that nearly all states are showing use of wheat as feed to an extent beyond anything heretofore expected.

Wheat closed unsettled ¼ to ⅝c a bushel lower than Saturday's finish. Corn closed unchanged to ¼c down. Oats unchanged to ⅜c off and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 7c.

Opening unchanged to ⅜c off, Chicago wheat future deliveries rallied somewhat, and then underwent a material setback all around. Corn started at ⅜c decline to ⅛c advance, hardened a little, and subsequently underwent a general drop.

Acting more or less as a weight on wheat values today, was a decided increase of the amount of wheat on ocean passage, both as against last week and a year ago. There were also advices that the weather in Europe has become more satisfactory for harvesting operations. Besides, continued uncertainties were reported as to the financing of the 1930 wheat crop in Canada, and export business in North American wheat over the week-end was light.

On the other hand, corn crop advices today were increasingly pessimistic. A leading expert summarizing conditions found on a 3533-mile trip through the corn belt said they were a great deal worse than he had expected, and had not been paralleled in 50 years. He added that rains had improved the crop to some extent, but came too late to change the situation greatly. Offerings of Argentine corn today were 7 cents a bushel under United States corn in Southern New England. Oats receded with other cereals.

Provisions were easy, influenced by downturns in grain values, although the hog market held steady.

CRITICISES FAILURE OF U. S. TO REVISE CHINESE TREATIES

Adviser to Nanking Government Addresses Williamstown Institute of Politics.

By the Associated Press.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 25.—Failure of the United States to revise its treaty relations with China in accordance with the new Chinese political thought "actually puts foreign lives and property in China in peril," Dr. Thomas F. Millard, political and diplomatic adviser to the Chinese Government at Nanking, told members of the Institute of Politics today.

It is the intention of the Chinese Government, Dr. Millard said at the general conference on the Far Eastern situation, to press within a few months for a prompt revision of all the old treaties which have not already been altered. He said that the presence of foreign warships in Chinese interior waters, adds to the peril of foreigners rather than diminishes it.

FINANCIAL NOTES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.

John J. O'Brien, president of the Standard Gas and Electric Co., announces that consolidated earnings of the company and its subsidiaries for the 12 months ended June 30, show a balance of $11,802,371 after all charges, including retirement reserve and preferred dividends. This is equivalent to $6.41 a share on common stock outstanding, and compares with $6.70 for the corresponding previous period. Continued drouth has been largely responsible for increased operating charges by necessitating increased steam-electric generation to offset reduced output from hydro-electric sources.

Demand for steel in the Chicago territory continues to gain and sales and specifications on contract for last week were above the preceding week and the best in the last month. Seventeen of 36 blast furnaces in this district are active.

The monthly index of business activity of the Guaranty Trust Co., which is adjusted to allow for seasonal movements, stands at 76.0 for July, as against 82.6 in June and 109.3 in July, 1929, the current issue of the Guaranty Survey shows. The current level is lower than was reached at any time during the brief slump in 1924, though it is considerably above the low points of the depression of 1921, the Survey says.

Pillsbury Flour Mills, Inc., reported for the fiscal year ended June 30 net profit of $2,225,197, equal to $4.05 a common share, compared with $2,814,564 in the preceding fiscal year. Net profit in the preceding fiscal year was equal to $4.60 a share on the common after deducting dividend payments on the preferred.

The Marion Steam Shovel Co. of Marion, O., reported for the first half a net loss of $108,721, compared with a net profit of $300,785, equal to $1.92 a share on the common, in the first half last year.

Columbia Pictures Corporation for the fiscal year ended June 30 reported a net profit of $1,029,958 against $551,823 in the previous fiscal year.

COTTON 13 TO 20 POINTS UP AT CLOSE IN NEW YORK

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Some early selling of cotton on reports of overSunday rains in the Southwest and relatively easy Liverpool cables was quite readily absorbed today, and rallies followed on renewed covering. This seemed to be promoted by reiterated reports that farmers were showing an increased disposition to hold their early receipts and the comparatively small volume of offerings reaching here from the South.

Futures closed very steady, 13 to 20 points higher: October 11.39; December 11.50; January 11.62. New contracts: October 11.15@11.19; December 11.29@11.30; January 11.40@11.41; March 11.56@11.57; May 11.71@11.75; July 11.87. Spot steady; middling 11.45.

Cotton opened steady at a decline of 6 to 11 points on reports of rains in Texas over the week-end and relatively easy Liverpool cables.

There appeared to be very little Southern selling here, however, while offerings otherwise were light, and the market steadied right after the call on renewed covering. This was again accompanied by reports that the South was holding cotton and private wires said that the basis in the Southwest was 25 points higher on Saturday. New December contracts, after easing off to 11.00c under the initial pressure, rallied to 11.10c, with the general market working up 5 to 10 points from the lowest by the end of the first half-hour.

Prospects for additional rains in the Southwest, however, brought in some selling on the bulges. Liverpool cables said there had been hedging liquidation in that market on the bearish ginning figures and poor offtake, but reported an improving demand for cotton cloths from India and China.

The market was quiet but steady later in the morning. The failure of hedging to become more active, coupled with reports that co-operatives were handling an increased percentage of current receipts seemed to be responsible for some buying, while there was further covering which may have been promoted by uncertainty as to showing of end-August condition figures.

BALANCES AT BROKERS UNDER $7500 TO DRAW NO INTEREST

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—To avoid coming under provisions of the revised New York State banking law, several brokerage houses have notified clients that they will no longer pay interest on credit balances of less than $7500. The New York Stock Exchange has recommended such a step and in financial circles it is expected that brokers generally will follow it.

The State banking law was revised by the New York Legislature early this year and the changes arose from the failure of the private banking firm of Clarke & Bro. for some $5,000,000. The revision brought within the category of the private banking act those who pay interest on credit balances of less than $7500.

The revised private banking laws were said to include so many restrictions concerning the operations of those who come under its provisions, and so many regulations concerning the keeping of books and the making of examinations, that brokers generally have been advised to take all necessary steps to avoid coming under its provisions.

New York Sugar.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Raw sugar was easier early today under increased offerings of nearby duty frees. Prices declined 2 points with sales confirmed of about 45,000 bags of Philippines nearby at 3.12 and 18,000 bags for later delivery at 3.14.

Raw futures opened unchanged to 2 points lower with the near months relatively easy and the September position selling into new low ground for all time, at 1.06. The decline was due to liquidation in advance of first September notice day tomorrow, which caused some local selling of the later positions, but at the decline there was enough covering and trade buying to check the decline and prices showed partial rallies in the late forenoon, with the list at midday net unchanged to 1 point lower. Aside from September liquidation and exchanging of that position into later months, there was little feature to the trading, and fresh buying was probably checked by the continued easing in the spot market.

Refined sugar was unchanged at 4.35 for fine granulated with only a light inquiry.

Sugar futures closed steady; approximated sales, 61,000 tons. September, 1.06; December, 1.17; January, 1.19; March, 1.29; May, 1.37; July, 1.43.

ZINC ORE DOWN $1 IN TRI-STATE DISTRICT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JOPLIN, Mo., Aug. 25.—Smelters reduced the price of zinc concentrates in the Joplin market $1 a ton to a basis of $31 for prime Western grades and $30 for floats in the week just ended, but in doing so revived the deadlock over prices that was broken several weeks ago, when the smelters acquiesced to the producers' demands for a higher price.

Purchase of zinc for the week was reported at 3670 dry tons, which is only about 40 per cent as large as the turnover of the previous week and less than one-half of the week's production. Miners refused to part with concentrates on the reduced offer.

Lead price remained unchanged at $65 a ton and the sale was only nominal.

Production continues to mount. Two of the properties of the Evans-Wallower Lead Co., idle since last November, were opened during the week. These two mines are numbered among the best in the district.

BOND MARKET DULL; PRICES IRREGULAR

Peruvian Issues Sink to New Lows on Disturbance in That Country.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Bond trading was dull today, with price movements narrowly irregular. In the investment department, legal railroad and utility issues held firm in meager trading, while a large list of obligations sold off ¼ or ½ a point.

Coincident with reports of the retirement of the president and establishment of military control in Peru, the Government's bonds sank to new lows. Peru 6s of 1960 sold off 4 points and the 7s sagged about two points. Other foreign bonds moved quietly, with traders showing little interest on the buying side.

Convertible bonds mostly held firm. Oil company bonds with warrants developed weakness, however, with Texas Corporation, Shell Union and Transcontinental Oil issues sagging.

In the domestic section, the best demand was for certain railroad mortgage issues. Pennsylvania bonds were strong, the 3½s reaching a new high. Nickel Plate 4½s were well bought. St. Paul 5s were strong, gaining nearly a point. Utilities fluctuated within a narrow range.

UTILITIES AND OILS SAG AT CLOSE ON CURB

Entire List Shows Irregularly Lower Trend, but Some Industrials Are Firm.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Pivotal utility and petroleum stocks in the curb market sagged under selling pressure which dominated trading during the closing hours of today's session. The trend of the entire list was irregularly lower with some of the industrials moving against the trend.

Oils were weak throughout the session. Cities Service closed at 27⅜, off ⅜. Humble was one of the weakest spots, yielding 2⅜ points. Standard Oil of Indiana was ⅜ lower and Vacuum and Houston Oil ½.

Utility shares moved upward during the morning until speculative sentiment underwent a change of heart. Electric Bond and Share, which advanced to 81⅝ during the morning, was depressed to 79½ at the close, a net loss of 1½ points. United Light and Power A suffered a similar loss. American Superpower, American Cities B, International Superpower, Duke Power, American Gas & Electric finished lower. Associated Gas & Electric, Brazilian Traction and United Gas were firm. Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line finished 1¼ off.

Ford Motor of Canada and Mead Johnson were weak spots in the industrial list. Ford sagged 1½. In contrast with its strength last week, Mead Johnson lost 2⅞. Investment and holding companies were firm.

EARNINGS AND DIVIDENDS

Orders, factory productions and other business items, compiled daily by Standard Statistics Co., Inc., New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The usual weekly statistics of industrial and trade activities failed to reveal any change for the better in the general trend of business. Dow, Jones & Co.'s computation of steel production indicates there was a further reduction in steel mill operations last week. Average rate of activity for the entire industry declined to 54½ per cent capacity, compared with a shade under 56 per cent in the preceding week and 58 per cent two weeks ago.

Railroad freight carloading for the fifrst week in August compared with a year previous registered the sharpest decrease of any week since the beginning of the traffic decline last fall. Total of 904,157 cars was 14,178 cars under the previous week and the smallest of any like week since 1922. Geographically, all regions reported reductions in total loading, not only compared with 1929, but also with the like week in 1928.

Electricity production in the United States, an accepted barometer of industrial activity, was 0.5 per cent smaller in the week ended Aug. 16, than in the preceding week. Total output of 1,671,393,000 kilowatt hours was 2.8 per cent below the same week last year, but 9 per cent above the output for 1928. Bituminous coal output, also an indicator of industrial production, increased 4.2 per cent over the previous week, but was 15.5 per cent smaller than a year ago.

The latest report from the petroleum industry was again distinctly favorable. Domestic crude oil production was reduced 16,800 barrels a day to average 2,463,550 barrels daily in the week ended Aug. 17. This is the lowest daily output of any week since 1928. Gasoline stocks were cut 1,477,000 barrels to the smallest since Dec. 21, 1929. Despite this improvement in the statistical position, gasoline prices showed further weakness.

New automobile registrations in 23 states during July totaled 75,386, against 74,253 in June and 126,815 a year ago. Fords registered were 40 per cent of total and Chrevolets 24.4 per cent. Twelve of the 23 states showed an increase over June, but a sharp drop from July, 1929.

The Companies:

Douglas Aircraft declare a 50 cent semi-annual dividend on common shares, placing the stock on a $1 annual basis.

Nehi Corporation July sales were 25 per cent above a year ago.

Orpheum Circuit had a deficit of $60,330 in first half against a deficit of $317,444 year ago.

Reading Co.'s July net operating income was off 53.9 per cent; 8 months 29.6 per cent below a year ago.

Republic Iron and Steel will spend $1,500,000 on expansion and improvements at its Warren plant.

Rio Grande Oil (Del.) earned $1.81 a common share in the first half, compared with $2.46 a year ago.

Nehi Corporation earned 64 cents a common share in the first half, compared with $1.85 a year ago.

Standard Gas & Electric earned $6.41 on the average number common shares outstanding in the year to June 30, against $6.70 in the previous year.

Union Tank car earned 99 cents a common share in the first half, against $1.26 a year ago.

Who Wrote "THE OFFICE WIFE"

THEATRICALS IN A LIVING ROOM.

IT was one of the hottest nights that Stephen Dane could remember. No breath stirred through the open windows and the atmosphere in the room was unbearable, compounded as it was of tobacco smoke, the faintly dusty smell of some expensive perfume, the scent of withering flowers, and damp, tired, human flesh.

The unfreshened air was tense—fine strung as a wire. He felt, striding aimlessly about the room, as if he were walking a tight rope, as if he were poised over some immeasurable chasm, hanging, as it were, suspended—staring at eternity — at something which would never end—never end, but go on—forever—hot, breathless, expectant.

He listened for the crash of thunder which would awaken the room—himself—into life; for the sudden beat of pouring, teeming rain; for the releasing force of nature. . . .

He longed for noise. There was no sound in the room save that of Charlotte's weeping and his own footfalls, light on the thick rug.

Stephen walked to the mantelpiece and took down the tobacco tin which always stood there. It was very light in his sweating hands, and as he opened it he found himself flaming into an absurd disproportionate anger because he had forgotten to refill it. He shook out the remaining shreds and crumbs and stuffed them into his pipe with a hard thumb. All this time he had kept his back to Charlotte. But he could not close his ears to the rhythm of her monotonous sobbing. If only, he thought, exasperated almost beyond endurance, if only she wouldn't . . . snivel!

Well, he couldn't stand there all night, could he, ramming tobacco into a pipe?

Without turning he could see the length and breadth of the room. He need not even look into the mirror over the mantelshelf. With his eyes closed, he could see it—a pleasant room, well lighted and well furnished. There was the long couch, the unnecessary Italian table for which she had spent so much money; a table littered with books and magazines and crowded with framed pictures. There were the comfortable scattered chairs, the superfluous footstools over which he always stumbled, and flanked ferns on the floor by the long double windows which stood open on a scrap of grass, a square of brick terrace, a stunted cedar or two. He could smell the river—a hot, damish smell, sultry and oppressive. Charlotte had a flair for neighborhoods. "The farther east the better," she had said. But you paid a hideous price for two rooms, kitchenette and bath in the "right" quarters.

He tried to put his mind on the office . . . what Ketcham had said this morning . . . the trouble about the delayed consignment to St. Louis . . . the letters Miss Harkness had said she would stay overtime and finish if he wished—but he had let her go home. Where did she live? he wondered . . . he had never asked her . . . curious how little you knew about the people with whom you worked every day . . . with whom you talked . . . rubbed shoulders . . .

"Stephen!"

Charlotte had stopped crying. Now she spoke his name. Her voice had that conscious control he knew so well. It was like fraying satin—one felt that only Charlotte herself knew when it would tear, rip straight across with that silken shriek, half hysteria and half morbid music.

He must look at her.

God, why? He knew what she looked like—in every mood, in every emotion. Tonight, at this very moment, she would look like a tired child, her blonde hair crushed against cheeks wet and flushed from long crying, her eyes, which must ache by now, that hurt, rain-washed blue of bruised delphiniums. She was always pretty—in a temper; in an abandonment to disappointment, or grief; in her rare moments of tenderness—eating, sleeping, waking, talking, laughing, sullen, animated, she was a pretty woman.

"Stephen!"

* * *

HE turned and faced her. The unlighted pipe was set between his teeth. He thrust out his chin a little. It gave him the look of a belligerent, only partially defeated, schoolboy. A woman who loved him would have wanted to go to him swiftly; would have taken his young, lean face, fixed in its expression of mingled weariness and pugnacity, and hidden it against her breast.

"Well, what is it?"

"Oh, don't take that tone. . . . I'm sick and tired of it!"

"What other tone do you expect me to take?" he jerked out idiotically, and began walking up and down again. His tall, spare figure paced as stiffly as a mechanical doll, slightly stoop-shouldered. He was thinking that the rug he crossed and recrossed, was forced to tread upon, was still unpaid for. The bill for it lay, with a small heap of other bills, upon the floor at Charlotte's feet.

He had thrown them there, half an hour ago.

"I don't care," she answered listlessly. "Oh, do sit down, Stephen—you make me nervous . . ."

About this time he became aware of the inanity of the unlighted pipe. He felt in his pocket for the lighter Charlotte had given him upon the recent fifth anniversary of their marriage—the bill for it lay there with the others—and set the small uprushing flame to the bowl. The pipe did not draw. He swore, under his breath, and went to the fireplace again—fireplaces came high, on the East side!—and knocked out the tobacco against the screen. Then he dropped into a chair which stood there under a tall lamp shaped like a pagoda, and stared at his wife with hot, brown eyes.

"Stephen . . ."

It came to him suddenly that he hated his name—or rather the way in which she said it—drawing it out, lingering over it, as if her voice caressed the syllables, and yet with a hard, repulsed inflection as if her mind rejected the intimacy of it upon her lips.

"I'm tired of quarreling," she said abruptly.

His thoughts got out of hand, commented brutally, with a little hoot of ironic laughter: "The hell you are . . . It's the only kick you get out of living with me nowadays!" But his voice was silent. He was a little appalled at his own childishness, his intense irritation. Lord, how hot it was!

"Tired," Charlotte repeated reflectively. "It's always the same story: this business of quarrel, quarrel, quarrel; over a few petty bills."

Stephen looked toward the envelopes on the floor. Blue, white, buff——

"Petty?" They mount up, Charlotte—there's a thousand dollars worth of pettiness right there."

"I can't dress on imagination," she reminded him, "and if you expect me to entertain decently this place has to look like something. We needed that rug . . . the velour chair was impossible—it had to be reupholstered . . . there's always something . . . things wear out, Stephen."

He said slowly, looking at her across the room:

"Yes, I admit that."

* * *

THINGS were worn out. Their marriage was as shabby as motheaten by the years, by intimacy as the velour chair had been. You can't reupholster marriage, he thought, and laughed aloud. Conscious of the quick dart of her eyes toward his, of her lifted brows, he wondered uneasily if he were going insane. The spurt of laughter died. But that was really funny, comic as the devil—a reupholstered marriage: furtle doves and mother of pearl lutes on a rosy tapestry faintly shot with gold . . .

You'd have to get the gold in somehow, the metallic, important gleam of it—the menace of it; and the damned necessity.

"Funny, isn't it?" she asked.

"Very," he assented gravely, and fell to looking steadily at her. Looking through her, she thought impatiently, and she stirred on the couch, straightened her rather short back against the down cushions, and stared back at him, hostile, defiant.

They had been married for five years. For five years they had been husband and wife. And as he looked at her, despising her, she was as virgin to him, as undesired and undesirable, as any strange woman he might pass, hurrying, in the street.

He knew her moods. He knew her surface thoughts and her shifting emotions. Once, he had thought of her as a goddess, stooping to his supplications—a goddess to be adored and placated, to be worshiped with sacrifice.

Five years ago.

* * *

HE looked beyond her — five years beyond. He was back again walking under the elms of the old New England town; the walls, the buildings of the university were all about him. He drew so near the past in one swift all encompassing movement that he could smell the spring wind and the silver scent of stars. It had been in May, had it not? Yes, early May . . . and he had gone into the drug store that night with a half dozen other men, laughing and talking. And there he had seen her for the first time, helping out behind the counter . . . very blond she was, with the bloom of a ripened peach about her.

He had been 21, and she was three years older.

He was still staring at her. Suddenly, as if his unseeing eyes tormented her beyond endurance, as if they were knives, ripping, her partial control broke. The satin of her voice tore, across and across. She flung out, hysterical, shrilly musical:

"Oh, let's end it!"

"End it?" he parroted stupidly, coming back with a wrench to the lighted room, the river smell, the hot June night, the hills on the floor, and the woman. Back to the woman who was five years and a million miles removed from the laughing girl in a New Haven drug store—the woman who was ruining him with her extravagance, her demands, her hysteria, and her . . . contempt.

"Divorce. We can get a divorce," she explained flatly.

His hand, which had lain suline on the arm of his chair, jerked upward stiffly, as if by some astonished, undirected compulsion of the muscles. It was a gesture of rejection and distaste.

"Divorce? Divorce?" His voice rose, emphasizing his utter incredulity. "Are you crazy?"

"No, but I shall be soon, if this keeps on. See here, Stephen—" She leaned forward, the light on her hair, her cleverly painted mouth—a little too small, a little too full—set in a straight line, and her incredibly lovely voice turned crisp, matter of fact. "See here . . . I'm sick of it all. So are you. You don't care for me any more . . . you've as much as said so. We'd both be better off, free. Oh, for heaven's sake dont look so pained. People do get divorces, you know, and the skies don't fall! What's the use of dragging on this way, together? No one would be hurt by it. We haven't any children—"

He looked at her in futile anger. Children! How plaintively she said it, almost reproachfully. Of course they hadn't any children. She'd been lucky . . . having refused to bear them. That refusal was like an unhealed wound in his essentially domestic nature—a wound that had festered all these years.

"You'd be rid of me," she said, faintly vicious, "and I'd no longer be—what did you call me tonight? —a millstone around your neck . . . a parasite . . . bloodsucker . . ."

"You cant divorce me," he answered doggedly. "I've been faithful to you."

"I wonder?" she asked softly, in order to irritate him. If only she could get him really angry—crashingly, smashingly angry. His temper was slow to arouse, but terrible when unleashed. "I wonder?" she repeated again. But she did not wonder. She knew.

"What the hell do you mean?"

"Don't swear at me. I don't mean—anything. You don't have to be untrue to me, you know . . . even . . . technically . . . legally . . . I wouldn't ask you to sacrifice yourself . . . do anything so distasteful," she promised, gently mocking the fastidiousness in him which she recognized and resented. "There are other states, Stephen; other countries."

"And who," he asked, with a sudden deadly courtesy, "who is to pay for this—whim?"

Charlotte laughed.

"You, my dear. You should be glad to—at any price."

"Well, I won't," he denied, inadequately, "so you may as well stop yapping about it . . . its a waste of time . . . breath . . ."

CHAPTER II.
REPROACHES

NOW she went from laughter to sullenness . . . from sullenness to an amazing, incoherent garrulousness. The words poured from her bitten lips, cutting, chafing, bruising. He listened, at first in authentic despair, longing, with an unfamiliar weakness, to put his hands over his ears, to run from the room, to strike her across the mouth—anything to curb that tumbling, acid Niagara of reproaches.

"Can't you see it's the sensible thing? The only thing? To drag out our lives like this, day after day, year after year—oh, impossible! Impossible! I tell you, you must let me go! I'm unhappy, I tell you—unhappy. My God, what do I do with myself! Get up in the morning, muddle through the day somehow, doing stupid things, seeing stupid people. If I do manage to have a good time, for a little while, it's because I'm doing something or being with someone you disapprove of; and I dread to tell you because it only means another argument . . . when you come home . . . and how do you come home? Tired, bored, grouchy . . . sitting opposite me at the table, not knowing half the time what you're eating—not caring, unless it's something I happen to like—something different—out of season! Then you notice it enough to kick at it . . . at the expense . . . a few extra cents. And after dinner . . . just watching you read your paper and yawn . . . fall asleep in your chair . . . wake up with a headache. What do you talk to me about when you do talk? The weather, the newest murder, the office—the office! I hate your damned office! I'm sick to death of it! What do I care about prices and sales and consignments? What I do I care about accounts and troubles with salesmen, and what that old fool Ketcham said to you? Important . . . what's so important about it? If you had any ambition, if you had any brains you'd be in Ketcham's shoes now—not that that would get you very far! But you're content to plod along and take the orders he gives you and the bawlings out and listen to his kicking. Do you remember what you promised me when we were first married? You promised me you'd get ahead, that nothing would stop you . . . how if I'd be a little patient at first . . . patient . . . you'd give me everything—everything I wanted!"

She stopped, gasping, for sheer lack of breath. He had listened, reluctant in the beginning. Then he had been too amazed to interrupt her. Now, no longer even faintly angry, he asked her with wonder and a curious gentleness:

"What do you want, Charlotte?"

As if his question released a spring, aroused some motive power, she sprang up and fled across the room. The light caught the cut-steel buckles on her slippers, glanced from the long jet earrings which hung almost to her shoulders—the light shone on the soft white throat which her dark dinner dress left uncovered. She stopped, within arm's length of him. Her breast was agitated, her eyes distended, a little insane. One hand, his rings upon it, was flung toward him.

He thought, watching, what an actress she'd make—what an actress she is . . . how she loves a scene!

"Want . . . I want . . . what you promised . . . everything! Life, color, music, jewels, laughter, clothes, houses, trips abroad, servants . . ." She stopped as if aware of her inadequancy to cage words the life she panted for, that she capitalized as Life! "You promised," she repeated, like a frantic child, "and you failed me . . . failed me . . ."

* * *

"FAILED?" He thought of the office, the place she hated. He thought of his drudgery, of her ceaseless, restless extravagance, of the continuous leakage of his hard-won resources. He thought of her open scorn of him—other men made money, she had often flung at him, other men played the market, took risks, succeeded—other men . . .

"Failed . . . I . . . I've provided for you, Charlotte."

"Oh, provided." She stood panting, a hand on the back of a chair. The velour chair, he noticed, with the curious attention to trivial detail that is woven through absorption in personal emotion. "How well? Oh, they raise you—what is it?—three hundred, five hundred, a year. You take it and say, 'Thank you so much.' They put anyone in ahead of you. When Lewis died, did you get his place? Not you! You'd been his assistant, but Ketcham got the job—Ketcham, who came to the company after you did!"

Useless to explain—useless "Other men."! Useless to tell her —had he not told her, again and again?—"If you'd helped, if you'd sacrificed and saved, I might have gotten ahead. Always you've been unwilling to share the burden. You've spent as fast as I could make. Faster. I could have gotten that San Francisco job—a big chance. But you wouldn't move; wouldn't leave New York . . . and your friends. Friends . . . my God! And I didn't dare take the risk of getting out and looking elsewhere. Only men with anchors to windward, with savings back of them, dare to take risks and get away with them."

Useless. So he said nothing.

Now her voice dropped. Only a rising flush scarred her smooth cheeks like a new burn, betrayed her still mounting excitement. She spoke with controlled savagery.

"I'm through. I'm going to leave you."

He rose and confronted her. He said, staring, haggard:

"No!"

She looked at him a moment. Then she turned and walked from the room. He heard their bedroom door close, with a slam.

The storm was gathering outside. He heard the distant drums of the thunder, the first scattering, heavy drops of rain. He went to the window, shut it automatically, and stood there looking out. As he did so the sky was ravaged by lightning.

Charlotte was afraid of thunderstorms. He remembered that thunderstorm, a scant few weeks after they'd met—the thunderstorm which drove her into his arms. He recalled how he had held her, scarcely daring to breathe for the sweetness of her nearness, the touch of her hot hands, the clinging of her pliant body. He remembered how he had kissed her, how he had whispered mad things.

He had whispered, "I love you." He had believed it; and they had married.

After a long interval he left the window and went into the bedroom, walking heavily and carefully like an old man. Charlotte was in her bed, her face turned from him, her body huddled under the thin covering. One light burned, rosy. He went about the business of undressing with exaggerated care. But he knew she was awake.

He remembered the things that had been said about Charlotte, in the wise old college town; the gossip when it became known that Stephen Dane was "girling"—seriously. Oh, nothing very definite—just the usual things men say about a pretty girl in a town crowed with youth, transient and forgetful youth.

She'd hated her position, that much he had heeded—the daughter of a druggist—a town girl. She'd hated the men she had known . . . the boys and men of . . . her own class.

So she had married him, he reflected, getting into the bed beside her own, to escape. It had cost him his graduation and the approval of his parents—that escape. They'd been hurt, sore. They'd sacrificed to send him to the university. And he had thrown it all away—his chance, and their sacrifice—because of . . . summer lightning.

Cost! Cost! he'd not done paying yet!

Tonight's storm muttered uneasily, coming nearer. But Charlotte lay very still.

* * *

DIVORCE?

Every ancestral voice within him cried out in warning. Every fiber of his inherited nature shrank back as if confronted with something evil, unnatural. You married. For better or for worse. Generally for worse. But you stayed married. All the courts in the world could not release you.

Damn it, he couldn't sleep!

He'd be tired tomorrow. He would be weary, with that bruised, beaten feeling—that ache in body and mind which always followed these quarrels and sleeplessness. He'd drag himself about the office, half dead. Ketcham would snap at him and grumble, like an old dog. Miss Harkness would look at him with those grave gray eyes and scold him in her concerned yet impersonal manner for not resting, for rushing through his frugal luncheon.

Divorce!

Never!

And yet it seemed to him as he lay there listening to Charlotte's even breathing, that there was something evilly indecent about their physical proximity—their nearness, in the small bedroom, divided by a hand's breadth of floor space.

Outside, the storm broke. The thunder crashed, and the rain pelted down, healing, cool, rivers and rivers of it.

CHAPTER III.
TABLES FOR TWO

IN the morning, while the water for his bath was running, Stephen went into the kitchen, where, tall and lean in his belted dressing gown, he filled the percolator and set it over the gas flame. Returning to the bedroom, he found Charlotte as he had left her; sleeping deeply, surrendered to her unfathomable dreams.

When he was ready, he sat down at the decorative kitchen table to make himself toast and drink the scalding coffee. The orange juice had been squeesed the night before by the part-time maid and left in the icebox. Stephen ate and drank, without enjoyment, his eyes on the morning paper propped up against the percolator. His shaving mirror had shown him a lined face, dry skinned, the eyes darkly shadowed. He did not feel rested after his short, restless sleep. He had gone to bed tired, had arisen tired, and would be tired all through the day.

When he had finished, he put the few dishes in the sink and set Charlotte's waiting tray with toast, coffee, and fruit juice. Then he carried it to her, a mechanical action, part of his daily routine, as much a part of it as signing letters at the office.

Charlotte was awake. She yawned and stretched between the sheets, like a lazy cat. When he entered she thumped up her pillows and lay back against them, regarding him with indifferent eyes. Stephen set the tray on the

"No." Charlotte set her lips, damaging their painted curve. "No. Thanks a lot. But he'll have to pay. It's only fair."

"Tired." Charlotte repeated reflectively. "It's always the same story: this business of quarrel, quarrel; over a few petty bills."

"Divorce," Charlotte explained. "We can get a divorce."

A Novel of Modern Youth

By KATHARINE BRUSH

CHAPTER 47.

"YOU'RE quiet this evening."

"Am I?" I didn't mean to be."

She thought. "I mustn't be quiet. I must talk." Carter Thayer liked girls who talked, who laughed and made him laugh—female court jesters. Once upon a time, feeling quiet, she would have kept quiet, caring not one whit whether she pleased him or displeased him. But then, once upon a time she would not have been with Carter Thayer at all. . . .

She took two swallows from her highball glass, set it down, folded her milky arms on the edge of the table. She smiled confidentially. "Do you know what I am thinking of?" she said. "I was thinking that I ought to get tight tonight, to celebrate—because a year ago today I got my divorce."

"Is that a fact!" said Thayer. "Well!" He leaned down, groping under the table; for a moment Gay could see nothing of him but a shoulder, an arm five fingers that steadied him, and a slant-wise portion of his chubby face, the eye gleaming roguishly. Then he was sitting erect again, uncorking a brown quart bottle. "That calls for a little service!"

He strengthened her highball mightily, and poured himself half a glassful of straight liquor. There now! Drink up! Many happy returns!"

They both drank.

I never met your husband," remarked Thayer after he had replaced the bottle. 'What sort of a seed was he, anyway?"

"Oh—I don't know. I don't know just how to describe him. He—" She broke off, her eyes fixed thoughtfully on her companion. "You wouldn't have liked him," she said. What she meant was that Alan would not have liked Thayer.

"Why not?" he inquired, but without interest. His ever-restless small black eyes, wandering away from Gay, had spied a friend at a nearby table. "There's Ruby Rinehart," he announced. And shouted, "Ya-ay Ruby!

A stagy brunette in a shred of crimson gown turned her head languidly, smiled without any marked enthusiasm, wiggled long, lazy pale fingers with lacquered nails in a little salute.

"That's Harry Fallon with her." said Thayer. "Fallon, he's a big financier, friend of mine. Pardon me just a sec, Gay. I want to hop over and say hello to them." He paused, standing beside his chair. "Do you mind?"

"Be right back," he promised. And went. Idly, from her seat at the table, Gay watched him go: a stout, short young man of perhaps 30, with dark hair already quite sparse on top, with a face unhealthily, unpleasantly pink—barber-shop pink—and a strutting walk.

• • •

GAY'S red mouth curled a little. Her lashes dropped down, veiling the half-amused scorn in her dark eyes. She tapped her cigarette on the grooved glass ash tray, continued to tap it long after the ashes had fallen from its end.

"Never," she said to herself. "I'd take in washing first."

Carter Thayer's call at the table of the stagy brunette was not long. When the band bleated the first bars of a syncopated tune he returned, and commanded Gay to dance with him. They squeezed themselves on to the floor.

"I was talking to Fallon," said Thayer. "He—Ouch! Hire a hall, you big ox, you!" (This to a colliding collegian, but low enough so that the collegian did not hear.) "I was talking to Fallon. He tells me Miskall Motors took another flop today. Five points lower at closing. Did you know it?"

"No, no, I—didn't."

"Rotten break," commiserated Thayer.

Gay said nothing. Five points. five points. It was knocking in her pulses. Five points. five points. The orchestra was playing it, and her silver shoes were moving to its beat.

"But you should never buy on margin," went on Thayer. "Unless it's an absolutely sure-fire thing" ——

"This was supposed to be a sure-fire thing."

"Yes—supposed to be! All I have to say is," said Thayer, "this broker of yours must be either a half-wit or a crook. Now if you'd asked me"——

"I didn't know you then," Gay reminded him wanly. Her hand slid from his shoulder. She turned toward their table. "Let's sit down a minute, Carter. I—need a drink."

They sat down. Thayer reached for the bottle again, again replenished her highball, and added ice. "Poor little girl," he said, patting her hand. "It hits you hard, doesn't it? I had no idea"—— His hand covered hers and pressed it. "What's the matter, baby? Broke? Because, if that's all, you know your Uncle Carter will be tickled to death to help you out" ——.

"No," she interrupted hurriedly, "no, thank you. I'll get along all right." Abruptly, her shoulders straightened, her soft chin lifted. "I'm not broke," she said coldly. "How absurd!"

"Oh," said Carter. "Well, I just" —His voice dwindled off.

They drank and smoked in silence for a moment.

"Here comes Billy," said Carter then. "Hello, Billy! How's the boy?" He was on his feet, hospitable, effusive. "Have a chair, Billy! Have a drink! I've got some real old stuff. I think you'll like it. You know Miss Leonard, don't you? She's been up here with me before."

• • •

BILLY PATERSON, owner and proprietor of this supper club, greeted Gay and sat down at the table—albeit with the air of one who would not remain there very long. "Thanks," he said, "don't mind if I do. Just a touch, though, just a touch—whoa! Nuf! I've got to work tonight yet, don't you know that?"

"Work?" echoed Thayer jocularly. "You call singing a few songs and introducing half a dozen entertainers work?"

"If you think it's not, you're cuckoo," said Paterson laconically.

He sampled his drink regarding Gay over the rim of his glass. "How're you tonight?" he asked her.

"Very well, thank you."

Carter Thayer, who had been watching him anxiously, now requested his honest opinion of the Scotch.

"It's all right," said Paterson. "Cut some. I've got better. You ought to buy your stuff from me, Carter."

"Can't afford to," retorted Carter, and beamed to show that this was merely humorous.

"You have quite a crowd tonight," remarked Gay.

"Good crowd," agreed Paterson. His eyes loitered over it, gloating. Then his forehead furrowed. "Say," he said, addressing Carter, "what d'you think of this? Bernice quit. Quit cold. Walked out on me"—— he snapped his fingers, "just like that."

Carter was properly appalled. "No!" he exclaimed.

"She did."

"For good?"

"You're right, for good!" cried Paterson indignantly. "You think I'd take her back? And on a Saturday night, with a lot of convention boys from the sticks in the house? Huh! Not if she came begging on her hands and knees I wouldn't! Let me tell you, that kid is' through as far as my cafe is concerned."

"Is that a fact!" said Carter Thayer. He regarded Paterson admiringly, as though he found his attitude in the matter of Bernice quite magnificent. "Who you going to get?" he queried.

Paterson shrugged. "Don't know yet. I'm not worrying any. As soon as the word goes around that Bernice is out, they'll be flocking in here by the dozen, crying for the job."

"What sort of a job is it?" Gay said idly, blowing smoke.

Carter turned a rebuking glance upon her. "Why, Gay, you remember Bernice—used to be the hostess up here? Sure you do! Tall girl, black eyes, looked like a Spaniard—"

"Oh, yes. The hostess. I didn't remember her name. She was very pretty, I thought," added Gay.

"Yah," said Paterson grudgingly. "she was. I'll give her that. But looks are cheap. They're a drug on the market." He drained his drink, thumped the glass down. "What I want," he mused, aloud, "is looks and class. Bernice didn't have the class. She couldn't even fake it. One minute she'd talk like a duchess or something, and the next minute she'd forget and say 'Thoity-thoid Street.'" Paterson moodily wagged his sleek vaselined head. "No good. Not for me. I'd have let her go pretty soon anyway. You see the kind of place I've got here. Smart. Smartest supper club in town. Smartest, dressiest crowd, and the most refined. And I got to get a hostess to match."

• • •

HE gazed suddenly at Gay. He stared at her, as though he had not seen her before. And she stared back. She thought. "Why don't I look away? He'll think I'm interested—" But she did not look away. She could not.

Neither of them said anything at all.

Carter Thayer broke the short pause. "Have another little jolt, Billy?"

Paterson's eyes shifted. "No. No, thanks. I got to be moving on." He stood up; made as if to leave the table; hesitated. He ignored Gay, speaking carelessly but quite distinctly to Carter. "If you hear of anybody you think might do," he said, "tell her to see me. I'll pay a hundred a week to the right party."

He nodded, and was off, lounging along the crowded aisle between the fence of chair backs. . . . smiling, stopping, shaking hands. . . .

MOTHER GOOSE RHYMES—FOR GENERATIONS CHILDREN HAVE BEEN DELIGHTED AND AMUSED BY THE "RHYMES OF MOTHER GOOSE".. IN EARLY COLONIAL DAYS A FINE OLD BOSTON GRANDMOTHER, ELIZABETH GOOSE, ORIGINATED THESE RHYMES AND SANG THEM TO HER GRANDCHILDREN.. MOTHER GOOSE'S SON-IN-LAW, A BOSTON PRINTER, IN 1719 COLLECTED THESE RHYMES AND PUBLISHED THEM IN BOOK FORM..THEIR FAME SPREAD, UNTIL TODAY THE "RHYMES OF MOTHER GOOSE" IS STILL A BEST SELLER AMONG CHILDREN'S BOOKS.—

The FIRST TRUNK

IN ENGLAND PEOPLE PUT THEIR CLOTHES IN BOXES..WHEN THE PILGRIMS ARRIVED THEY DIDN'T HAVE ADEQUATE TOOLS TO MAKE SMOOTH LUGGAGE BOXES, SO THEY BURNED OUT STUMPS OF TREE TRUNKS, AND FASTENED A LID ON WITH LEATHER HINGES.. AMERICANS HAVE CALLED THEIR "LUGGAGE BOXES" TRUNKS EVER SINCE THAT TIME..—

"BARNSTORMING"—IN THE EARLY DAYS THERE WERE NO LICENSED THEATERS OR HALLS..THE TROUPES OF STROLLING PLAYERS HAD TO OBTAIN PERMISSION TO PERFORM IN BARNS. THE ACTORS TERMED THEIR TOURS AS "BARNSTORMING" AND THEY WERE CALLED "BARNSTORMERS".—

ALIMONY

By Faith Baldwin

night table between their beds. He looked at her and perceived that her face was undisfigured, that it bore no signs of her tempestuous weeping, her emotion of the night before.

She murmured something — a makeshift greeting—asked him, casually:

"You won't be late tonight? We have the Warrens coming."

He nodded. At this juncture it was his custom to stoop over her and brush her unresponsive lips with his own. This morning he did not, but stood there beside the bed, awkward, uncertain. The kiss was so much a part of the routine that it embarrassed him to withhold it. Yet, did a man kiss a wife who had informed him that she would presently divorce him?

The question rose in his mind and appeared comic. Did it belong in a book of etiquette or . . . ask me another? He smiled, not very pleasantly.

But Charlotte was lifting her face, as automatically as she had offered it to him for uncounted mornings in the past. And, as mechanically, although conscious of a vague, resentful astonishment, he leaned down and touched her cheek with tight-closed lips.

A moment later and the outer door closed behind him.

• • •

CHARLOTTE ate her breakfast, glancing at the newspaper he had brought in, then, setting the tray aside, she lay back and considered the coming day. She must market—by telephone — for tonight's dinner. She must remember to ask Eliza, the maid, if the best dinner napkins and the Florentine lace cloth were clean. She must attend to flowers and new candles—lavender candles, she thought, and, if procurable, mauve and yellow sweet peas.

She was lunching with Helene Carter, and they could take in an early motion picture show.

Helene was Charlotte Dane's closest friend. They understood one another—were foils, complements. Helene was brunette to Charlotte's blonde, steel to her satin, vivacity to her languor. She had divorced Jim Carter some time ago and lived alone in an atmosphere of subdued and wistful elegance. Her alimony was more than generous and she was childless, her only child having died in infancy. She was fond of alluding to the three weeks' old infant, her brilliance veiled in the gauze of suggested tears, and her voice poignant .... "If Sonny had only lived." She did not inflict this appealing phrase upon Charlotte, for Charlotte knew. She had met Helene before the baby's birth, and had been made aware of Helene's rebellion and her craven terror.

At the time Mrs. Carter divorced her fat, easy-going husband, it had been more or less taken for granted that after she had "adjusted" herself to new conditions she would take a position somewhere and cut down the six thousand a year he allowed her. Helene had an instinct for interior decorating and, when she was living with Jim, the decorators she had employed in her town apartment and Great Neck house had congratulated her upon her intelligent cooperation and had said, "If only I had you in my office, dear Mrs. Carter!"

But although she had approached several of them since her divorce, tentatively reminding them that this longing of theirs might be gratified—at a price—they had forgotten, or were completely "staffed" or, as in one case, they offered her work for what trade she might bring in at a wage which was, to her, absurd—hardly enough to keep her narrow feet in shoes.

So she wrote Jim that she wasn't well and that her doctor warned her against working. And Jim went on paying her five hundred a month. Luckily, he could afford it. And didn't mind—much—although it took him a long time to recover from a feeling of bewilderment. Helene had had no real case against him. Merely, he bored her. Mental cruelty. And Reno had been fun, rather.

• • •

IT had been Helene who first suggested to Charlotte Dane that she join the ranks and free herself from Stephen. Today Charlotte intended to tell her that she had opened negotiations and failed.

They lunched at a small French place where the food and service were good and the prices proportionate to their excellence. They had cocktails, openly served, a silver platter of hors d'oeuvres, a chicken and mushroom patty, salad and coffee. They smoked throughout the meal and talked incessantly.

"Did you speak to him?"

"I did. He was horrified. Wouldn't hear of it. His face—I wish you'd seen it."

"Well, after all, he doesn't count —nor does his opinion," Helene comforted.

"Oh, yes, he does," Charlotte answered, morose. "He'd have to foot the bill. I haven't a cent, you know that."

Helene pondered, pushing at a lettuce leaf with her fork.

"If you make it disagreeable enough for him," she intimated. "There are ways and means . . . refusals . . . you know. After all, this is the first time you've approached him. Keep at it. It isn't hard to wear a man down. I know. And I've set my heart upon our taking a little place somewhere and living together."

"I know," Charlotte sighed as she looked into a dream future and visualized life with Helene. Helene had friends, many of them men . . . with money . . . attractive men. "I know. But even if he consented he couldn't give me much—he doesn't make enough. He's not like Jim."

Helene shrugged her thin shoulders.

"Steve's no fool—he's bound to get ahead," she commented carelessly. "As his income goes up the alimony can be increased. It's all a question of your lawyer. In any case we'd manage, somehow. Don't weaken, Sharlie—you're insane to live as you do. There's nothing in it for you. You'll be an old woman before your time."

They smoked reflectively, in a lull of silence. Helene broke it, asking suddenly:

"There's no other way, is there? No way in which you could force him? No other woman, for instance?"

Charlotte laughed.

"Stephen? Be yourself! No such luck. He doesn't know that women exist! He never goes out unless I drag him. Doesn't meet people on his own—hasn't a club. The only time he stays away you may be sure he's working at the office, and if he calls up to tell me so it's no alibi. He's there, all right!"

"Doesn't that secretary—stenographer—whatever she is—stay overtime to work with him?" murmured Helene. "The tall girl with the eyes? I saw her once—the time you and I stopped in at the office together."

"Secretary?" Charlotte had an exasperating trick of repeating one's words. "Oh, Miss Harkness? Yes, she stays—what of it?"

• • •

HELENE answered, her tone a little hard:

"Nothing—office wives—it's a canard, of course, nothing to it. But . . . if you wanted to think so?"

They were silent once more, dark eyes intent upon the blue. Presently Charlotte smiled and crushed out her cigarette in an ashtray of jade-green glass.

"I see. Well—you're very clever, Helene."

Mrs. Carter deprecated the praise by the lift of an eyebrow. She looked over their check, tossed it to Charlotte. Always, save for special, designated occasions, they shared, even to the tip.

When they were in the small, uptown motion picture house, famous for its exalted patronage, Helene said, slowly:

"About the money . . . I could lend you, a little . . . I can't seem to save, much . . . But—I could manage a trifle, you know."

"No." Charlotte set her lips, damaging her painted curve. "No. Thanks a lot. But he'll have to pay. It's only fair."

"Very well. I see your point," the other woman answered and kept from her voice even the faintest intonation of the relief she felt, "but, when the time comes, I'll have your lawyer lined up. He is brilliant—he'll get all he possibly can for you. And won't charge you much. I'll see to that. Stephen needn't know how little he will charge. We'll arrange that. Max and I are close friends—he'll be willing. A little extra pocket money won't hurt you. I've recommended Max to so many people he'd be glad to do me a favor."

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN

By Mary Graham Bonner.

Swinging

"HELLO," said the Little Black Clock, "are you both ready?"

"We are," said John and Peggy at the same moment.

"Then we'll start," the Little Black Clock said. "Now, although I have the magic which makes it possible for me to take you on all sorts of adventures as you know, we're not going to have a very special adventure. Not a very special one.

"I thought we'd just have a little pleasant swinging this evening because tomorrow the adventure is going to be much more exciting."

The Little Black Clock led the children down the magic path until they came to a lovely old place where, between two great pine trees, was a swing.

"I've turned the time back a little this evening," he said. "You seldom see a swing such as this one these days."

The Little Black Clock had turned the time back a little. He was going to turn it forward the next evening with the magic that had been given to him which made it possible for him to do this.

A tall friend of the Little Black Clock's came forward and began swinging them in turns.

"There is nothing like someone who can give a person a good swing," John said, as he was swung way backward and forward. This friend of the Clock's had so much strength; and another thing about him that was extremely nice was the way he was so willing to keep on swinging the children.

They had known some people who got tired so easily.

The friend's name was Windy Wind and he wore a very windy looking costume.

The children took turns in the swing and the Little Black Clock sat nearby and watched them, and at times he sang little songs in his funny, hoarse voice.

And then he said they must be going back.

"Remember! Tomorrow evening! We're going to have a special adventure."

Woman Studies 50,000 Mice to Aid Cancer War

DR. MAUD SLYE, University of Chicago scientist, has devoted 20 years of her life to cataloguing the family trees of 50,000 mice. It is her contribution to the medical world's fight on cancer.

Dr. Slye has applied Gregory Mendel's law of heredity in her study of cancer in mice, which science has found closely resembles the disease in the human race.

Her experiments led her to declare that there apparently are two factors necessary to produce cancer, an inherited susceptibility to the disease, and irritation of the necessary intensity applied to the cancer-susceptible tissues.

During most of the day's 24 hours, this small, vital, gray curly-haired woman can be found in a former residence that has been converted into a cancer laboratory from funds derived from the O. S. A. Sprague Memorial Institute. Here amid labeled cages of squealing, pattering mice, she carries on her experiments. Because of her great value to research, Dr. Slye has been relieved from active class duty in the university. She lives next door to the "mouse city."

Dr. Slye first presented the results of her experiments in heredity—the most detailed ever made—to the American Society for Cancer Research in 1911. It was a startling document. Since then she has won many scientific honors.

With less than $50 she came to the University of Chicago at 17, determined to be a scientist. Later she went to Brown University for her first degree, but returned to Chicago for her graduate work.

The study of predisposition to cancer in the human race is limited because of inadequate and inaccurate family histories, she said.

TELL IT —To— SALLY

Tantrums Usually Wreck Marriages—Here's an Example.

By SALLY MARTIN

Dear Sally Martin:

I have been a reader of your column for a long time, and I have always thought that people were foolish to bother you with their problems, but now I am going to do it myself. I do hope you can give me a hand, because I need it desperately. Here's my trouble:

Harry and I went together seven months before we were married. He seemed to be everything any girl would want except for one thing. And that was his obstinate, quick-tempered nature —and his liking at times for drink. Now I am not going to let you think I consider myself an angel, either. No, not by any means. In fact, I'm just as obstinate and quick-tempered as he is. And that's where the trouble lies. Well, anyway, I married him—against a lot of protests.

And all the warnings have come true. During the nine months that we have been married, I have left Harry three times. Why? Only because we'd get into an argument, and in my fury, I would pack up and leave. Well, after I'd been gone a day or two, Harry would come after me, pay my hotel bill and beg me to give him another chance. And I would. That is, he did that twice. Now, let me mention that these two first times he was in the wrong, and he readily admitted it.

However, the other day we had another argument, and this time, I will admit I was to blame. And when I started to leave, he didn't try to stop me. I really didn't want to go, but I was too obstinate to admit it. And I was sure that in a day or two he would be after me. But how sadly fooled I was! He didn't even try to get in touch with me. So I tried to reach him, and after a very disgusting quarrel, I finally made him consent to see me.

Then the blow hit me. He told me that I had left him once too often. That he was through! Now I knew that I was in the wrong and I tried to plead and beg with him to reconsider. But he said I had killed his love by acting the way I did. I begged and begged him. Honestly, I did not think it was in me to humiliate myself the way I did then. But all he would say was 'I'm through!'

Now Sally, since that, I have gone through the agonies of hell. The trouble is that I love him, and I am afraid I will never get over it. I can't sleep nights, I can't eat. I sit around and mope and cry. I even went so far as to write him a letter after I saw him. I thoukht he would have a better chance to think over a letter. But no answer has come yet. Do you think I can win him back? Is he just stringing me to make me learn? Or does he mean it?

I have learned a priceless lesson, and were he to give me another chance, I am sure that a team of horses couldn't drag me away from him. If he would, I'm more than willing to settle down and be a real wife and pal.

Oh! I'm so unhappy! Please be sorry for me and help me.

ROSALIE.

Sorry for you? Nothing doing, youngster. I'm tickled pink that he did it! For, perhaps this will teach you some sense — and save you from infinitely greater heartache later on.

For you've had this coming to you, Rosalie. Marriage isn't to blame. Your husband isn't to blame. You—yourself—are to blame.

Tonsils and Adenoids

FOOD and air are two essentials without which life is not possible for long.

And of the two, air is the more immediately important, since one may survive for weeks without food but only a minute or two without air.

Air is normally taken into the body through the nose and food through the mouth, and Nature has safeguarded these two portals of entry to the body with many ingenious defenses.

But things will go wrong and then the body labors under disadvantages. How prevalent are defects of the nose and throat has been brought to light by the research division of the Milbank memorial fund.

In 100,000 adult, white, native-born males, it was found that in the 20-year-old-age group more than 35 per cent of those examined suffered defects.

With advancing age the prevalence of both types of defects tended to decline, those of the nose less rapidly than those of the throat.

The nose septum (partition) is formed of cartilage and bone and does not alter much with age. The tonsils, however, are formed out of so-called lymphoid tissue, a tissue which is most prevalent in the body at infancy and youth, and which tends to shrink as the person grows older.

Marked obstruction of the upper breathing tract, the nose and throat, leads to mouth breathing, which in turn results in a series of other physical defects and structural changes.

Diseased tonsils, recent studies have shown, may cause disease of the heart, kidneys, joints and other systems of the body.

Both of these defects are of importance at all ages, but particularly so in the growing ages. If at the age of 20 more than 35 per cent of those examined show these defects, it can safely be stated that the prevalence in the ages below 20 is greater still.

This study points to the need for greater attention and care of the defects in the nose and throat of the young.

WHY SO MANY BABIES DIE

By Emilie Hoffman

IN one year about 100,000 babies died in the United States before they were one month old. Appalling, is it not? It is still more so when we consider that this was due to the neglect of mothers. They failed to give their babies good health and sufficient vitality to enable them to live.

What every baby needs is to be born well. He is entitled to good health, both physically and mentally, and it is the mother who must provide this. If she cares for her own health she can be reasonably sure her baby will have good health. There is no excuse for any mother neglecting this. When she knows the baby is coming she should place herself under the care of a physician at as early a date as possible. If she cannot afford this she can enroll at the maternity center or the nearest baby health station and she will receive instructions regarding her care.

She must eat the proper food in sufficient quantity to keep up her own strength and nourish the developing child. Her baths, sleep, clothing, exercise and recreation are quite as important as her diet. The expectant mother should keep calm and avoid anxiety or worry and she should follow the advice of her physician rather than that of her relatives and friends. They may mean well, but they do not know as well as the physician or nurse what are the needs of the mother to assure a healthy child.

Fresh air is especially essential, for the expectant mother must supply blood for two people and fresh air makes pure blood, so she should be outdoors as much as possible and have windows open when working about the house.

A nervous, overworked, undernourished woman cannot expect to have a healthy, vigorous baby. In short, every expectant mother should make every effort to maintain the highest degree of physical and mental health and in this she needs the constant advice and guidance of a competent physician, and when the baby arrives she must follow implicitly the directions of her physician and nurse.

That first month of your baby's life is a danger period. He has a battle to wage to hold his own in the new environment, and it is the mother's duty to see that he is physically equipped to do this successfully.

Women are too apt to take chances during the months preceding the birth of the child, and this is not fair to the baby. As soon as a woman knows she is to become a mother she should center her mind upon the care of that child. A cheerful, happy attitude will help much.

The baby you bring into the world is helpless and he needs an intelligent mother who will give him a square deal by giving him the right start in life.

When on a Visit

If you are a guest in a home where there are servants it would be an act of courtesy to tip the maid. Both she and your hostess would appreciate this. The tip may range from 50c to $2 for a week-end visit, and for a week's visit from $1 to $2.

Grass Stains

To remove grass stains from washable materials, rub the stain with lard and let stand for several hours. This loosens the coloring matter so it will wash out.

Blueberry Cake

Make a batter of ¾ cup sugar, 3 tablespoons melted butter, 1 cup milk, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 2 eggs, 2½ cups flour, a pinch of salt. Blend well together. Put in the bottom of a deep baking dish one pint of washed blueberries mixed with two tablespoons granulated sugar. Pour batter over the berries and bake in a moderate oven from 35 to 40 minutes, or until done when tested with a toothpick. Invert on a round platter and allow to cool. Whipped cream may be arranged on top if you wish the cake to be particularly decorative.

Summer Salad

A nice salad, substantial enough to answer all summer luncheon needs, along with a tall glass of iced tea. Fry lean bacon until crisp and then cut into dice. Shred a head of lettuce with scissors and place on salad plates. Arrange in the center a mound of cooked string beans marinated with French dressing. Around the beans place quartered tomatoes. Over all sprinkle the crisp diced bacon. More French dressing may be served separately if desired.

7 Hours in 7 Minutes

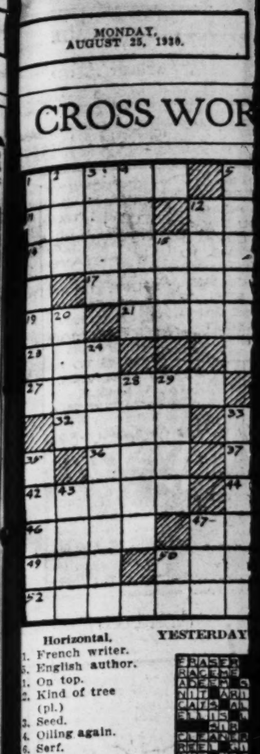

The Toll Acidity Takes

You go to bed dog-tired, but the minute you hit the pillow all sleep leaves vanishes. If you do sleep at all it's only in snatches and you wake out of these "stupors" with a strange, startled feeling, sometimes is a cold sweat. Morning finds you a rag, gaunt and hollow-eyed and barely able to crawl out of bed.

Acidity is due to our unnatural eating habits, our excessive smoking and irregular hours. The excess acid upsets digestion and causes acid-indigestion with gas and heartburn. causes putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal which frequently results in ragged nerves, sleeplessness, logy days and general loss of strength and vitality.

A remarkable new corrective for acidity has been developed by a famous 100-year-old pharmaceutical house in Germany. This new, improved magnesia comes in the form of small white tablets called Magnesia Oxoids which do not have to be chewed, but which may be swallowed whole. Magnesia Oxoids, in contact with the acid in the 7 Hours in Bed and Not 7 Minutes of Sleep!

The Toll Acidity Takes

You go to bed dog-tired, but the minute you hit the pillow all sleepiness vanishes. If you do sleep at all, it's only in snatches and you wake out of these "stupors" with a strange, startled feeling, sometimes in a cold sweat. Morning finds you a rag, gaunt and hollow-eyed and barely able to crawl out of bed.

Acidity is due to our unnatural eating habits, our excessive smoking and irregular hours. The excess acid upsets digestion and causes acid-indigestion with gas and heartburn. It causes putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal which frequently results in ragged nerves, sleeplessness, logy days and general loss of strength and vitality.

A remarkable new corrective of acidity has been developed by a famous 100-year-old pharmaceutical house in Germany. This new, improved magnesia comes in the form of small white tablets called Magnesia Oxoids which do not have to be chewed, but which may be swallowed whole. Magnesia Oxoids, upon contact with the acid in the stomach, generate nascent, or active, oxygen! Now, active oxygen, as any doctor will tell you, when generated within the digestive tract does just the things required for acidity. It stimulates the secretion of the alkaline mucus. It checks the putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal. It exercises a stimulating effect upon the activities of the intestinal walls and aids the movement of the bowels.

All three effects are necessary to the true relief of acidity and Magnesia Oxoids supply them in a perfectly natural manner.

Make This Acidity Test

To ascertain just how "acid" you are, make this acidity test. Get a bottle of Magnesia Oxoids from Walgreen's Drug Store or any other druggist on our money-back guarantee. Take two after each meal. Mark the change in your physical condition—note how more sound and restful your sleep and how more cheerful and active your days. If, after taking contents of one bottle, you don't sleep better and have more "pep" and power, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money.

PERILS OF OVERNIGHT TREATMENT

By Frances Olivier

"DEVOTED READER" writes to tell us that "up until last week she was summering in a wooden hotel by the sea and that there was a minor conflagration in the place and everybody convened in the lobby at 4 in the morning and most of them looked so frightful that it's no more overnight beauty treatments for her."

By which we take it that she means leaving cream on the face, wearing cosmetic gloves and a chin strap. However, what she wants to know is, "Hasn't modern science found some other way to banish crow's-feet besides the wearing of nourishing creams for eight hours at a stretch?"

Science has. In fact, there are beauty schools which condemn the overnight creaming business as being unfair to the skin. The argument being that we cover up our faces and necks all day long under many coats of powder and rouge, not to mention foundation cream, and then at night we plaster ourselves with "masks" and "skin-foods" and what not, with the result that our skins never get a chance to breathe!

Sensible theorizing that, don't you agree? We don't recall that this department ever advised suffocating the skin night after night, but we know plenty of women who lay them down to sleep looking as if they were going to swim the Channel.

A bit of cream about the eyes is really all that is necessary in the way of over-night creaming, you know. And even that can be dispensed with if the cream is left on for 20 minutes in the morning and another 20 at night—in other words, during the bathing and dressing period.

You know many a blackhead and open pore condition is aggravated if not directly caused by the habit of the over-night creaming? One reason why intelligent beauty specialists will tell you to omit the nose and chin when using night creams.

As for wearing cosmetic gloves, this is not quite the season for them. Moreover, there are so many marvelous hand preparations on the market that only the worst cases of chapping and redness demand the wearing of cosmetic gloves over night.

One original housewife we know wears her cosmetic gloves under her work gloves while she dusts. Another clever person wears hers while she reads. Come to think of it, she wears a chin strap at the same time and a frown strap, too. Among other advantages this method has to recommend it is that it can be done in the absence of one's husband. No woman ever held her husband's love by a chin strap—not so he could notice it, anyway.

Bigger and Better Beets

The leaves of red beets should not be cut off too close to the beets or the beets will lose their juice and be flavorless. Put the beets on to cook in plenty of time—at least an hour—and then you will not have to prick them with a fork to see if they are done. You will know they must be tender.

Apple Relish

One pound green apples, one-half pound onions, one pound raisins, two ounces ginger root, one-quarter pound red peppers, two teaspoons salt, one tablespoon celery seed, one and one-half pounds sugar. Add four cups vinegar. Cook all together until quite soft. Pour into sterilized jars, seal and store in a cool, dry place.

To Frost Bulbs

You can frost the plain electric bulbs; take sufficient white shellac to cover a bulb when dipped into it, and add alcohol to make a very thin mixture; dip the bulbs in this or apply it with a brush, making a thin, even coat. By mixing a little dye with the shellac any colored bulb may be produced.

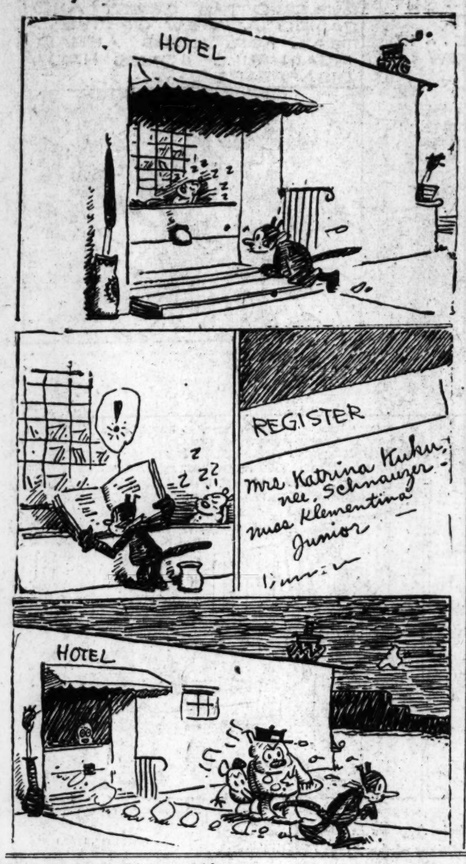

Correct the Kinks

Keep the cords on the vacuum cleaner and other electric appliances free from kinks because these wear on the insulation and are liable to cause breaks. When worn spots appear cover them at once with bicycle tape. These precautions will prolong the service of the cord.

STOCKS RISE $2 TO $6 ON BULLISH NEWS LATE IN DAY

Steel, Heavily Bought, Closes at $171.25 on Report of Increased Ingot Output, Reaching Best Price Since June.

MOVIE ISSUES START UPWARD SWING

Freight Car Loadings Show Improvement — Cotton Higher, but Grain Prices Still Are Weak.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Bullish speculators, who have been trying to bid up stocks on hopes of seasonal improvement in business, were given something more tangible upon which to base their operations in today's market and rushed to send a long list of important shares up $2 to $6.

Report of an increase in U. S. steel ingot output from 62 per cent of capacity to 66 came late in the day as a climax to several developments encouraging to the bulls. U. S. Steel common was heavily bought, one block of 12,900 shares selling at $169. It closed at $171.25, the best level since the June crash, and up $4. A substantial improvement in freight car loadings for the week ended Aug. 16 was another cheering sign of seasonal quickening of commercial activity.

Movie Shares Start Upturn.

Bulls had been encouraged by the scant success of bearish efforts in yesterday's market. After some early unsettlement the list turned upward under leadership of the motion pictures, prompted by dismissal of the Warner Bros. receivership petition on a technicality, and publication of Fox film's semi-annual report to stockholders. Operations for the advance spread to other groups, and short covering appeared in considerable volume. Trading was extremely dull until the advance got under way, and the day's transfers fell well under 1,800,000 shares.

The advance was helped along by conservative buying recommendations made to clients of a statistical organization which had been bearish for some time. Investment of about 20 per cent of liquid funds in a small group of stocks was suggested.

Popular Shares Higher.

Among the high flyers, Byers, Case, Eastman and Columbian Carbon gained 4 to 6 points. Shares closing three points higher included Air Reduction, Auburn, Vanadium, American Can, Dupont, American Water Works, North American and Safeway Stores. Shares gaining about two points included New York Central, National Biscuit, Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, Johns Manville, Corn Products, Electric Power and Light and Colorado Fuel. Coppers and rails eased during the morning, and recuperated only slightly. Final prices were in the main the best of the day.

Fox gained more than 3 points, and Loew's nearly as much. The balance sheet as shown for June 30 indicated a complete reversal of the cramped financial position of six months previously. A conspicuous weak spot in the list was International Telephone, which sagged persistently, getting down more than 3 points.

Grain Lower, Cotton Higher.

Grains moved against the trend of stocks. Wheat dropped 1¼c to 1½c, on an increase in the world visible supply and good harvesting weather in the Northwest. Corn lost ½c to ¾c, on bearish weather forecasts. Cotton, however, was strong, selling up about $1.50 a bale.

Foreign exchanges were inclined to ease, although French franc cases held at 3.96 7-16 cents, at which level further loss of gold to Paris is likely. Sterling, cables dipped 1-16 to $4.86 15-16, and Latin-Americans were soft.

Stock prices, with other tables and market news, will be found on pages 9C, 10C and 11C.
